Sun Man Describes Stupendous Reception Accorded Y. D. Heroes Yesterday

City Thronged To Honor War Veterans—A Continuous Roar as Troops Went By

"Over the Top."

This ever popular and probably overworked expression is really needed to adequately describe the triumph scored by the famous Yankee Division on parade in Boston yesterday. These gallant heroes who since their return to this country have been honored and acclaimed, were accorded an ovation yesterday as they marched up the triumphal avenues of the good old Hub through frenzied throngs of humanity that drove all previous receptions and acclamations into oblivion. These gallant sons of New England who had tramped long, weary miles through No Man's Land and wherever else duty called them were back on good United States soil, and their delight and the elations of the cheering millions that assembled at every vantage point along the triumphal line presented a mighty spectacle, a spectacle that will be recorded in history's pages as one of the most magnificent, tremendous and

CAPTAINCY FOR MOLLOY

Lowell Boy Further Honored After Receiving Croix de Guerre and D.S.C.

Mrs. C. H. Molloy of this city has received word to the effect that her son, First Lieut. Joseph A. Molloy, who is with brigade headquarters, 2d Division, U. S. A., in France, has recently been promoted to the position of captain. This bit of news has been cheerfully received by the mother of the young officer and undoubtedly will gladden the hearts of his many Lowell friends.

Capt. Molloy was among the first to graduate from the officers' training school at Plattsburg, receiving a commission as second lieutenant. He also has the distinction of being among the first of the New Englanders to go across. Shortly after his arrival in France he was assigned to a training camp and then was transferred to the regular army. He saw active service continuously until the armistice was signed and in many instances had narrow escapes from serious injury and death.

For meritorious service, efficiency and gallantry as an officer the young man was promoted to the position of first lieutenant about six months ago and prior to that he had been honored by the French government, which awarded him the Croix de Guerre, while pinned on his bosom is also the Distinguished Service Cross presented by Uncle Sam to soldiers and officers who distinguished themselves in the great world war. During the past month Lieut. Molloy's efficiency was again recognized by the military authorities who commissioned him captain.

Middlesex Board Tells Council It Will Chip In $5000 More For First St. Work

The county commissioners of Middlesex county have agreed to increase the share of expense they are willing to bear in the proposed construction of a state highway in First street, from $10,000 to $15,000, according to a communication addressed to the Lowell council and read at this morning's special meeting of that body. The action is taken, according to the communication, in view of the increase in the cost of labor and material since October, 1917, when the original agreement was made.

This morning's meeting was called at 10:14 and the first business taken up was the drawing of 14 men to serve as jurors at the criminal session.

TANK TO REMIND LOWELL OF DUTY

Overseas Visitor Arrives Here Late in Afternoon From North Billerica

Victory Loan Campaigners Expect To Start Buying Fest on Streets This Eve

One of the big attractions in this city late this afternoon and all during the evening is to be a real, honest-to-goodness, American army fighting tank which, after steam rolling the dollars out of the patriots at North Billerica this afternoon, is expected to make Lowell as its next "stand" and propel itself around the streets here this evening so as to remind Lowell folk of the necessity for digging down, and chipping in money to buy Victory loan bonds and "finish paying the bill for winning Bill."

The campaigners here in Lowell all of whom have certainly put in a stren-ous week, say that the propaganda behind the visit of the fighting tank to Lowell is to remind Lowell people, in common with people in all the other parts of the country, that they have escaped because of the fact that the gallant boys of the 26th and other Hun-landing American army units are scrap-iron fighters than Fritz. Many places, notably the city's banks, will be open this evening and all who want to "obey the impulse" after seeing the tank giving its show, will find themselves in a neighborhood very convenient to reach the place where bonds may be subscribed.

It has been planned to drive the tank through Merrimack, Central, Middlesex and Bridge streets and stops will be made at such convenient places as Merrimack square, Towers Corner, Bridge and Paige streets, Merrimack and John streets and in the vicinity of city hall. Lowell has never seen a tank before and it should be one of the features of the local loan drive. It will be taken off the truck, when it arrives from Billerica, near the loan headquarters in Shattuck street, and although it will be guarded by the police, persons will be able to approach near enough to well examine it.

Good news came from the Harvard Brewing Co. last night when it subscribed for $50,000 worth of bonds through the Lowell Trust Co. It was announced this morning that the local office of the Northwestern Life Insurance Co. had been credited with a $10,000 subscription as its proportionment of the $10,000,000 purchase made by the entire company.

As no reports will be forthcoming from the canvassing teams of the local organization until next Wednesday night when the committee again meet at Edison hall, it is impossible to even judge how the battle is going in the city at large. That all workers are busy and that bonds are being sold and two facts which are indisputable, and as no news is always good news, it is optimistically felt that another million will be added to the ever-growing total by Wednesday evening.

HOSPITAL SOON READY

Com. Marchand Soon To Turn It Over to Mayor

The contagious hospital in Varnum avenue will soon be turned over to Mayor Thompson by Commissioner Marchand of the public property department. The commissioner is putting a few "finishing touches" on the building before turning it over. The mayor will inspect it on Monday prior to accepting it.

LEVIATHAN NEARLY LOST

Giant Liner, With 12,000 Returning Soldiers Aboard, Missed Mine by 30 Feet

NEW YORK, April 26.—The giant troopship Leviathan with 12,000 soldiers and passengers, missed a mine by only 30 feet while on the Grand Banks of Newfoundland Tuesday morning. Her engines reported when she docked last night.

Officers of the ship said the Leviathan had been warned to look out for a floating mine the day before by the transport ship, the USS. The Leviathan was en route to the southwest of the location of the mine as given by the other transport.

The mine machine was sighted, the officers said, at 10:30 a. m. by Lieut. Gen. Hiram C. Hays, who was on the bridge, dead ahead of the transport. Quick thinking and quick action was all that averted a collision. A desperate whirl of the wheel sent the great steamship past the mine with a margin of safety of 10 yards.

None of the soldiers aboard knew until they docked how close they had been to danger, for the officers kept the incident to themselves, believing that if it became known it might cause needless alarm.

Six transports, carrying 2,575 troops, including 15,700 members of the 42nd "Rainbow" division and 4369 members of the 7th "Liberty" division (New York) arrived here yesterday from French ports. This is one of the largest single day troop arrivals in this port. More than one-half of the overseas forces were carried by the Leviathan, which came up the bay yesterday with 12,000 soldiers crowded on her decks. The transport ship, with 575 troops on board, came up the bay shortly after sunrise yesterday morning and she was followed in "hot" water by the battleship North Carolina, carrying 1500 more.

The cruise, Montana with 1505 soldiers, the passenger liner La Touraine with 539 casuals, and the transport Prinz-Friedrich Wilhelm, with 1600, all arrived by early afternoon.

Lowell again leads other Massachusetts cities this week, with the exception of the Hub, in the number of local men who

ORLANDO WILL RETURN TO PARIS

PARIS, April 26.—Premier Orlando and his colleagues on the Italian delegation to the peace conference will appear before the Italian parliament on Monday, according to the Petit Parisien. It adds:

"We are able to affirm that whatever the outcome of this session of the Italian parliament, the premier and his fellow delegates will immediately start for Paris and that the Italian delegation will be in full strength at Versailles on May 1."

WASHINGTON HEARS SITUATION CLEARING

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Italian situation in the peace negotiations is "clearing rapidly" according to advices from Paris received today at the White House.

It was stated that the action taken by President Wilson was "endorsed everywhere." Just what developments were taking place was not disclosed, but it was evident that as a result of the message the tension which had prevailed in administration quarters for the past three days was considerably relaxed.

Explains Plume Situation

Secretary Lane today issued a statement explaining "one or two matters connected with the Plume situation that should not be overlooked." It said: "Plume was not to be given to Italy by the secret treaty made on Italy's entrance into the war, called the London treaty. Under this treaty, Plume was to go to Croatia which is now a part of Yugoslavia, and this is where President Wilson wishes it to go now."

"The question of giving Plume to Italy thus becomes a question of good judgment, and President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George and Clemenceau mutually concluded that to give Plume to Italy would be unjust to the new republics east of the Adriatic, as Plume is the only port on the eastern side of the Adriatic which can be serviceable as an entrance to Yugoslavia and adjoining countries."

Young Republics Need Port

"The Italian claim is based on Italian desire, not on any right other than the claim as its people are Italians they should become a part of Italy as they were a hundred years ago. But to gratify this desire now would be manifestly to wrong others and thus maintain a sore spot on the Adriatic which would cause irritation, Italy with Venice and Trieste can live happily and independently without Plume, while the young republics on the east of the Adriatic could not have a free life without access directly to the world by water."

GIANT GERMAN LINER

GERMAN TROOPS ATTACK MUNICH

GENEVA, Friday, April 25.—German government troops are attacking Munich and violent fighting is going on, the losses being heavy on both sides, according to advices received.

ORLANDO WILL RETURN TO PARIS

PARIS, April 26.—Premier Orlando and his colleagues on the Italian delegation to the peace conference will appear before the Italian parliament on Monday, according to the Petit Parisien. It adds:

WASHINGTON HEARS SITUATION CLEARING

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Italian situation in the peace negotiations is "clearing rapidly" according to advices from Paris received today at the White House.

It was stated that the action taken by President Wilson was "endorsed everywhere." Just what developments were taking place was not disclosed, but it was evident that as a result of the message the tension which had prevailed in administration quarters for the past three days was considerably relaxed.

Explains Plume Situation

Secretary Lane today issued a statement explaining "one or two matters connected with the Plume situation that should not be overlooked." It said: "Plume was not to be given to Italy by the secret treaty made on Italy's entrance into the war, called the London treaty. Under this treaty, Plume was to go to Croatia which is now a part of Yugoslavia, and this is where President Wilson wishes it to go now."

"The question of giving Plume to Italy thus becomes a question of good judgment, and President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George and Clemenceau mutually concluded that to give Plume to Italy would be unjust to the new republics east of the Adriatic, as Plume is the only port on the eastern side of the Adriatic which can be serviceable as an entrance to Yugoslavia and adjoining countries."

Young Republics Need Port

"The Italian claim is based on Italian desire, not on any right other than the claim as its people are Italians they should become a part of Italy as they were a hundred years ago. But to gratify this desire now would be manifestly to wrong others and thus maintain a sore spot on the Adriatic which would cause irritation, Italy with Venice and Trieste can live happily and independently without Plume, while the young republics on the east of the Adriatic could not have a free life without access directly to the world by water."

CHELMSFORD GRANGE HOLDS FINE PARTY

One of the most enjoyable dancing parties of the season was held by the Chelmsford Grange at the town hall last evening, and a large crowd of members and friends of this popular organization was on hand for the occasion. Savage's orchestra furnished the music, which was all that could be desired. The committee to whose efforts the success of the event was mainly due consisted of Mrs. Pansy Rounds, chairman; Esther Olson, Christine Olsen, Helen Zollinger, Everett Whitcomb, Abbott W. Russell and Herbert C. Sweetser.

DIAMOND NOTES

With Dave Shean under contract, Barrow has a sterling understudy for Jack Barry if the Worcester boy falters. Shean was even picked for the regular assignment at second base down south.

Babe Ruth was not feeling the other day when he said he had set his heart on breaking the American league's home run record. It was in 1902 that Seybold set the mark of 16 homers and Ruth not only wants to set this aside, but to eliminate Ed Williamson's all-time record of 27 home runs made in 1895. The latter mark looks as safe as a church, but it wouldn't be surprising to see the Red Sox mauler erase Seybold's record.

It is only occasionally that a star of the day of the home run is a dumb trick, but the Cardinal shortstop sure "boned" it Thursday when he passed his team-mate Heathcote on the line and was properly declared out. Looks like Rogers was running with his head down.

The New England league schedule to be presented at the meeting to be held in Lowell next Tuesday calls for the opening of the season on April 23 and terminating on Labor day.

If some multi-millionaire will now step forward and boldly take over the Lowell franchise, all will be fine for the N. E. league, with the exception of collaring 20 odd ball players, good crowds and a successful season.

Is the "two-bit" rate going to hold good this year for a seat "out in the sun," and an extra quarter to look through the screen?

HEALTHY BOWELS

Nine-tenths of human sickness, from infancy to old age, comes from stomach or bowels being out of order. Headaches, tired feeling, nervous depression, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness stop, if you treat the stomach and bowels right and get them into working order.

The prescription, known as Dr. True's Elixir, has done wonders for sick people, men, women and children, because it is the one remedy that you can rely on to get things right in the stomach and bowels.

Sold by all druggists, big or little, everywhere. Druggists, as a rule, are very honest. They do not try to substitute something else for Dr. True's Elixir, because they know its value. Many druggists use it in their own families.—Adv.

Eddie Cicotte made a fair-enough start on his pitching record this year when he beat St. Louis, holding them to six hits. Remember those golden years of long ago when the Boston Americans thought Eddie all through?

Among the unique records which will come to light again when expert dopers and figure compilers turn in their proofs next fall, is the one which will say that the Washington and Philadelphia American League teams staged two 15-inning games to start the 1919 season.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The St. Peter's Juniors have yet to taste defeat in five starts and dare anxious to take more local scalps. Any 12 or 13-year-old team will be welcomed. Send challenges through this paper.

The Parker A. C. would like to play any 12 or 13-year-old team, the Union Blues preferred. Challenge through this paper, or write the manager at 145 Chelmsford street.

GAME POSTPONED

MONTELEONE, Va., April 25.—The Middlebury-Trinity college baseball game scheduled for today was postponed on account of snow.

BOXING GOSSIP

Larry Hansen and Pete Hartley will finish their training for the bout at the Triangle A.C. today, and come to Lowell to engage in light work until the day of the bout. Both have notified Matchmaker Mahan that they are in good condition and ready for a strenuous battle. Eddie Barelli, who defeated Kid Francis at the Crescent A.A. on Thursday night, is in top form for his semi final number with Buddie Dolan of Lawrence. Kid Stone of Lawrence and Billy Taylor of Cambridge will meet in one preliminary and Mickey Welsh and John Martin of Lowell will meet in the other.

Lowell Boy Navy Champ

Johnny Boyle has received the following clipping, telling of the remarkable success of his brother-in-law in the ring:

Few boxers developed in the service of Uncle Sam during the war have compiled a more impressive record than Johnny Moran, lightweight champion of the navy, who hails from Lowell, Mass. In his last seventeen bouts he knocked out ten opponents, won from six others, and fought one draw.

Five of the knockouts were scored in two rounds, one in three rounds, two in five rounds, one in six rounds, and one in ten rounds. His victims included Patsy Hagen, champion of the English navy, Frankie Riley, Johnny Mark, "Black Diamond" Smith, and Harry Lertz. He also holds decisions over Ray West, Young Les Darcy, and Sailor Joe Kelly, from whom he won the lightweight title of the navy.

Moran is the type of fighter who pleases the fans. He is all action from the tap of the gong, and the power of his blows, manifested by his K. O. record, adds to the interest of his performance. Only nineteen years old, he is one of the most interesting candidates for future honors in the lightweight division.

Ted Skelly, Moran's manager, announces that Johnny is ready to meet any of the boys in his class.

RICH RED BLOOD

Is what you must have, to conquer
Anaemia and overcome Paleness, Thinness, Weakness.

ANAEMIA (or poor, thin blood) is the curse of modern civilisation. THOUSANDS of women and young girls especially are sad, discouraged, listless and made miserable by unstrung nerves; simply and solely because their blood is so poor and thin that they are actually starving.

If you, who are reading this, are down-hearted and have lost interest in life because no treatment which you have taken did you any good, just try RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women. Get two or three boxes, so you can take enough to see for yourself just what they can do for you.

If you are pale and weak; if you have pains in the side, in the back, or between the shoulders, RED PILLS will do you a world of good.

DO you feel weak and tired after the slightest exercise, especially after going up-stairs? Does your head feel giddy? Is there buzzing in the ears? RED PILLS will give you the strength you need.

DO you suffer from loss of sleep, no appetite, headaches, neuralgia, indigestion? RED PILLS should be taken.

ALL these troubles are due to Anaemia or poor blood, RED PILLS will overcome Anaemia.

THEY take away your bodily and mental troubles in these times of excessive work and worry.

MRS. A. ANTAYA, 5 Millyard Street, Warrigan, Conn., says that often she would get up in the morning feeling more tired than the night before. She had severe headaches, backaches, palpitations of the heart, and dizziness. That was Anaemia. Several of her friends recommended to her the use of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women. She now recommends them to others, for the good which they have done to her.

CAUTION.—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870 by a famous French specialist.

They have been largely used in France by French women ever since. Now, America, inspired by the great demand on woman's labor, is accepting with gratifying results the use of RED PILLS for the treatment of Anaemia and general debility.

This will cause RED PILLS to be imitated. Therefore, insist on the signature of the "CIE. CHIMIQUE FRANCO-AMERICAINE", and a serial number on each box. The RED PILLS are never sold in bulk, ONLY in boxes, 50c., or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or sent by mail, on receipt of the price, by the Franco-American Chemical Co. Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

SEAPLANE FELL INTO SEA

3 Planes and Several Submarine Chasers Resumed Search For Missing Machine

CHATHAM, April 26.—Three seaplanes and several submarine chasers set out at daylight today to continue the search for one of the seaplanes from the naval station here which became disabled while returning from Boston after the 26th division parade yesterday and which was believed to be drifting helplessly off shore. Three men, Lieut. J. S. Buchanan, Ensign John G. Howard and Bernard Torres, a radio operator, were in the machine.

The searchers were in constant communication by radio with the station. Several hours after they started, they reported that they had found no trace of the flyers.

The first news that the seaplane was in trouble came yesterday in a wireless message from Lieut. Buchanan, who said that engine trouble had compelled him to land on the water about half way between Plymouth and Provincetown. Patrol boats were immediately sent out but returned at dark without locating the flyers. Meanwhile another message from Lieut. Buchanan said that the high winds were carrying him toward Provincetown. Fears were expressed today that a chance in the wind had driven the plane out to sea.

The missing machine is of the N type, one of the largest and most modern seaplanes in use here, and officials at the airbase said it would require an unusually heavy sea to sink it. Extremely low temperatures prevailed off shore last night. Today a snow storm added to the difficulties of the planes which were conducting the search.

They are Viscount Kim Yun Suk, president, and Viscount Yi Yoon Chik, vice president, of Confucian college.

It is reported at Seoul that Yi Yoon Chik has been arrested in consequence of the presenting of a petition, with his brother sage, to the Japanese government. The petition urged independence for Korea.

MIGHTY OVATION FOR COL. EDDIE LOGAN

BOSTON, April 25.—The history of Boston must be turned back nearly 20 years for a parallel to the demonstration accorded yesterday to Col. Edward L. Logan of the 1st Infantry as he rode his light bay charger through a continuously cheering crowd.

Admiral George Dewey was undoubtedly a popular hero in 1898 and Gen. Joffre was loudly acclaimed in the parade of 1917, but every one in the great crowd and in all the stands knew "Eddie" Logan and it needed only a glimpse of his smiling face to bring every man, woman and even the children to their feet.

In fact the cheering was continuous from the time Col. Logan headed his charger into lower Beacon street and started up the long incline to the state house. The roar could be heard half a mile away, so everyone was more or less prepared for something unusual when he rode in sight. The cheering by the crowd and the dignified handclapping by the state officials at the state house was the first of the tributes paid Col. Logan, but when he was seen coming down Tremont street by the great crowd in the big city stand on the common, the thousands of that long tier of seats were ready for him and the highest pitch of enthusiasm was uncoiled.

Crowd Goes Wild Over Logan

Led by Jerry Watson and ex-Lt. Gov. Barry the crowd cheered Col. Logan to the echo, called him by names, hurled flowers in his path and did everything to assure him that he was Boston's most popular war hero.

The crowd in the stand on Boylston street on the common was fully as demonstrative, in fact the cheering was practically uninterrupted until the upper end of Commonwealth avenue was reached. And even up near the turn where a large delegation from Maine was waving the blue state flag with its pine tree, there was more or less cheering for the leader of the 1st.

When the head of the 1st reached Fairfield street on the south side of Commonwealth ave. it halted a few minutes, and Col. Logan seized the opportunity to ride to the other side of the avenue as Brig. Gen. Cole was passing up at the head of the 12th Brigade. Col. Logan heard the cheering for his fellow-townsman, but as one of his aids remarked, "They gave me more than that, colonel." About the same time Gen. Edwards was passing up Boylston street at the other end of Fairfield street, so that the three most popular commanders in the parade were being cheered on different parts of Fairfield street at about the same time.

It was not alone the stands which broke forth at the appearance of the commander of the 1st. If anything, the cheering on Columbus avenue, where stands were comparatively few, was fully as enthusiastic as on the common or Commonwealth avenue. Everyone seemed to recognize Col. Logan and everyone burst forth, "There's Eddie Logan," and cries of "O you Eddie," "Three cheers for Eddie Logan," swept the crowd as if someone had touched a hidden spring.

Chaplain Thrown from Horse

Col. Logan's horse was fast as the cheering during the early part of the parade, but by the time the state house had been passed the colonel and his well worn control and he was quite docile during the rest of the march. On the other hand, several members of the staff had great difficulty in curbing their steeds and it was the great cheering in the Elks stand near the Lenox which frightened Chaplain Mitty's horse and sent the priest to the pavement, fortunately without injury. Col. Logan did not know of the accident until after Chaplain Mitty had retired from the parade.

Col. Logan equipped his horse with his old 9th Regiment saddle cloth and seemed proud of the relic of the Mexican campaign.

"It was a great day," remarked the colonel as he headed the first battalion of his regiment out of Park square at the finish and down Elliot st.

BAD DREAMS

Is dreaming a disease? Mr. Gregory Adee, 455 Merrimack street, Lowell, thinks so. His statements follow: "For six years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble and constipation. I would all up with gas till it seemed I couldn't breathe; my heart would palpitate and I would get dizzy. My appetite became very poor and I had to be careful what I ate. I had a sharp pain in my back most of the time and my kidneys were bad; I had to get up two or three times a night and the urine would burn me. I did not sleep well nights for I would dream the most awful dreams and could not sleep before getting Goldine. I am glad to tell about that medicine to anyone who needs it for stomach and bowel trouble. Tell anyone to ask me if they want to know."

INFLUENZA, GRANDMA AND GOLDINE

I had influenza and I had it bad. There were times when I would shake with chills and no amount of covering could warm me. Then in a few moments I would be burning up with fever. A great weakness seemed to settle over me and I could hardly force myself to move.

It left me without any color in my face, with no appetite and so weak I could hardly stand. Grandma Newman was down town one day and brought me back a bottle of Goldine. That did the work for me. It drove the influenza out of me and the color has come back into my face. I feel fine and I enjoy my food.

LYLE BLANCHARD.

THAT'S TRUE, SAYS GRANDMA NEWMAN

I just want to tell you that I think Goldine is a wonderful medicine for anyone who has had the influenza. You ought to have seen that boy before he started taking it. He was so pale and white that it seemed he would never be like himself again, and he couldn't eat, but now the color has come back in his face and we are all happy to see him so hungry and full of life. It is just like getting our boy back. Goldine did it. He lives with me and I wanted to tell you that it's true what he said.

MRS. P. D. NEWMAN.

14TH ENGINEERS LAND AT BOSTON TOMORROW

BOSTON, April 25.—The 14th Engineers, composed of the New England railroads, are assured of a hearty welcome as they make their way up the harbor tomorrow morning on the transport Dakota. This regiment of New Englanders is returning after long and arduous service on many fields in France. In the last night were that the Dakota will come into Boston harbor late this afternoon and will remain in President Roads' until early Sunday morning, when she will steam up to Commonwealth Pier, accompanied by a large welcoming fleet.

The steamer that will go down from the city will be sufficient to accommodate all relatives and friends desirous of seeing their loved ones again. The Monitor and Somerset will leave Eastern Wharf with the mayor's welcoming committee and the Roadway, Macabonne and Admiral will leave Northern Avenue Bridge, with the possible exception of the Roadway, which may go from the North End park pier. From just where the Roadway will depart is still unsettled by the committee.

In addition to these boats the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has chartered a steamer from the Nantasket Steamboat Co. and the Boston & Maine has chartered another. A ferry boat of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad will be passed into service, as there are eight employees of that company in the regiment. This ferry boat will take relatives and friends of the organization living in East Boston and Winthrop. The hour of sailing tomorrow morning for the harbor trip is uncertain, but undoubtedly will be early. The exact hour will be decided upon today.

Because of the early hour and the lack of early railroad service, the Boston & Maine will run four special trains tomorrow morning, arriving in Boston in plenty of time to make connections with the boats. The special will run from Newburyport, Haverhill, Lowell and Bitchburg, and will make every stop along the route.

Robert H. Newcomb, assistant to the federal manager of the Boston & Maine, room 11, North station, will be in his office all day today and will into the night to give out boat tickets to those who wish to go down the harbor. The boat tickets will be good for the trip to this city on the Sunday morning special.

The running of at least one special train over the New Haven has been discussed, but nothing definite has been decided upon. It is planned, however, to have several sleeping cars in the South station for the accommodation of persons from far outside the city who arrive on late trains tonight. Persons living nearby will not be accommodated. Howard Newcomb and R. S. Murray of the New Haven have charge of the distribution of boat tickets and will be at the South station today. The Boston & Albany tickets have been sent through the mails by Walter E. Adams.

GERMAN PEACE ENVOYS REACH VERSAILLES

PARIS, April 25.—(By the Associated Press)—The first of the Germans who are to participate in the Versailles congress arrived in Versailles yesterday in two parties.

The first group, consisting of three official couriers, Herren von Warendorf, Walter and Duker, arrived early in the day, and the second, headed by Herr Lersner, came later. They were escorted to the Hotel des Reservoirs.

The Germans were met at the station by Col. Henry of the ministry of war commissary, and M. Cudde of the ministry of the interior, who were delighted to see them.

Doctor Says One Lung Is Healed and Other Nearly So

Urges Patient To Keep Up the Treatment That Did the Work

"I had consumption of the lungs for six years. I had an outside sewerage in sleeping room, and remained out in the open air nearly all the time. I used six raw eggs a day and about a gallon of milk. I had a great many hemorrhages, and was just barely able to walk around the house a little."

"I began taking Milks Emulsion in June. I have now taken my eighteenth bottle and feel greatly benefited. I had my doctor examine my lungs the other day, and he said that one of them is entirely healed up and the other one nearly so. He urges me to keep on using Milks Emulsion, which I intend to do. My original weight was 170 pounds. I have regained 100 pounds. I now weigh 270 pounds and feel almost as strong and good as I ever did. My only regret is that I didn't hear of Milks Emulsion six years ago!"—Grady Davis, Marquette, Ark.

Whether Milks Emulsion would succeed as well for you as it did in the above case, is easy for you to find out. It is at least bound to benefit you, and it costs nothing to try it.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physic. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down, nervous people, and has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs, chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day. It works like magic on coughs and colds.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Fred Howard.

VISITS POPE BENEDICT

First Time in History That Pontiff Has Received Son of Commander of Faithful

ROME, Friday, April 25.—For the first time in the history of the papacy, the head of the Catholic church today received the son of the commander of faithful as Prince Faisal, son of Hussein Ben Ali, king of Hedjaz, claims his father to be. Pope Benedict talked with Prince Faisal through an interpreter, Ubbol Ubus, belonging to the Syrian Marchites.

The prince said that 15 per cent of the Syrian population was Catholic and enjoyed full liberty, since the only aim of the Arabians was political unity and not religious domination. For this reason, he said, the authorities in Arabia hoped for the assistance of America in gaining their independence and preventing their country from being assigned to any mandatory power. He believes this end will be attained through an international commission which was suggested by him at the peace conference to investigate the situation in Asia Minor and report to the League of Nations. Upon this report a decision will be reached as to how different parts of Asia Minor are to be governed. It is understood.

MAKES LIFE WORTH LIVING

You cannot be constipated and happy at the same time. If almost everything you eat distresses you, and brings on a headache, gas on the stomach, heartburn, etc., you can easily eliminate these conditions by taking SEVEN BARKS, the favorite root and herb remedy for stomach disorders.

SEVEN BARKS will expel the distressing acids and dangerous poisons, and help you back to good digestion and active health, making life worth living again.

Do you sleep well? or are you troubled with almost sleepless nights? While there are many causes for sleeplessness, it generally happens that a deranged stomach, liver or intestines are the real cause of the trouble. If your appetite is not good, or food distresses you, or the bowels do not move daily, you can get quick relief from these disagreeable conditions by simply taking 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after meals; this is nature's remedy, made from the extracts of Root and Herb. It has stood the test for nearly 50 years, and will certainly give you a feeling of new life.

If you would have the glow of health and banish the blues, do not neglect to ask your druggist for SEVEN BARKS. Costs but 50 cents.—Adv.

FOR OVERSEA FLIGHT FEAR LABOR DISORDERS AT BUENOS AIRES

BRITISH AVIATORS AT ST. JOHN'S HAVE RESIGNED THEMSELVES TO LONG DELAY

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 25.—The British aviators who have been waiting here for two weeks for favorable weather to attempt a flight across the Atlantic, apparently have resigned themselves to a long delay.

Harry G. Hawker, the Australian pilot of the Sopwith plane, having learned that the steamer Digby, which has aboard the Handley-Peto expedition, will not leave England until April 30, has ordered a new set of wireless equipment to replace a small military set now in use. The small set was installed after trouble developed with higher powered transmitting instruments carried in the trial flight of April 10.

Hawker's Sopwith, which resembles a De Havilland 9-A, familiar to United States air service men, is one of the largest single engine airplanes ever built.

To provide against spark plug trouble he has had four magnetos set in series independently of each other, each giving a spark to the 12 cylinders so that should one or two go wrong, he would still be well protected. The idea of making repairs in the air has been abandoned as impracticable.

To practice with telegraph buzzers Commander Grieve and Captain Moran, the navigators and wireless operators of the Sopwith and Martinsyde expeditions respectively, have set up a wireless circuit between the rival hangers. Communication is held between the stations during the day on terms of friendly co-operation.

Letters From Lowell Soldiers

How the Yanks celebrated the 17th of March in Germany is the main theme of the very interesting dispatch by Sgt. William H. Looney, who is connected with the 5th Engineer band overseas. In the following letter to a member of The Sun staff:

Dear Friend:—In one of my letters to you from Spangenberg, S. C., last summer, when the Jewish boys were celebrating one of their feasts, do you remember that I said I hoped we would be in the service March 17? We were and the members of our band will always remember their first St. Patrick's day in Germany. We had received orders that our division was to be inspected and reviewed by General Pershing and needless to say, everybody started in to make himself and his equipment look slick and smart.

On the morning of the 17th we had first call at 6:30, mess at 7 and assembly at 7:15. We were inspected by Col. Finch and pronounced "O. K." We left camp at 7:30 and started on a hike to a place called Weissenburg. We arrived there at 10:30 feeling fine. This had been previously used as an aviation camp and was in fine condition. The town is situated on the bank of the Rhine. We had to wait until 1:30 when the general, in his appearance, in the meantime the various bands were giving concerts. Our band was the only one to play Irish airs and should also say that ours was the only band to receive coffee and sandwiches on the field thanks to our own boss.

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE

Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples

A headache remedy without the dangers of "headache medicine." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts at once! Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can it affect stomach and heart, as some internal medicines do.

Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50

Inspection started at 2 o'clock as there were something like 25,000 men to be inspected. You can imagine how the general had to hustle along. You can take it from me that he is a very good walker and doesn't miss a single thing. Some of the boys who were wound stripes were asked how, when and where they received their wounds. Of course, none of our band had any wound stripes for the only battle we were in was the battle of the mess line and that never serious. After the inspection, the whole division passed in review before the general and his staff and it was a beautiful sight. During the ceremony six aviators were flying around us. Officers and non-coms were ordered front and centre and then Pershing gave us a fine compliment. He said that he was proud of us and that we were the real thing and we admitted it. Of course it pays to keep in with the general; we may want to borrow his horse some day. By the way, he rode a horse that day and it Freddie Gilmore ever saw it. He would whisper, "That's the general's horse." Pictures were taken of all the movements. At 1:30 we started back to camp and arrived there at 7:15. There was a dandy supper waiting for us. We all went to bed early that night. The next day was a holiday and we took advantage of it. We had a fine trip to the city of Bonn recently. We visited the home of Beethoven and saw the original score of the celebrated Ninth Symphony. The violins, cellos and the piano used by Beethoven and his friends are on exhibition. A few of one mark is charged to visit the museum and it is well worth the price. We also visited the grounds of the University of Bonn and that was also a handsome place. A few of us were on the bridge that caused so much controversy between the towns of Bonn and Bielefeld. It is a dandy bridge and is kept in fine condition. Our stay in Bonn was limited to one hour but we had a good time. The sail up and down the Rhine was fine. I have been up to Coblenz a few times lately to see, looking and wrestling boats. I met Lieut. Joe Molloy on one of my trips and we had a long talk together. He is looking fine and I was sure glad to hear him. I met Major Stewart, one of the officers of the old 5th Mass. He said that he met Lieut. Fred Dunnebell at Trier. Capt. Gus Dunnebell called on us a week ago; he is a General Hunt's staff and is located at Mayon. I also received a few letters from Albert Vassar, another Lowell boy who is located in a Cerebra. He is with the medical detachment of the 12th Machine Gun Battalion. As our people killed a big last week and of course, when they made the "Heilschurst" and "Schweinhirt" they insisted that we should have some. A boy in the Lowell market ever had such goods they would cost $10 an ounce. As it is time to eat, I must close, sending you the best wishes of all the Lowell members of the band. I remain, Yours respectfully, W. H. LOONEY.

THE LOWELL COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The address of the evening will be given by Rev. George W. Allen of Hyde Park, a strong leader in this work. The theme will be "Religious Education, a Community Need." There will be after dinner speeches by the faculty members and others. At this meeting the larger program of the council and school for the following year will be announced.

On May 8 at the First Congregational church the Americanization pageant will be presented and the Lawrence chorus will sing under the direction of Prof. H. Augustine.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

A TEACHER OF "NEW THOUGHT"

Believes "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Highest Result of "New Thought" in Medicine.

MR. A. A. YOUNG

"I am not in the habit of praising any material medicine as I am an advocate of New Thought, but some time ago, I had such a bad attack of Liver and Stomach Trouble that I gave up thinking I did not have it, and took a natural medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets.

Most gratifying was the result. It relieved my liver and stomach trouble, cleaned up my yellowish complexion and put new blood in my body.

While I am no backslider from 'New Thought', I feel there may be times when a help to nature may be necessary; and if so, I believe that 'Fruit-a-tives' is the highest result of New Thought in medicine."

Smith. On May 13 the graduation exercises of the school will be held at the First Baptist church. The members of the first graduating class of the school will receive their diplomas and Prof. Walter Ahearn, a national leader in this field, will give the address. The chorus will sing.

AIM AT THE HOMES

When an arrow is shot into the air, you know it will inevitably come back to earth and stick into the ground—somewhere.

Many advertisers aim their arrow—their ad—at the home and when they want the how they hope that the arrow will reach the intended spot.

Yet, often times their ad is sent off in a way that is as uncertain and as hazardous of reaching its mark as it would be to water in just what spot an arrow would fall.

Now, it's worth while to aim at the homes with your ad—and most business men say it is—why not stop guesswork when you send out your ad. Get it into the "home-going field of advertising." It's easily done. Be represented in

BOLSHEVISM WANING

The rule of the Bolshevik seems to be on the wane in Russia. The people are beginning to realize the impossibility of satisfactory conditions under the Bolshevikism of Trotsky and Lenin.

Before the war there was an abundant supply of food in Russia and it was available to the people. There was food enough under the administration of Lvoff. There was also food enough under the rule of Kerensky. But under the regime of Trotsky and Lenin, there is not food enough and there is no way of distributing what is produced.

An Englishman named Keeling, recently returned from Russia, says that conditions in that country are simply frightful. The people are classed for the distribution of food and the latest reports show that the rations allowed are as follows:

Laborers on heavy manual work and children are allowed 1-2 pounds of black bread a day; workmen on lighter work, 3-4 pound a day; clerks, teachers, etc., in Bolshevik institutions allowed 1-4 pound; and those living on capital allowed 1-8 pound.

The Russian peasants finding themselves under such restrictions, are beginning to plan raising only enough for their own immediate needs. They are to go on a strike against the cities by holding what they produce, so far as they are able, in hidden stores.

This will not help matters. Nor will there be any improvement until Russia is relieved from the incubus of Bolshevism. It is dying hard, but is said to be tottering to its downfall. Which may come sooner than expected. Added to the horrors of famine are those other trials in the form of plunder, murder, rapine and open disregard for right or justice, especially in dealing with those who are suspected of having any money. Since no man in Russia can exceed the minimum amount to eat, nobody cares to produce more than he and his family can eat. Thus will Bolshevism finally wear itself out to the vast benefit and everlasting gratification of all right thinking people in Russia.

COST OF LIVING

According to information sent out by the department of labor, there will be no return to pre-war prices and the price level of the present time is likely to remain for years, with some slight modifications in certain commodities and in certain localities.

What are the facts?

The rise of prices during the war period was fully as great in other countries as in this, and in some very much greater. In the United States, the wholesale prices of all commodities in September, 1918, were 107 per cent higher than the 1913 level; in Canada, 115 per cent; in England, 133 per cent; France (in June, 1918) 235 per cent.

The rise in prices was coincident with a considerable increase in the circulating medium and the amount of bank deposits. In this country, the average amount of money in circulation in 1913 was $34.65 per capita. In December, 1918, the amount had increased to $56.23 or 62 per cent. The present figure is $53.76 per capita, or 55 per cent increase over the 1913 figure.

The increase shown in the cost of living averaging all the important commodities at the present time is 61 per cent higher than in 1914, while some commodities increased from 88 per cent to 158. Food increased 75 per cent, clothing 81 per cent. There has been a slight decrease in prices since the signing of the armistice, but prices have taken an upward tendency which indicates that there will be no return to the pre-war level and no downward movement as expected by some who have been holding back on building propositions.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW

Today our annual friend, Chauncey Depew, gives the 25th dinner in honor of his birthday—the 85th. It is but a short time since Mr. Depew delivered an oration at the unveiling of a monument to himself, and his utterances then as now are well worth reading. In his address on the present occasion he reviewed the leading events of past history, the evolution of our own nation and after describing the essence of the Monroe Doctrine and the fire through which the constitution of the League of Nations passed, he closed with this statement:

"The desire for peace is unanimous, the weariness of war is universal. We want first of all a treaty which will make it impossible for those who brought on this war to try another one. We want a League of Nations which will not require an amendment to our constitution, nor the reversal of those policies which have made us so great, prosperous and happy. Mr. Wilson coined a happy phrase when he said that for over forty years France had stood upon the frontiers of freedom. This is eminently and tragically true. Except for her might, her awful sacrifices, her soul and her spirit, the world might have been wrecked. Old conditions may return, old perils may revive, but we will never again permit France to stand alone on the frontiers of freedom."

G.O.P. CANDIDATES

The republican party is beginning this early to send out booms for presidential candidates. Since the death of Roosevelt, there has been a demand for a choice of a Rooseveltian candidate and the response comes with a great whoop for Hiram W. Johnson, the junior senator of California.

Johnson is exploited as the man who stands for "America first" and he is a strong opponent of President Wilson's policies on the League of Nations as an instrumentality for promoting peace. He has been so close to the late Col. Roosevelt that he now tries to fill his place politically so that he is likely to be put forward as a man after the colonel's own heart—plus a proclivity for opposing Japanese interests that is fully as dangerous as any policy advocated by Roosevelt.

It would not be surprising to see ex-President Taft boom as a candidate if the League of Nations meets with popular favor. He is the fairest man the party has; but he is not enough of a politician to please Hays or Fess of the national organization, and he would consort badly with Lodge and the other leaders who assailed the League of Nations.

Mr. Hughes seems rather to have been sidetracked as a candidate and after one defeat, it is doubtful if he would care to risk another trial, unless the prospects of success were reassuring. Still, if he finds any sentiment in favor of his nomination, he is likely to make the most of it.

SPRING CLEAN-UP

This is the time to clean up, paint up and perhaps we should add—dress up.

The city beautiful is a movement in which some cities made much progress while others fail to be impressed by the idea.

There is much room for improvement in Lowell. The spring clean-up has not been completed, as many of the backyards and alleys indicate. The health department has been pushing this matter of a general clean-up; but it is a big undertaking to get the job done right. The police should be instructed to insist upon people who litter the street with rubbish in front of their premises, cleaning up at least in the spring. It would be a good standing rule to adopt, to give police officers authority to deal with families who persist in throwing rubbish of all kinds into the street instead of placing it in a proper receptacle for removal by the health department.

BURLERSON

Postmaster Burleson is right in holding that newspapers and other publications should pay for the expense of transportation and delivery through the mails, and we do not believe his allegation that there is an organized movement to destroy him in order to save to the publishers of the country a subsidy of $70,000,000 in the shape of a deficit in the department due to the low postal rates offered.

On this point, Mr. Burleson is mistaken. Nobody in the country could do so much to destroy him as he has done himself through his stupidity in handling the telephone strike.

His decision to refuse transmission to certain matter submitted to the Postal Telegraph company and criticizing him is another instance of his lack of sound judgment. If a newspaper sent out libelous matter, the law provides a remedy; but fair criticism of a public official is not libel. Burleson has made another mistake.

THE LOAN

The one great patriotic duty before the people of this nation at the present time, is that of making up the amount of money called for by the government in the Victory Liberty loan. Lowell has to maintain her record so that it is expected that every individual man and woman will perform his or her full duty in subscribing generously to the loan made necessary by the vast expenses of the war. The soldiers offered their lives, what are we willing to offer in response to the government's call? The terms of the present loan are more liberal than those of the others. It should not be left to the banks to give the greater part of the amount because if the banks are short of money, the business of the community will suffer from financial stringency.

We don't know as we will ever feel justified in reflecting upon the stupidity of women when we read in a Boston paper that the defendant in a certain court case testified, when asked if he was ever engaged to the plaintiff, "I don't know as I was. We used to talk over the home we would have when we were married; but I don't know as I'd consider I was engaged to her."

Worcester people hear with pleasure the announcement that 2500 state grangers are expected to meet in convention in that city Dec. 8, 9, 10 and 11, making the Hotel Bancroft their headquarters. Too bad Lowell couldn't have such a convention. Lowell has no hall suitable for a convention of such magnitude and as for hotels, well, the hotels here do the best they can. Bring on the auditorium.

When, in 1918, Gen. von Hindenburg said the Germans would be in Paris by April, he made a slight mistake. To have been perfectly frank and honest, he ought to have said the Germans would reach Versailles by April, 1919, and explained that their business would be to put their names on the dotted lines as indicated by the index finger of the Big Four.

Why save up to buy a corner lot in paradise? New York has not only made baseball a legitimate amusement on Sundays after 2 p. m., giving each community the right to decide for itself whether it wants to permit Sunday afternoon games, but has also legalized Sunday fishing.

There is nothing to be feared from a state audit of the city accounts once in three years, as proposed. The state officials cannot consistently charge an extraordinary figure for such service. The audit made by Chief Gettens's office should at least be as reliable as that of the average expert.

German newspapers tell us that the peace terms are a defeat for Wilson. He can stand it if the Haus can.

JOBS WANTED NOW FOR BOYS OF 26TH

The information for which we asked through the columns of The Sun in regard to positions for the returning boys of the 26th Division, has not been forthcoming," was Examiner Cronin's statement today, when The Sun man called at the United States Soldiers and Sailors' bureau, at 119 Merrimack street.

The 26th Division boys are now returning to Lowell. We want to find employment for them, and this is impossible unless the employers take this call seriously and give us information that will lead to re-employment of the returning men.

"The boys were called—they went. Now that they are coming back, are you, Mr. Employer, going to respond to the call for this information as readily as they did to their call to duty? We are doing our best, but must have help. Is it not the duty of every citizen to do his bit in this work, as in all other war work?"

DANIELS GUEST OF KING ALBERT

BRUSSELS, Wednesday, April 23.—King Albert received Secretary Daniels in special audience today and gave a luncheon in his honor at the Capitol. Among those present were American Minister and Mrs. Brand Whitlock; Lieut. Josephus Daniels, Jr., Rear Admiral Robert S. Griffin, David W. Taylor and Ralph Earle; Norman H. Armour, secretary of the American legation; Mrs. Armour, Majors Rusbee and Hoffmann; Commanders Bagley and Barber.

The secretary also attended a reception at city hall, then visited the Waterloo battlefield and Bruges.

Secretary Daniels has arrived in England since this dispatch was filed.

SEEN AND HEARD

Lowell was a deserted little village yesterday.

It was "good night" peach and cherry blossoms early yesterday morning.

When are you going to get "yours"—the last two in July or the first two in August?

There will be a great run on blue serge and gray mixtures when the 26th begins to discharge.

The saddest incidents connected with yesterday's parade were when people, whose sons will never return, couldn't bear to watch "his" former comrades march by.

Quite Some Pond

Two soldier boys from the west, who had been hurried to the coast, and on board ship in the dark, were next morning surveying with open-eyed wonder the boundless stretch of rolling blue around them.

"Gee, whiz, Bill," said one. "Who would have thought they could be so much water as that?"

"I know it," drawled the other. "And just think, Jim, you only see what's on top!"—Rebbooth Sunday Herald.

These Would "Go" Home

A benevolent old gentleman was walking through the outskirts of a town, when a woman darted out into the road, unmercifully beating a little lad.

"My good woman," exclaimed the kindly one as he seized the woman's arm to stop her, "you mustn't do that. What harm has he done?"

"What? I mustn't do that? What harm has he done?" she shrieked. "If you would like to know, he has opened the hen roost and all the fowls have got away."

"Well, if that's all, it's nothing so very dreadful. Chickens, you know, always come home to roost."

"Yes, that's just it," said the woman, gloomily.—Chicago News.

Attention Girls!

(By Philip O'Neill)

Little and little, stenographers (twain) fading to town on the 8 o'clock train; Were discussing their troubles in love, quite sincere.

And the rest of their confab, I couldn't but hear.

They were talking of spring and her various styles.

Punctuating their talk with most amiable smiles.

They talked about dresses, and hats, and new shoes.

And flimsy creations of numerous hues.

They planned to surprise their co-workers quite soon.

By discarding their mid-winter coats of racoon.

And reporting to work some sunny spring morn.

"Dotted up," so to speak, in a new uniform.

From the way that they talked, to me it was clear.

That this debut they planned, to them, was quite dear.

And they wouldn't postpone it if you gave them the earth.

Their joyously giggled while bubbling with mirth.

To hear them conspiring, these creatures so vain.

One couldn't help wondering if they were sane.

They were still talking clothes when the train reached the station.

These two little gamblers so full of elation.

And after I left them they soon slipped my mind.

As I was engrossed in life's daily grind.

But I saw them again about a week later.

And would you believe it, their joy was still greater.

They wore the same clothes as far as I knew.

And the reason for this? Oh, I soon had a clue!

They each wore a button inscribed with a "V."

And that's the whole story, quite simple, you see.

Instead of new clothes to create a sensation.

They invested their money in bonds of the nation.

And this was the course it seemed wise to pursue.

Now these girls could do it, I wonder could you?

I think you will and if you try just a bit.

This little ditty in your case will fit.

And by refraining from waists of gorgeous, than a tissue.

You could give a few bonds of this Victory Issue.

VICTORY CONCERT BY BROADWAYS A SUCCESS

"Some entertainers" was the unanimous opinion of the large crowd of young people who journeyed to Association hall last evening, and enjoyed a "victory concert" given by the ever popular Broadway Social and Athletic club. The object of the concert was the raising of a fund for the entertainment of the 10 members of the organization who are still "over there," and if one is to judge from the attendance last evening, the club must have made a long step towards reaching its objective.

The song festival was given under the efficient direction of Charles D. Slattery, and consisted of a varied and well-balanced series of musical numbers given in a manner that merited the enthusiastic reception accorded. A chorus of 10 voices added materially to the success of the entertainment. James Heslin was the Interlocutor—if that be the proper title—and filled the position with his usual grace.

The solo number by James Shugrue was one of the best contributions of the evening, while Alexander Beaumier and Frank A. Corcoran were also well received. Everything considered it was one of the best entertainments of its kind given by any amateur organization in or about the city in seasons, and reflected creditably on all concerned.

Following the entertainment, which was given from 8 to 9 o'clock, general dancing was enjoyed to music by Minner-Dove's novelty orchestra.

The concert program was as follows:

AFTER WORK IN ARMY

Capt. Robert L. Jones has returned to his home in this city after extended service with the medical corps overseas. He enlisted in August, 1917, as a first lieutenant and served at Camp Devens, the Boston City hospital and various camps in the south before arriving in France on May 23, 1918.

The first hospital with which he was stationed was at Ecureux-sur-Coude in the Champagne sector. Later he was transferred to various other hospital units and followed the American troops in their most important drives.

Dr. Jones is in excellent health, although he is a little thinner than when he left Lowell.

CONTINUE TO EAT WHITE BREAD IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, April 26.—Americans will continue to eat "white bread" restored late last year, despite the return of European countries to a war-bread basis, according to Julius H. Barnes, president of the food administration grain corporation and federal wheat director.

A survey of wheat stocks, Mr. Barnes said yesterday, had convinced his department that the American supply was sufficient not only to warrant continued production of all-wheat flour but to meet the export demand until the next harvest.

"As far as America is concerned," Mr. Barnes said, "we have at present no intention of asking any change in the milling processes now maintained and which are not under any supervision whatever. We do propose to relax the strain on our own flour supplies by contributing to the general European relief program a 'victory' flour with a mixture of corn flour, rye flour or barley flour, under prescribed percentages, and are today advising the milling trade that offers will be received next Thursday for these mixed 'victory' flours for export."

"We are also taking steps to secure the co-operation of American mills in making rye flour from the large stocks of rye at present owned by the corporation, as rye flour is very suitable food for large sections of Europe relying on us."

"The new winter wheat crop in this country promises to be very early," Mr. Barnes said, adding:

"With us it is solely a question of how much we can fairly contribute to alleviate distress abroad, and we shall do that to the uttermost without imposing hardships on our own people."

VILLA MASSES TROOPS MISS TWOHEY PLEASING IN ROLE OF GLADIOLA

Concentrating All Forces Under His Control in State of Chihuahua

EL PASO, Tex., April 26.—Francisco Villa is concentrating all the troops under his control in the state of Chihuahua in an effort to wrest control of the state from the Carranza government, re-establish a provisional government of 1915 and try to rally the various rebel bands throughout Mexico to his banner. "This became known today with the arrival of refugees from Parral."

To finance his revolutionary movement, he plans to force the foreign mining, smelter and milling companies in northern Mexico, especially American corporations, to pay heavy tribute in return for protection. He is reported to be making plans to attack Chihuahua City soon.

Interest in Aero Field

The proposed mail-carrying circuit, which has its starting place in New York and covers Massachusetts by air line through the cities of Springfield, Taunton, Lowell and Boston. In fact, the interest has grown to the point of the consideration of suitable landing fields and real estate dealers are co-operating with the board of trade in lining up these spots.

The possibilities of commercial and sporting aviation have been considered and briefly discussed by this paper in special articles of prior dates, but it may not be amiss to recall a few salient points which bear vitally upon this topic.

First, as a sporting proposition. Are there 25 men in Lowell who will go on record as favoring this exhilarating pastime to the point of participation, who feel their physical qualifications are sufficient to allow this participation; who are willing to take up aviation to the exclusion of all other business, and who have the necessary financial resources to tap? If these 25 names will be sent to this paper they will be gladly published. Persons who cannot measure up to all these qualifications need not apply. Any person who has engaged in av-

MISS TWOHEY PLEASING IN ROLE OF GLADIOLA

Her many friends in this city have been glad to visit the performance of the Emerson Players at the Opera House this week, and assist in giving Miss Sarah M. Twohey a fine reception when she appeared in the role of Gladiola, one of the poorhouse waifs in Daddy Long Legs.

She has been programmed under her "professional" name of Sally Oakes. It has been Miss Oakes' dramatic debut. Thursday evening she was presented with several bouquets by her friends here and was given a fine reception. Miss Oakes resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Twohey, at 19 Marshall street. She formerly studied at Emerson School of Elocution, Boston, as her preparation for taking up the profession of acting.

ation will interpose the following statement: Perfection in aviation is not acquired overnight. It takes approximately six months to graduate a flier. The sport cannot be indulged in once every two weeks, as a flier plays at golf or billiards. Under the present flying conditions the sport cannot be indulged in as the safest recreational pursuit. Rather, it demands a school-heated concentration, daily practice while under instruction if progress is to be made, and almost daily participation after graduation, if the individual cares a snap about his own safety. As to the cost to the embryo flier, the government in its gracious wisdom may assume this, but it hardly seems plausible. Any air service man in Lowell would welcome the institution of an aero club for sporting purposes and would support it to the limit, at the same time realizing the barren field from which new members must spring. Army fliers in the past two years were paid to learn aviation; civilians will probably have to pay well for the same privileges in peace time.

There is no doubt in the mind of the writer that mail carrying by aeroplanes will be very much in practice in years to come. Pilots, recruited from the present large number of army airmen, will not be hard to get and proper landing fields can be obtained without question. The far west and south will have year-round service—probably will this year. But, can you imagine a group of fliers in Lowell, say in late April or early May, again opening up their aviation centers after winter has caused it to be closed tight for five months? The city will need more ambulances at its command than it at present affords and they would need to be backed up to the field on the opening morning, with motors running, for a hasty getaway. For six months flying would be good in this part of the country, but the rest of the year it would be practically impossible, if comfort and safety are to be reckoned with, and we imagine those two little things might be insisted upon by the Lowell birds, or at least desired. Such a field in both boy and girl messengers under her direct charge while at the Cartridge plant, and she contrived to not only make the relation between herself as their supervisor, one calling for the employee to get faithful service, but she enlisted herself as the "next friend" of those boys and girls and do all she could to have them start into some useful line of occupation or return to school for an increasingly better education.

Miss Adams resigned from the Cartridge company some time ago. It is announced that in her new work she is to be closely associated with Miss Skilton in the admirable work done by Miss Skilton here. Miss Adams is to have desk room at the police station and most importantly, is to represent the Florence Crittenton league in Lowell, a movement whose headquarters are in Boston and whose object is to reclaim and help in every way possible the problem of unfortunate and fallen girls in cities.

In preparation for this important work Miss Adams has taken a course at and is a graduate of the Boston School for Social Workers. She has been granted a special officer's license by Mayor Thompson so that her work and her efforts to assist what is admitted to be a very difficult problem, will have the support and be backed up by her authority as an officer of the law.

While employed at the Cartridge company's Lawrence street plant, considerable responsibility had to be assumed by Miss Adams in that, as clerk for Chief Martin Conway, she stood between the outside public and the interior of the factory, no person being allowed to enter the factory unless vouched for by Mr. Conway or Miss Adams, acting in his absence. It was a source of gratification to her employers that she was able to carry on the work so thankful and in many ways, onerous position and attain the minimum of friction.

Miss Adams has lived in Lowell all her life and to all who have an interest in the young people of the city, many of whom are not fortunate enough to come from the best of homes, it will be distinctly pleasing to know that this tactful, efficient and kind hearted woman has set herself the task of making Lowell a better community in which to live, so far as her thorough work among the boys and girls can accomplish it. She expects to start in on her new work within a few days.

TO BEAUTIFY STATION

More Improvements Planned For Boulevard Structure

Commissioner Morse of the water works department is to have a conference with Supt. John W. Kernan of the park department next Monday relative to the possibilities of beautifying the entrance and surroundings of the pumping station on the boulevard. Commissioner Morse has installed cement steps at the entrance to the station and plans to make other improvements.

LOWELL VETS AT LAWRENCE

A number of Lowell Spanish War Veterans are attending the convention of the organization being held today in Lawrence as well as local members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Lowell might be instrumental in adding to the number of persons who make yearly pilgrimages to the southland during the hard-boiled season, as all the local airmen would, probably "winter in Florida" or some other warm climate. And, indeed, they would have to if they wished to keep their hand in.

But time produces wonderful evolutions, and it is folly to say a thing is impossible in this day of horseless vehicles.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL TO TAKE UP

MATTER OF AN AVIATION FIELD

Mayor Thompson has received a communication from Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the board of trade informing him of the proposition to install an aviation field here and asking that the matter be given consideration. The mayor will probably bring the matter before the municipal council at its meeting Tuesday.

OFFICE, 53 CENTRAL STREET, LOWELL, MASS. TELEPHONE 215
On Next Saturday, May 3rd, 1919, at 3 P. M.
The premises comprise a two-story dwelling of nine rooms, bath, heat, pantry, reception hall, laundry with soapstone set-tubs, set wash boiler, etc., has gas, hot and cold water and sewer connections, is well supplied with closet room, very heavily timbered and while at present its condition is not of the best, it could with an outlay of a reasonable amount of money be made a most attractive home. There is a double lot with an area of about 8246 square feet, with extra large frontage on Chestnut street, giving ample space for either enlarging the present building or for the erection of apartments. The location, within 10 minutes' walk of Merrimack square, within walking distance of various manufacturing plants, should especially appeal to anyone looking for a home in a good locality, also for the speculator and investor who wants centrally located real estate. With the great demand for tenements and homes, and the great scarcity of both, and with the increased cost of electric fares, this property, being so situated with its proximity to downtown and its many opportunities for improvements, should be especially attractive.
Terms: $100 must be paid to the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

SOME SPRING CLEANING LESSONS BY HOUSEHOLD SCIENTISTS

Specialists Teach How, When, and Why of Cleaning—Articles Prepared for Sun
Readers Are Short, Simple and Practical

NEW YORK, April 26.—Five of the most famous women specialists in household science in America, all members of the faculty of Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, have prepared for women this remarkable series of six lessons in housecleaning.

These articles are short, simple, practical—right to the point.

The Sun in obtaining this series from these recognized household experts, places before its women readers the very best information to be had by the most authoritative writers on household science in America!

Read these articles from day to day in The Sun.

WHY SPRING CLEANING?

BY ANNA M. COOLEY

Prof. Household Arts, Columbia University

Why is it necessary to have a clean-up time at least once a year?

Dust and dirt are our enemies. Despite our care they accumulate during the winter months and endanger family health. They must be banished—not simply changed from one place to another by flourishing brush and broom!

How can we get rid of them?

Flood the house with air and sunshine—they are health promoters and germicidal killers. Disease is more prevalent during the winter because there is less fresh air in our houses. Who are our allies in the campaign against dirt?

Besides air and sun nature furnishes us with earth and fire, too.

Weapons of soap, sand, washing powder, ammonia and kerosene are our assistants. Brushes, brooms and modern cleaning machines help, as do cleaning cloths and soft paper. Bring out weapons and ammunition. Begin the anti-dirt and disease campaign.

Sun all mattresses, pillows, bedding, and hangings out doors, after giving them an airing and beating.

Walls and ceilings should be dusted with soft cloths tied over a long-handled mop or brush. Windows, picture frames and mouldings should be wiped with damp cloths. Wash painted wood-work with warm water and borax. Clean varnished surfaces with a cloth moistened with kerosene.

Wash floors with kerosene in water. Launder curtains and rag rugs. Clean wool rugs with a vacuum or send to cleaner.

Burn dirt and accumulated rubbish, or bury it in earth. Do not hoard. Distribute books, clothing and furniture where they can be used.

Scrub closets and pantry shelves. Clean and whitewash cellars.

Wash out sinks and toilets with hot lye solution.

Dirt is a convenient vehicle for disease—banish it.

Quarter Century Ago

Says The Sun of April 23, 1921:

"Hon. John F. Finney of Chicago, paid another visit to our city yesterday upon invitation of the local Hibernian lodges, and in the evening under their auspices, he lectured in Associate hall before a very large audience."

"The Song and Story of Ireland," was his subject and in treating it he was ably assisted by the eminent vocalist, Mr. M. J. Murphy of Bay City, Michigan."

G.O.P. Get Together Meeting

The old Sun thus records a republican get together meeting when partisanship was rife in city politics:

"There is nothing like a square meal to make a fellow feel happy. That was the secret primarily of the good fellowship which followed the ravenous raid upon one of the D. L. Page company's excellent suppers late last night in Associate hall. The doughty warriors were 400 supporters of the local G.O.P. After a good supper and flow of eloquence and humor interlarded with heavier slices of republican doctrine, seemed to be refreshed."

"At the stage table sat His Honor Mayor Pickman, Hon. G. A. Marden, Hon. C. D. Palmer, Chairman Louis Killeck of the city committee, Rep. W. H. L. Hayes, Rep. E. S. Foss and Mr. G. F. Lavison. It took an hour and a half to dull the appetites of the noble 400. Then cigars were lighted and the men settled back in their seats for the mental repast."

New Church Dedicated

Says the old Sun:

"The new church of the Congregational society at North Chelmsford was dedicated this afternoon in the presence of a large company and with elaborate exercises. The speakers were Rev. C. W. Huntington, Rev. Dr. Court, Rev. J. M. Greene and A. C. Whitcomb."

Miss Hilton's Marriage

From the old Sun:

"There was an event of great importance to the society people of the city on the Highlands last evening. It was the wedding of Miss Grace, elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Hilton, to Mr. Arthur Dana Gibson of Wakefield. It was a home wedding at the beautiful residence of Dr. Hilton on Wilder street. Rev. Charles A. Hilton of Randolph, Mass., uncle of the bride, officiated, and at the ceremony immediate friends and relatives were present."

Day Nursery

The following from the old Sun will interest friends of the Day Nursery:

"Don't forget the May breakfast in Huntington hall next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with breakfast on the first morning and on Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon a children's opera, entitled, '1713.' Over 50 children will take part in it. During the May breakfast, each evening and Saturday matinee, the magic electric piano, self playing, the wonder of the age, will play any piece of music written. It was a great attraction at the World's fair, Chicago."

The May breakfast was for many years a great social event conducted for the benefit of the Day Nursery. It was conducted by the most prominent ladies of Lowell but was abandoned soon after the destruction of the new Huntington hall. Of late the Nursery has not been so much in the public eye nor so useful because it has been driven to Centralville owing to the seizure of the property on Kirk street by the city as part of the high school site.

Odd Fellows' Anniversary

Says the old Sun:

"The Odd Fellows of this city observed yesterday as the 75th anniversary of their institution."

"Union services were held at the hall in Odd Fellows' Temple at which several local lodges including the Daughters of Rebekah, and many other out of town spectators were present."

"Mayor Pickman presided and the exercises began at 2 o'clock with a selection by the American orchestra followed by an invocation by Rev. Dr. Seymour."

"The order in this country was founded at Baltimore, Md., April 26, 1819, by two Englishmen named Thomas Witley and John Welch. The order had previously existed for a considerable time in England."

THE OLD TIMER.

TO KEEP BREWERIES OUT OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, April 21. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—According to Senora Rosaura G. de Martinez, president of the National Anti-Alcoholic association, that society is preparing to wage an active campaign against the establishment in Mexico of various breweries and distilleries which, it has been reported, are planning to come to this republic from the United States as a result of the recent prohibition laws.

WANT CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS ADMITTED

GREENSVILLE, S. C., April 26.—After a conference here between Colonel Holmes B. Springs and Major W. D. Workman, former officers in the "old Hickory" division, a telegram has been sent to Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt informing him that unless former Confederate soldiers are accepted as members of the American Legion, South Carolina veterans of the world war probably will not want membership. The suggestion that union veterans be admitted to the legion while Confederates would be excluded, they said, is a slight on the south.

THE ELIOT UNION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

FIRST UNION SERVICE

Eliot and Kirk Street Congregations Meet Together
Tomorrow Morning

The congregations of the Eliot and Kirk Street Congregational churches will unite tomorrow in the first service of the recent amalgamation at the Eliot Union church, the name under which the new society will take up the activities of the former parishes. Rev. Herbert A. Barker, retiring pastor of the Eliot church, will preach. At the service on the following Sunday, both Rev. Mr. Barker and Rev. Mr. English, retiring pastor at Kirk Street, will conduct a communion service. On that date, May 4, both ministers will sever their connections with the new church, and it is probable that a new pastor will be under consideration by the committee at that time.

No changes have been started on the church interior as yet, although the plans are nearly complete. The new heating plant will not be installed until next fall, but work on the installation of the Kirk Street organ will commence as soon as possible. Extensive alterations also will be made in the church vestries. The new parish house question is still open, and will remain so until sufficient land can be obtained.

Members of the Eliot church gathered together last evening at the church for the last time as an individual parish group, as the union with the Kirk Street church will be consummated tomorrow, and gave full-hearted evidence of the close feeling which exists between the church members and the retiring pastor, Rev. Herbert A. Barker. Following a brief devotional service an informal reception was held for Rev. and Mrs. Barker.

"Too bad," the little Mexican-American woman in charge told me. "Even hundred Mexicans come here daily to learn your language. They are potential friends."

"But we have orders to close the school from the United States!"

"Too bad. Chances are now that they will never learn English and never be real friends of yours because they cannot understand you."

French on the Job

I stepped around the corner—to the French alliance.

There a man stood before a blackboard. "Parlez vous Francaise?" he wrote. And that group of Mexicans studying French "parlez" to beat the band.

"I suppose the school will soon close, now that the war is over?" I asked the English-speaking Frenchman.

"No," he replied, "we remain open indefinitely. We want Mexican friendship, and this is the best way to get it. When they know French they'll like us—trade with us."

The United States was fleeing the field on the verge of a great and incalculably beneficial moral victory. Uncle Sam spilling his own guns!

Una propagandists during the war had kept dishing this at Mexico: "The United States can't fight, will not fight."

Then Robert H. Murray, head of the U. S. committee on public information here, conceived a brilliant idea. He engineered a tour of the United States by 20 of Mexico's best known editors at the expense of this government. They found Uncle Sam could fight, would fight and was fighting—putting the finishing touches to Kaiserism.

When these editors returned to Mex-ker the church vestries being filled to the doors. A cheque for $500 was presented to Rev. Mr. Barker, a gift of the church, and he also received a fine travelling bag from the church group of Boy Scouts. Mrs. Barker was presented a gold wrist watch by the King's Daughters' circle.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barker were deeply touched by the gifts and the spirit which prompted the giving, and feelingly expressed their appreciation. Mr. Barker spoke at some length, reviewing his pastorate here and prophesying nothing but success for the church in its union with Kirk street. Rev. and Mrs. Barker, with their children, leave Lowell on Monday, May 5, for Randolph, Vt., where Mr. Barker has a new pastorate.

Any man exhibiting his discharge papers from the United States army, provided he saw service overseas, may obtain a gas mask and steel helmet free by applying to the zone supply officers of the army. The government has tens of thousands of these articles for which it has no further use. The best thing that can be done with them is to give them as souvenirs to the men who used them during the war. Many men have been discharged from the army without them, but will want them to show to their children and grandchildren in future years.

"MORAL INTERVENTION" BY UNITED STATES WINS IN MEXICO

But Uncle Sam Tightens His Purse-Strings
Just When Brilliant "Friendship Drive"
Had Prejudice On the Run

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—"Live-the-row."

A small woman stood before a chart, a pointer in her hand, facing several score Mexicans, old and young. They recoiled in unison, with odd infection. "Ay, see the row!"

The second battle of coupons was on; the enemy in retreat.

Moral intervention in Mexico had begun. It was a session of the English class of the U. S. committee on public information.

The three score or more Mexicans were greatly led into friendship for America instead of hatred for the "gringos."

On the walls hung portraits of Washington, Lincoln and Wilson, facing portraits of Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, Benito Juarez and Venustiano Carranza.

There were no oil cans in the foreground, no ore sacks in the background. They didn't chant, "I see the bullets," but, "I see the cow." I was impressed with their earnestness and the friendliness with which they spoke to their teacher.

"Too bad," the little Mexican-American woman in charge told me. "Even hundred Mexicans come here daily to learn your language. They are potential friends."

"But we have orders to close the school from the United States!"

Many men have been discharged from the army without them, but will want them to show to their children and grandchildren in future years.

Any man exhibiting his discharge papers from the United States army, provided he saw service overseas, may obtain a gas mask and steel helmet free by applying to the zone supply officers of the army. The government has tens of thousands of these articles for which it has no further use. The best thing that can be done with them is to give them as souvenirs to the men who used them during the war. too they looked over the American war cable and educational service, got out the war cuts and photos, and unwrapped the U. S. war posters. "Use them," they ordered.

Murray's educational campaign got into full swing, and the literate people of Mexico rapidly fell into line with the allies.

In addition to war cables, cuts and matrices to 21 Mexican newspapers, and daily translated bulletins to 419 papers, Murray established an English school with five capacity classes.

With no money except for legitimate display advertising of Liberty bond campaigns, and few assistants, he fought the German subsidized press to a standstill and backdown.

Mexico's Loan Quota

Mexico's quota on U. S. Liberty loans was over-subscribed more than 100 per cent, a large number of the bonds held by the U. S. government.

Murray exhibited the U. S. war film, "Terrible's Crusaders," at the largest movie house in the capital, at a time Pershing's popularity in Mexico wasn't exactly high.

It took 25 Mexican policemen, 25 minutes to halt pro-German demonstrations in the audience when Pershing and Old Glory flashed on the screen. But by the time the last reel unwound, there was nothing but applause. The Germans had packed blocks of the audience with instructions to "raise hell." They did. And they got it in turn. They were dragged into the streets by the police and never returned.

Mexico must have been impressed with the campaign, for shortly afterward a queer incident occurred.

A woman rowed across the Rio Grande at Laredo one night. She might have walked across the international bridge unmolested. Instead, she even jumped into the water to excite the American sentry's suspicion.

Search revealed a water-proof jacket in her corset, containing a message in code. Deciphered, it proved one of the most important finds of the war, according to American officials.

A short time afterward our state department announced interception of the Zimmermann note urging Mexico to war on the United States and offering as bait parts of California, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

Few outside of the American state department knew how the Zimmermann note was secured, but down along the Rio Grande they're still talking about the woman and her water-proof corset.

The general opinion is that a high Mexican official used his own way of tipping off his Hun plot to the United States without involving himself.

CARBON REMOVED BY USE OF A LIQUID

Peter Macheras, 458 Market street, proprietor of the Lowell Tire Exchange, reports that business with his concern is very brisk and besides doing a very nice business in tire repairing using the Shaler Wrapped Tread method, he is doing a good business in a number of ingenious and handy auto accessories. The latter, for instance, include the Carbo-Gon carbon remover and Rub-R-bak patch material. This Carbo-Gon carbon remover sells at $2 the gallon and is guaranteed to give effective use in all types of internal combustion motors in automobiles, motorcycles, aeroplanes, motor boats, tractors and stationary engines. It is a perfect carbon solvent.

The Rub-R-bak patching material and kit, is claimed to be the best method of making roadside repairs on inner tubes yet devised. It will give a job nearly equal to vulcanizing and the outfit to do the work costs only $1. Another accessory carried by Mr. Macheras is a preparation for cleaning motor cars called Bri-Klean-It. This is a liquid preparation that in a few minutes accomplishes as effective work at cleaning the family automobile and enabling the owner to get an early holiday, Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning start, as he desires. Many motor car owners have to use an entire forenoon to get their car looking presentable, but the Bri-Klean-It process is a time saver in every sense of the word. The price for it is $1.50. Mr. Macheras is connected by phone, 1130.

EASY WASH POWDER AIDS HOME CLEANING

While it may be true that in spring a young man's thoughts lightly turn to love and marriage, the fact remains that for the housewife, her thoughts necessarily have to turn to burdensome thoughts of spring house cleaning. But not so very burdensome either, at that, according to W. H. Potter of 70 Central street, proprietor for the past 12 years of Potter's Easy Wash powder, for he avers that most women find, after doing their spring house cleaning by means of his powder, that however indefinite the future paradise is, they secure a temporary home paradise at least, by reason of having become acquainted with this product.

Mr. Potter has been manufacturing it as a side line of his well known cigar and tobacco business in Central street, for the past 12 years. Once introduced into the house, it has been his experience that women will always in the future insist on having the easy wash powder exclusively, no matter how large a package of an inferior powder is offered at the same or less money, or how many premiums, so called, are used to put the competitors' powder over.

One of the rather humorous incidents related by Mr. Brown in connection with his experience as a manufacturer of this powder, concerns, the help he and his powder were able to be on an occasion when a certain company in Lowell was trying to sell one of its washing machines. The potential customer was in fact, asking the washing machine to do a whole lot more than could reasonably be expected of an ordinary machine. The problem was to make the machine turn mechanics' towels back to white again. The salesman procured some of the washing powder from Mr. Potter, and was able to give a demonstration that resulted in his making the sale.

NOW IS TIME TO FIX AWNINGS, SAYS BROWN

This is of course the busiest time of year for men in the awning business but William E. Brown, manager of the Centralville Tent & Awning company, reports that the weather of the past few weeks has been a very severe handicap towards repairing and rigging now awnings and that it is bound to make a very inconvenient accumulation of work.

Nevertheless, Mr. Brown and his workmen are going ahead and by putting in longer hours and using all the daylight they can in the work, are rapidly catching up on the work. Mr. Brown has been in this kind of work 25 years and is one of the old time sail makers and rope splicers. He knows the different qualities of awning cloth of course and can rig an awning so that it will not only give good satisfaction the first summer it is put up but continue to give good satisfaction the rest of the years before of course the fabric of it wears out. The Centralville Tent and Awning company is connected by phone, the number being 1318-M and all orders receive prompt attention. The awning workers receive 75 cents per hour for their work.

Mr. Brown keeps quite a large assortment of awning cloth of all kinds on hand, including of course khaki color, and is equipped to make repairs on lawn tents and Gloucester hammocks as well as all other kinds of tent work. This week the Victory Shows Carnival company has been holding forth on Lakeview avenue, as Mr. Brown's neighbor, and he has done quite a lot of work for the different concessionaires.

MR. SLACK HEAD OF CARRUTHERS CO.

Two years ago the reed and loom harness manufacturing business which had been carried on in Lowell for over 30 years by the firm of Robert Carruthers company, was bought and is now being carried on by Samuel S. Slack, an experienced manufacturer of this accessory of the business of weaving silk, cotton, woolsens and carpets. He has been a reed and slasher comb maker for over 20 years himself and among the other places he put in his time as a workman was the Emmons company at Lawrence, probably the largest maker of reeds and loom harness in the United States.

The plant of Mr. Slack, who still continues to carry on his business under the name of Robert Carruthers company, is located in Hale street, not far from Chelmsford street. He reports that business is very good considering the low ebb of business the mills of this part of the state are doing business at. Practically all the

On the commission with him are two other army captains: At the left, Capt. L. R. McGee, police commissioner; Capt. Hal Noyes, made street commissioner. Wozencraft was supported only by the Dallas Dispatch, of the four newspapers in the city, but he carried 32 of 36 precincts.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

mills in Lowell are supplied with reeds from the Carruthers factory. This factory and Emmons in Lawrence are the only two factories in this part of New England making this article. Many textile concerns to the north of Lowell, are customers of Mr. Slack's and are pleased at the quick and convenient service he can give them for, by telephoning, telegraphing or mailing an order for reeds or combs so that it reaches the office in the morning, the Carruthers factory invariably makes it a point to execute the order and have it ready for shipment north on an afternoon passenger train. Not the least interesting of the good things that can be written about this industry since Mr. Slack came to Lowell from Pawtucket two years ago and took over control of it, is that he has been able by his hard work and satisfactory service given, to increase the volume of business done, by nearly 50 per cent.

CHAMPION RETIRING TO KEEP HER MAIN IDEA IN LIFE WILL BE TO MAKE EDWARD P. HAPPY.

HENRY HAPPY; NOW WATCH THE OTHER GIRLS.

Claire Galligan, champion woman swimmer, has retired, and in her wake are a whole school of pretty and aspiring mermaids. Claire Galligan isn't tired of the sport, but she is retiring to make the good old U.S.A. feel like home to Edward P. Finney, her husband, who just recently received a discharge from the navy. It will remain Claire Galligan in the record books—for she holds lots of marks—but in Los Angeles, where her husband has entered business, it will be Mrs. Finney and her main idea in life will be to make Edward P. happy.

In the last six years the great woman swimmer set some marks which the stars of the future will find hard to surpass. She was an all-around swimmer, and excelled in various events. Other girls have shown remarkable form in certain events. Miss Galligan held the records in the 44, 50 and 100 yard races.

She made her home in New York, but completed all over the country. Dorothy Burns, swimming star, is second to Miss Galligan in the 100 and the 500. Charlotte Boyle holds the marks in the 250 and 500 yard events. Olga Dorfner is best at 500 yards, in the 100 yards straight-arm, 200 yards, seal after cooking for a half hour.

PEACH CONSERVE.

Four pounds of winter pears.

One-quarter of green ginger.

Five cupsful of sugar.

Chop the lemon and ginger, and chop the pears after removing skin. Cook with the sugar for between 35 and 40 minutes, or until it thickens. Seal in sterilized jars.

If you weigh more than you should, according to the table given above, there is something radically wrong. Avoid getting fat for the first time. Excess flesh is a proof that you are neglecting your health. The Gardner reducing machine will normalize your weight and develop your health.

Call and make your test of the machine today—or telephone 4822 for an appointment that suits your convenience. You will be genuinely interested.

ZAPATA DIES, HIS EMPIRE OF BLOOD
CRUSHED BY KINDNESS

Sun Correspondent Rides Through Mexico's Defile of Death and Views Miracle of Regeneration Among Indian Peons

BY JACK NEVILLE.
American Newspaperman and Investigator who has lived for years in Mexico and who has just spent four months there on special detail for

(Copyright, 1919, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

CUAUTLA, Mexico, April — The death of Emiliano Zapata removes time in centuries enjoying the fruits of his toil and supporting instead of hating government.

Mexico has no more dramatic or significant story for Americans than this flower springing from the heel prints of a barbarian.

I am the first American newspaper man to enter Zapatiland.

Escorted by soldiers, riding on trains and horse-back, I came a few ment had been annihilated by Zapatistas last year; there a troop of 21 federals had been wiped out, and farther along a handful of soldiers had cut their way through 200 Indians, last New Year's day.

Ten miles beyond the bloody portals we drew rein. Below us swept the sunny plain of Morelos, with towers of ruined sugar mills, of churches and baronial estates rising above the trees.

Smiling peons were planting the fields. Their wives looked at us unafraid. Children, half-naked, romped gleefully.

These were the people, most of them surrendered Zapatistas, who a year ago, with hunger and age-old hatred, were committing unspeakable atrocities, under the savage guidance of the former plantation stirrup-boy.

Gonzalez, a man with a vision, had wrought the transformation—with plows in place of guns, bread instead of butchery.

I talked with him at his headquarters—a heavy, quiet man with piercing black eyes. I talked with Colonel

"EYES OF YOUTH" ATTRACTION AT LOWELL OPERA HOUSE NEXT WEEK

"Eyes of Youth," a dramatic novelty, and the highest royalty play ever given on a local stage, will be presented the coming week at the Lowell Opera House by the Emerson All Star Players. In making this announcement Manager Carroll once more emphasizes the fact that his efforts in providing the local patrons only the very best and latest stage successes are meeting with favor. This play was among the biggest stage triumphs only a few weeks ago, and this is the third presentation of it since that time. The expense of securing it, as well as the added expense of procuring an adequately cast for it as well as extra scenic effects, wasn't given a moment's consideration by the management when an effort was made to get it for local consumption. Max Marcia, its author, is responsible for "The House of Glass" and other striking successes, and in this latest endeavor of his he has put his very best and most artistic touches. There isn't the slightest question but that it will score heavily during the coming week.

The story about which the action of the piece revolves, concerns a young and handsome girl who is about to consider the all-important question of marriage. She is interrupted in her contemplation by the sudden appearance of the Hindu magician who allows her to look into the mystical crystal globe and see what the future holds for her. What she sees is startling in the extreme. It points out to her in detail what her future life will be if she takes one path and what it will be if she turns to another. She sees herself as an aged school teacher, as the wife of a thriftless millionaire who later leaves her a street walker and dope fiend and as a society girl and prima donna. Miss Jane Salisbury has been assigned the work of portraying each of these characters and she will find greater opportunity than ever before to reflect her exceptional versatility. Julian Noy, the leading man, will also have a fine part, and the others will be pleasingly assigned. Director Glassmire will be given a real test in stagecraft, for he will be called on to resort to his best efforts in presenting three distinct stages, each 25-15, that will be used in quick succession in the first and second acts, in such a manner to avoid the slightest delay.

A big advance sale is already recorded. Make your reservations early and avoid disappointment. Tel. 281.

Gonzalez, who ended a bloody ten-year revolt, crushing it

Mexico's most ruthless destructionist and implacable enemy of peaceful regeneration.

Now, on the wreckage of his empire, where the rebel chief laughed at civilization and played his huge Bolshevik joke on 100,000 confiding workers, General Pablo Gonzalez is placing firm underpinning for freedom and progress.

Here in the world's richest garden days ago to the portals of Mexico's bloodiest defile behind which the rebel leader had held out since 1909 and from which he had twice sallied with his ferocious forces to occupy Mexico City.

Scattered hands still prowl the hills, and there is still some danger. At the head of the pass our bugler called.
An answering "all's well" came from Carranza's videttes, and following

Ignacio Sanchez Niera, graduate of a Chicago school of medicine, and with General Elizondo, former American cavalryman and miner in Nevada and Alaska.

These three men, Americanized, progressive, foresighted, are converting a principality with 100,000 souls into the firm bulwark of a regenerated Mexico.

"Here," said Gonzalez with a wide sweep of his hand, "where the soil is the richest in the world, its tillers have always been kept poorest and most miserable."

"They are now having their first chance. It is hard for anyone but them to comprehend just what that means—bread enough, freedom, happiness."

Before I went out among the people,
Gonzalez told me the history of Morelos and the Surlano Indians—one of tyranny of the hacendados; of destruction by Zapata; of his own practical plans of reconstruction.

He told me of the richness of Morelos soil, with two heavy crops a year, sometimes four; of land paying the agriculturist four hundred for one!

Where other generals of various regimes had failed to subdue the Surlano Indians with campaigns of terror, Gonzalez had come with a plan of conciliation.

Amnesty was proclaimed. The Surlano Indians were told to surrender their arms, receive a bonus of ten dollars for each gun, seed, farming implements, a temporary division of certain lands and steady jobs with good pay.

"DAUGHTER OF MINE"

A Chapter From Every Girl's Life—In 6 Acts

Doings of the Screen Artists

Baby Marie Osborne, just returned from her coast to coast "kissing tour," says that after sampling up all the kisses she received from high officials, mayors and governors, she really thinks she prefers ice cream. The ingratitude of women!

Director Clarence C. Badger is busy at the Goldwyn studio on the new Madge Kennedy picture, "The New Lady Bancroft," which is being put in order for the public for the fourth time. The story has undergone straight production, it traveled the musical comedy route as "The Rainbow Girl" and it was originally in book form—and now the screen. Miss Madge has 22 servants in the picture. She marries a lord, goes to his home and finds to her astonishment that 19 of the "help" are her own relatives. Mr. Badger is getting some unique situations out of the story.

Winifred Westover has received an offer from South America to appear in pictures for a Spanish producer. She has partly refused because she knows no Spanish, does not like warm climates and besides it would be necessary for her to dye her hair black and lose those beautiful golden locks.

George Walsh, after completing "Help! Help! Police" at Palm beach is back in New York again and preparing to begin work on another comedy drama, "The Seventh Person." The story was written by Benjamin F. McCutcheon, and Edward Dillon, who directed the last three George Walsh subjects, will be the director.

Work is now well under way for the select production starring Sergt. Guy Empey and entitled "Hell on Earth." In addition to Sergt. Empey, who will play the part of "Jack Duncan," the cast includes such well known names as Evelyn Martin, Frank Norcross, Sallie Crute, Harry Lee and Roland Osborne.

An entire railroad system was leased Sunday, April 13, in New Jersey, when William Fox determined to put a realistic train wreck into a picture.

For half a mile the burning cars sped down a grade toward an open draw-bridge in the Hartman river, while more than two thousand persons from Santa River, a New Jersey village looked on one of the most interesting dramatic spectacles they had ever seen. And then came the crash—and the camera man stopped cranking. The scene was taken for the new feature picture "Checkers" which is soon to be released by the Fox company, and which will have a local appearance some time in the future.

"The Knickerbocker Buckaroo." Douglas Fairbank's latest picture, is soon to be distributed by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, and will make its appearance here sometime next month. Advance reports state that this film is one of the most thrilling in which the inimitable "Doug" has yet appeared. Marjorie Daw will play the feminine lead.

"The Jungle Trail." William Farnum's newest picture released through Fox has just been completed, and is said to be one of the most costly productions the star has made since "Les Misérables." The scenes are laid in New York and in the African jungle. The leading feminine role is played by Anne Luther.

Marguerite Clark, who has finished the final scenes of her new Paramount picture, "Come Out of the Kitchen," has gone to California, where she will begin work at the Hollywood studio on Clyde Fitch's well known comedy "Girls."

"Cowardice Court," one of the best known novels written by George Barr McCutcheon, is being filmed in California with Peggy Hyland as the star. Mr. McCutcheon, like Mr. Belasco makes his bow in this picture as an author for the screen. Another popular novel which is being made into a photoplay is "The Lone Star Ranger," regarded as the best of Zane Grey's books. Both pictures will have a local appearance later in the season.

Norma Talmadge has arranged with the Willys-Overland company of New York to have a motion picture exhibit in their Broadway windows at 50th street during the Victory loan drive. During certain hours of the day Miss Talmadge herself will sell bonds, giving an autographed photo of herself to each purchaser.

May Allison will not be annoyed any more by sensational letters from H. Frederik Puff, of Los Altos, California, who claimed that she was his "spirit bride." Freddie has been arrested and is detained on an insanity charge.

MOVIE BRIEFS

Roxanna McGowan and Al Ray were married two weeks ago.

Viola Dana has bobbed her hair a la Nazimova.

Dorothy Bernard is playing on the legitimate stage in Los Angeles in "The Man Who Came Back."

Grace Cunard will return to the screen in "The Phantom Raider."

CHARMING JULIETTE DIKA AND MANY NEW ACTS TO BE SEEN AT KEITH'S SUNDAY

Juliette Dika, best of French singing comedienne, will head the list of good acts at the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon and evening. Miss Dika scored one of the most notable of hits during last week's tour. Personality is of the undoubted sort. The kind that makes a real impression. Wilson Bros., who are singers and very good natured ones, at that, will also be on the bill, as will Evelyn Lee and Mary Cranston. Four brand new acts will be brought on for the special Sunday performances. Elsie Mains is one of the products of syncretized music, in fact she ranks very high among those singers of raptures. Next week she will ton the bill at the Keith Theatre, and she will be assisted in her work by her "black and white boys," a jazz band so named because the wearers have black and white checked suits. "Single" and is more than making good according to reports about him. "Ave-ate-her" is the story of a little act Joe Morris and Flossie Campbell will bring forward. In this little skit the stars are the entire cast. Fred St. Onge, the great bicycle performer, will make a novel entrance. Preceded by motion pictures showing him running from a balloon straight for the roof of the theatre. St. Onge comes from the fly loft with such speed that there is a tremendous lot of noise when he lands. He is associated with May Ritchie, and their act is said to be one of the very best cycle turns in vaudeville. Larry Morthy Lee give the novel comedy skit called "After the Matinee," and they give it deliciously. The Lerner Girls are bright and novel and have a new idea about entertaining, and Ross Wyse and Co. featuring Little Tony, the Australian midget, will also give something new. Kindrums and their comedy will also be shown at each performance.

SUPERIOR BILL OF PHOTOPLAYS AT THE STRAND—SACRED CONCERT

A superior bill of photoplays and musical numbers will once more feature the offering at The Strand for the coming week. The sacred concert will have The Liberty Trio, singing and talking; George and Lillie Garden, xylophonists; Emma Brosseau, soloist; Lewis and Leona, songs and conversation. The feature picture will be Creighton Hale and Gladys Hulette in "Annexing Bill."

For the first part of the coming week "Three Green Eyes" with an all-star cast, including June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley, Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love and Johnny Hines, will be shown, and Dustin Farnum in "Light of Western Stars," a great Zane Grey story.

During the last three days of the week Tom Mix in "Fighting for Gold" and Madge Kennedy in "Daughter of Mine" will be presented. "Three Green Eyes," the new World Picture, was filmed from a famous play and the picture has even more punch than the play, which was one of the stage's biggest successes. In fact the picture rushes along from surprise to amusement and never slackens its pace in the closing climax. It is a fast-moving, victorious offering and should find favor with all patrons. Five stars of the screen appear in the cast. They are Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley and Johnny Hines. Think of it—these five stars all in one picture! It is certainly going some to see such an aggregation of the screen's best talent in a single presentation of this kind. The story deals with a young girl who has a school love affair. Her mother, however, persuades her to marry a rich man and before the marriage, the girl writes an indiscreet letter to another young man. The girl finally falls deeply in love with her husband and later she receives a note from one of her former lovers. Then the excitement begins for her. As a result she has many adventurous happenings, but in the end the whole thing is amply righted and every one is happy again. The five stars find ample opportunity to reflect their individual talent, while their combined efforts are pleasing to the extreme. It's an unusual story and its portrayal is decidedly good. You'll like it.

Patrons of the theatre will welcome Dustin Farnum in his big United States picture, "The Light of Western Stars," which will be shown during the first three days of the week in connection with the rest of a most superior program. This famous stage and screen star will be seen as the wild, but lovable Gene Stewart, and cowboy of the Southwestern border. With Dustin Farnum's virile, convincing talent and the most thrilling, fascinating of Zane Grey's masterly stories the picture teems with exciting interest.

A Vitagraph comedy and the newest Universal Weekly, and song numbers by Joseph Floriane, who has been retained for another week, will contribute to the exceptional bill. For the last three days of the week, starting with matinee on Thursday the offering will include one of Tom Mix's latest pictureizations, entitled "Fighting for Gold," and Madge Kennedy in "Daughter of Mine." A Sunshine comedy will help make the bill one of the unusual sort.

"Fighting for Gold" is described as another of those "rip-roaring" film creations. The story is based on the book, "The Highlander," by William MacLeod Rains. It's another splendid Seized 265 acres from an hacienda bordering Cuautla and told the overcrowded people to build homes.

Gave them protection from hacendados and marauders.

Reduced the 14 hour working day to eight hours and raised the wage from 50 centavos to one dollar to a dollar and a half.

Opened schools, hired more teachers, doubled their salaries and put every child to studying.

Told the 15 owners or administrators of the entire state of Morelos they would have to get out of the country.

Permitted individuals to lease the great haciendas from the owners, paying a nominal rent and guaranteeing all taxes. Permitted peasants who wished to work for themselves to occupy unutilized portions of the plantations.

estates he submitted a plan to fraction the land. He told them their monopoly was gone, but promised fair remuneration. They accepted!

The estates, some of which, were originally given to courtiers by the Spanish crown and which during four centuries owners have not seen, are being divided into farms of from ten to 1000 acres. No man is to own less than ten or more than 1000.

The land is to sell at from ten to one hundred dollars an acre, according to its location and water supply. A poor man may buy by paying one-tenth down, the balance by installments in ten years.

No poor is to mortgage or sell his land, because Gonzalez believes few landowners will participate in uncalculated rebellion.

He has planned to harness the turbulent Balsas river and to furnish water, light and power to the entire state. He has planned an electric line to traverse the state and connect with the interurbans just outside Mexico City.

He is tracking intensive farming to the former Zapatistas, and, by means of lectures and movies, is showing the Indian the progress of the civilized world. He has organized bands to furnish music to the Indians—no cheerful, weepy stuff but gladsome energy-supplying jazz.

He is furnishing free transportation into the state for colonists and their freight, has appointed civil administrative officials and has made the Surianos their own policemen. Hospitals, clinics and free markets have been erected.

He has impressed the Indian that there will be no monopolies.

I heard him refuse to permit a hotelkeeper to open a second hotel when his original hotel became overcrowded. "Nothing that savors of monopoly," he told the man.

EMILIANO ZAPATA WAS SCOURGE OF MEXICO

General Emiliano Zapata, Mexico's apostle of terrorism, and recently officially reported to have been killed by Carranza's troops, was a former plantation stirrup-boy who at the zenith of his rebel power gained temporary control of Mexico City. Twice since 1910 when he began his revolt in Morelos, he and his Indian followers took brief possession of the capital. For nine years he ravaged southern Mexico, cooperating for a time in 1911 with Villa. He was the most implacable enemy of peaceful reconstruction through several regimes. Poor, uneducated, primitive but magnetic, Zapata was the leader of Mexico's half-savage Indians in whose power he planned to place

Practical Auto Tips

Climbing That Hill
It's the ambition of most every new auto driver to "make" the hills on high. It's a dangerous ambition. And besides that it is hard on the engine.

The newer the driver, the less the chances he should take of having to shift gears part way up. It takes quick and expert action to shift from high to second, or on a very steep hill to low, at just the right instant to have the gears mesh properly and to avoid killing the engine.

And if the engine is killed, and the brake happens not to hold, there's every chance of a bad pile-up in backing down the hill, or to a position crossways of the road to get a fresh start.

Best shift into second near the bottom of the hill. Be sure the car is slowed to the pace at which second speed would carry you if you already had shifted.

In driving up a hill on first or second speed, you must know that your engine has some reserve power, that it is running fast enough so that it will not stall. And if you have to shift, do it quickly so as not to let the car slow down to a point that will kill the engine when you throw in the clutch again.

Care of the Brakes

"Brakes didn't work" has spelled the cause of many an auto accident.

The brakes should bind tightly when pressure is applied, but they should be free and clear when not in use. If a brake shoe binds when the pressure is released, it makes the car run hard.

Sometimes oil working out onto the brake lining will cause the brakes to slip. If you see that this is the cause, wash off the lining with gasoline and then see that the leakage of grease from the rear axle is stopped.

If it is worn things that cause the brake to refuse to hold, then have the brake relined.

A tendency of the car to skid to one side when the brakes are applied is proof of unequal adjustment.

A few drops of oil on the brake shoes or bands occasionally and oiling of all joints are essential to smooth operation of the brakes.

When You're Stalled

When you're stalled in a mud-hole or a sand pocket, don't madly revolve the wheels in an effort to climb out. You only dig in the deeper.

In the first place, when you strike a bad stretch of road, it's better to shift gears and move slowly and steadily through it than to try to slam through and then stall.

Once you're stuck, lighten the load, get a helpful shoulder to the body if you can, and try the slow, steady application of power. If she won't climb out and you have no chains to put on, sometimes a piece of rope wrapped a few times around the wheel will turn the trick.

There are several other little things that will sometimes get you out of trouble.

Dig holes in front of the front wheel to give the initial start, then block the rear wheels and repeat the operation if necessary.

Put brush in front of the rear wheels and turn them as slowly as possible.

Set the hand brake fairly tight. If one wheel is on firm footing. This destroys the action of the differential, or fasten the mired wheel so it can't turn and the other wheel will do the work and drag the mired one out.

The Steering Gear

You'll never give too much grease to the steering mechanism of a car. The steering gear housing should be kept nearly full of grease at all times. Sometimes when the steering gear works hard it's just because the driver doesn't realize just how much grease this part of his car can soak up. And lack of grease means worn parts, early replacement, sometimes accident.

Grease cups on the steering arm and the front axle must have regular attention, too. If the car is to steer properly and the parts kept from wear.

Usually a looseness of about two inches on the steering wheel is allowed. This permits the wheels to meet the inequalities of the road without strain on the arms of the driver by a constant joggling of the steering wheel. If there is too much play there is danger in quick turns, and difficulty in driving where the way is narrow. There's more of a tendency to skid, too.

Washing the Car

If you'll use some of the care in washing the car that you do in dusting off and polishing the piano, you'll keep it looking well longer.

Don't go after the dried mud with a hammer, but soak it off with a gentle flow of water from the hose, taking out the nozzle. Wash the mud away slowly and you will not scratch the finish of your car. On the under side of the fenders you can use more force. If you don't use a hose, pour the water on so the mud is carried away.

Dust off the top, and the body too, before you start the washing. When the car is washed, go over it with a soft sponge and be generous with the water. If you use soap be sure it is a soap with no alkali in it, as that is fatal to the polish of your car.

Follow the sponging with a rub with soft, clean cloths.

Castile soap, a sponge and tepid water will remove grease. When you have to wash mud out of the radiator, turn the hose in from behind so that you do not wet the coil or magneto and cause a short circuit.

If the hood is sponged off after the car has been out in a rain, it will not spot.

Clean leather with ammonia and water, but never with gasoline.

Safety First Hints

Here are a few tips on driving the motor car.

First assume that you must look out for yourself and the other fellow, too. Don't rely wholly on the other fellow doing the right thing, and you'll be on your guard if he does the wrong thing, and ready for the emergency.

Never back or swing from the curb into the street without looking back to see if the way is clear.

Glance both ways on each cross street, and if you're not on the main thoroughfare, slow down before you cross. It's safest to drive slowly enough to have the car well under control where buildings hide the intersecting streets.

Do not cut corners in turning, but keep well to your side of the street, and look both ways before you make the turn. Put out a hand as a guide to the car following or approaching.

In passing a slower moving vehicle, pass it on your left, but in passing a street car, always keep to the right.

Do not follow another vehicle too closely. It might stop suddenly.

Stop when the street car ahead of you stops, and stand still till all passengers getting off are out of the street. In most cities this is required by ordinance.

Dim your lights when approaching another auto on the road.

Use common sense at all times and you'll save trouble for yourself and the other fellow.

APPLICATION OF TIRES

The careful application of tires is quite as necessary as the choice of the correct type. Especially should the best adaptation of tire to rim be made a subject of concern.

Before applying a tire all rust and other foreign matter should be carefully removed from the rim. If rust has formed on the rim it will cause trouble at some later time, apart from the corroding influence of the rust. If tires have been driven deflated at any time, and will probably have accumulated on the rims, and unless this is removed the tires cannot seal or fit properly. The danger of pinching inner tubes can best be reduced to a minimum by dusting soapstone or powdered mica on the rims, so that the tire beads will slip into the correct position easily.

Inflate the inner tubes just enough to round them out before placing them inside the casing. Do not use tubes of the wrong size, and be sure that the valves are equipped with spreaders adapted to the particular type of casing used, whether instance, clincher, quick detachable, clincher or straight side. Valves in Firestone tubes are equipped with a universal spreader, and therefore are suitable for use in all three types.

Dust the inside of the case and the inner tube with powdered mica or talc. This will reduce friction and prevent adhesion of the tube to the case after they have been heated in service.

When the tires have been removed for some reason, it is a good idea, when reapplying, to reverse them, that is, to place the worn sides of the tires toward the car. It is not very generally known, though it is a fact, that almost all of the side wear on a tire occurs on the outside; that is, on the side away from the car. This sounds paradoxical. I know, but it is a fact nevertheless. This is due to road construction, rut wear, curb scraping and such things. The life of a tire may be prolonged to such an extent that a great deal higher mileage may be secured by turning the tires about occasionally to secure even wear upon both sides.

I said that tire and rim should be suited to each other. If straight side tires are to be used on clincher rims, filler beads ought to be fitted in the rim clinches to keep the side walls of the casings from being chafed and gouged. To avoid as much as possible the tendency of straight side tubes to lift up from the rims at the inner edges of casings and in this way permit a rolling motion sideways, it is advisable to have more spread between the cables than is needed for beads of the clincher variety.

The best way, therefore, to use straight side tires on clincher rims is not to use them at all. The two types don't mix.

Concluding this subject, the importance of using flaps should not be overlooked. Whether clincher or straight side tires are employed, bar rings should be in position. A few folks really don't know these last two things; more people know them and don't do them.

SUPT. WELCH ADMIRES BOSTON COPS' WORK

That the police arrangements in the 11th yesterday were little short of perfection was the opinion expressed by Supt. Welch of the local department, who, in company with police chiefs from many Bay State cities occupied seats in the grand stand near the state house yesterday afternoon.

"The police arrangements for caring for the enormous crowd were of the highest order," said the chief, "and it was the unanimous opinion of the officers from all over the state that the system could hardly have been improved upon. It was efficiency to the highest degree, and added considerably to the success of the event, which is one that I shall never forget."

Stupendous ever recorded a body of men. It was an outburst of enthusiasm and appreciation for the wonderful achievements "over there," an expression put up for almost two years and it broke and ran riot during the entire time that the wave of khaki swept by. It took over two hours for the big line to pass by and over the entire route there was a belief that it can truthfully be said might perhaps be equalled again but certainly never could be surpassed.

While there were clouds hovering overhead, there was sunshine in the hearts of all and while tears intermingled with cheers all were happy in the knowledge that the heroic boys had both here and asleep across the sea were being paid that homage, and respect that they earned on the blood soaked fields of France.

Columbus could be written and yet the entire story would not be told. As that great mass of tin-hatted warriors surged by thoughts and sights came that it would be impossible to describe; the heart would throb, the unbidden tear would come to the eye and then suddenly hands would wave, and only an outburst of cheers seemed capable of showing the feeling of the man, woman or child.

It was a continuous roar that accompanied the steps of the "Yankee" as they came and went, a roar that will never be forgotten by all those who stood shivering but happy through many long hours and found satisfaction in the fact that they had played a part in honoring those who had honored us, those who went across the wide Atlantic, infested with undersea pirates, and went to the very jaws of death that we, who live on the sidelines yesterday, might live in peace and happiness at home.

While Boston staged the gigantic reception, all New England and many other sections were represented in the vast multitude and while some accidents inevitably happened, the city and state, the efficient corps of officers and men in charge are to be commended on the remarkably successful manner in which they handled the crowd. Every detail in connection with the stupendous undertaking was executed perfectly and while the tired crowds surged through the ropes and rushed for trains, cars and autos to return to their homes, they all united in the expression that it was one great day, a day that will live in their memories for ever.

PARADE NOTES

Maj. Gen. Edwards, Brig. Gen. Cole and Col. Logan were accorded mighty ovations all along the line, the reception to the latter, the leader of Boston's Own, being the most enthusiastic.

The Boy Scouts did commendable work as ushers and first aids to the sick, in many of the grand stands.

The Salvation Army workers were out early in the morning and remained on duty all day. They served doughnuts for the doughboys, and also remembered the scouts, sailors and home guards, who did guard duty.

The boys were showered with fruit, candy, and smokes whenever a halt occurred.

Airplanes flying overhead gave the spectators an idea of the scenes and thrills "over there."

Lowell, true to her traditions, sent a large delegation to participate in the reception yesterday.

All trains leaving or passing through Lowell yesterday were filled to capacity, with people going to Boston for the "big day."

One thing that greatly impressed the writer was the remarkably short time it took the multitudes to disperse after the parade was over.

All people who had seats in windows were obliged to pay a war tax.

Sun Man Describes Stupendous Reception Accorded Y. D. Heroes Yesterday

"Over the Top."

This ever popular and probably overworked expression is really needed to adequately describe the triumph scored by the famous Yankee Division on parade in Boston yesterday. These gallant heroes who since their return to this country have been honored and acclaimed, were accorded an ovation yesterday as they marched up the triumphal avenue of the good old hub through frenzied masses of humanity that drove all previous receptions and acclamations into oblivion. These gallant sons of New England who had tramped long, weary miles through No Man's Land and wherever else duty called them were back on good United States soil, and their delight and the elations of the cheering millions that assembled at every vantage point along the triumphal line presented a mighty spectacle, a spectacle that will be recorded in history's pages as one of the most magnificent, tremendous and

One of the big attractions in this city late this afternoon and all during the evening is to be a real honest-to-goodness, American army fighting tank which, after steam rolling the dollars out of the patriots at North Billerica this afternoon, is expected to make Lowell as its next "stand" and propel itself around the streets here this evening so as to remind Lowell folk of the necessity for digging down and chipping in money to buy Victory loan bonds and "finish paying the bill for cannoning Bill."

The campaigners herd in Lowell all of whom have certainly put in a strenuous week, say that the propaganda behind the visit of the fighting tank to Lowell is to remind Lowell people, in common with people in all the other parts of the country, that they have escaped because of the fact that the

HOCKS WIFE'S FUR COAT TO BUY BOOZE

The extremes to which some men will go in search of strong thirst-quenching beverages was shown in police court today in the case of Mike Malovich, who, according to the story of his better half, yesterday took a notion to get tanked up, and not having the price, walked off with his wife's $10 fur coat, and after pawning it for a ten spot, invested the cash at a nearby saloon.

Mrs. Malovich testified that Mike was far from a model husband. He was particularly strong for beating her, she said, and rarely worked. He had no objection to her supporting the family, however, which she had been doing to the best of her ability for several months.

Mike had very little to say when he took the stand in his own defense. He admitted that work never appealed to him, and also stated that his wife was a very capable woman and usually managed to bring home a fair sized week's pay. He was found guilty of drunkenness, and it being his first appearance in court, a fine of $2 was

Giant Liner, With 12,000
Returning Soldiers Aboard.
Missed Mine by 30 Feet

NEW YORK, April 25.—The giant troopship Leviathan with 12,000 soldiers and 1,000 crew members, missed a mine by only 30 feet while on the grand banks of Newfoundland Tuesday morning. Her officers reported that she dodged the mine.

The ship had been warned to look out for a floating mine the day before by the transport ship, which had reported the mine. The course of the Leviathan was changed. She sailed nearly 100 miles to the southward of the location of the mine as given by the other transport.

The infernal machine was sighted. The officers said at 1:30 a. m. by Lieut. Comdr. Harold Cunningham, who was on the bridge, took ahead of the transport. Quick thinking and quick action was all that averted a collision. A desperate whirl of the wheel sent the great steamship past the mine with a margin of safety of 30 yards.

Note of the soldiers aboard knew until they docked how close they had been to danger, for the officers kept the incident to themselves, believing that if it became known a panic might be caused.

Six transports, carrying 22,573 troops, including 14,201 members of the 42nd "Rainbow" division and 1369 members of the 77th "Liberty" division (New York) arrived here yesterday from French ports. This is one of the largest single day troop arrivals in this port. More than one-half of the overseas forces were carried by the Leviathan, which came up the bay yesterday with 12,000 soldiers crowded on her decks. The transport ship, which was shortly after sunrise yesterday morning and she was followed an hour later by the battleship North Carolina, carrying 1593 more.

The cruiser Montana with 1508 soldiers, the passenger liner La Touraine with 250 soldiers, and the transport Prinz Frederick Wilhelm, with 1560, all arrived by early afternoon.

SEA CALLS OUR BOYS

Boston and Lowell Lead
State in Week's Navy

Enlistments

If Lowell goes over the top in the Victory loan drive as well as Chief Cary of the local naval recruiting station has succeeded in putting the city in the front ranks of New England cities in the matter of enlistments for Uncle Sam's sea service, the City of Spindles can well be assured of the final verdict. Lowell again leads other Massachusetts cities this week, with the exception of the Hub, in the number of local men who enlist in the navy.

Chief Cary is justifiably proud of the manner in which the young men of the city are signing up for a life on the ocean wave, and stated that he intends to keep up the good work and if Lowell doesn't go up and over the top each week among the Bay State recruiting stations, it won't be his fault.

Two more local young men were forwarded from the local office today. They were Alfred Benoit, 650 Merrimack street, Bremen, third class and Henry Baker, 75 Cabot street, apprentice seaman. This makes a total for this week from Lowell, of 12 young men.

WILSON CALLS DELEGATES

Continued

Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George approved of President Wilson's statement on the Adriatic problem was declared to be inaccurate in an official statement issued today.

WASHINGTON HEARS

SITUATION CLEARING

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Italian situation in the peace negotiations is "clearing rapidly" according to advices from Paris received today at the White House.

It was stated that the action taken by President Wilson was "endorsed everywhere." Just what developments were taking place was not disclosed, but it was evident that as a result of the message the tension which had prevailed in administration quarters for the past three days was considerably relaxed.

Expulsion From Situation

Secretary Lane today issued a statement explaining "one or two matters connected with the Flume situation that should not be overlooked." He said: "Flume was not to be given to Italy by the secret treaty made on Italy's entrance into the war, called the London treaty. Under this treaty, Flume was to go to Croatia which is now a part of Yugoslavia, and this is where President Wilson wishes it to go now."

"The question of giving Flume to Italy thus becomes a question of good judgment, and President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George and Clemenceau unitedly concluded that to give Flume to Italy would be unjust to the new republics east of the Adriatic, as Flume is the only port on the eastern side of the Adriatic which can be serviceable as a sea entrance to Yugoslavia and adjoining countries."

Young Republics Need Port

"The Italian claim is based on Italian desire, not on any right other than the claim as its people are Italian as they were a hundred years ago. But to gratify this desire now would be manifestly to wrong others and thus maintain a sore spot on the Adriatic which would cause irritation. Italy, with Venice and Trieste, can live happily and independently without Flume, while the young republics on the east of the Adriatic could not have a free life without access directly to the world by water."

ORLANDO WILL RETURN TO PARIS

PARIS, April 25.—Premier Orlando and his colleagues on the Italian delegation to the peace conference will appear before the Italian parliament on Monday, according to the Petit Parisien. It adds:

"We are able to affirm that whatever the outcome of this session of the Italian parliament, the premier and his fellow delegates will immediately start for Paris and that the Italian delegation will be in full strength at Versailles on May 1."

GERMAN TROOPS ATTACK MUNICH

GENEVA, Friday, April 25.—German government troops are attacking Munich and violent fighting is going on, the losses being heavy on both sides, according to advices received here by the way of Basle. The government troops are said to be gaining ground. Munich is virtually isolated from the rest of Germany.

VIENNA CHEERS ITALIAN WITHDRAWAL

VIENNA, April 25.—(By the Associated Press.)—The withdrawal of the Italian legation from the peace conference was received here with exultation, the people generally being glad to see the allies in conflict with each other. The Neue Freie Presse says:

"Premier Orlando is a big thing, probably in order to square his position in Italy toward the interventionists. It is impossible for Italy to withdraw, as she is tied up America. President Wilson's position is based on the fact of right and justice and it is hoped he will act in the same way toward Romania and Tyrol, where the people will be driven to desperation if subjected to Czech or Italian control."

MORTALITY SHOWS A SLIGHT INCREASE

Lowell's mortality rate for the present week shows an increase over that of the preceding week. There were 41 deaths this week in comparison with 27 last week and 24 for the week before. The rates for the three weeks were 12.71, 12.00 and 12.57, respectively. There were 10 deaths of children under five years of age and of these five were under one year. There were four deaths from infectious diseases, six from pneumonia, one from bronchitis, one from infantile paralysis and three from tuberculosis.

Infectious diseases reported included: Diphtheria, 1; scarlet fever, 2; measles, 1; tuberculosis, 3 and influenza, 1.

VIENNA CHEERS ITALIAN WITHDRAWAL

VIENNA, April 25.—(By the Associated Press.)—The withdrawal of the Italian legation from the peace conference was received here with exultation, the people generally being glad to see the allies in conflict with each other. The Neue Freie Presse says:

"Premier Orlando is a big thing, probably in order to square his position in Italy toward the interventionists. It is impossible for Italy to withdraw, as she is tied up America. President Wilson's position is based on the fact of right and justice and it is hoped he will act in the same way toward Romania and Tyrol, where the people will be driven to desperation if subjected to Czech or Italian control."

HEALTHY BOWELS

Nine-tenths of human sickness, from infancy to old age, comes from stomach or bowels being out of order. Headaches, tired feeling, nervous depression, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness stop, if you treat the stomach and bowels right and get them into working order.

The prescription, known as Dr. True's Elixir, has done wonders for sick people, men, women and children, because it is the one remedy that you can rely on to set things right in the stomach and bowels.

Sold by all druggists, big or little, everywhere. Druggists, as a rule, are very honest. They do not try to substitute something else for Dr. True's Elixir, because they know its value. Many druggists use it in their own families.—Adv.

Eddie Cicotte made a fair-weather start on his pitching record this year when he beat St. Louis, holding them to six hits. Remember those golden years of long ago when the Boston Americans thought Eddie all through?

Among the unique records which will come to light again when expert dopers and figure compilers turn in their proofs next fall, is the one which will say that the Washington and Philadelphia American league teams staged two 15-inning games to start the 1919 season.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The St. Peter's Juniors have yet to taste defeat in five starts and are anxious to take more local scalps. Any 12 or 13-year-old team will be welcomed. Send challenges through this paper.

The Parker A. C. would like to play any 12 or 13-year-old team. Challenges through this paper, or write the manager at 445 Chelmsford street.

Kid Stone, of Lawrence and Billy Taylor of Camp Devens will meet in an preliminary and Mickey Welsh and John Martin of Lowell will meet in the other.

Lowell Boy Navy Champs
Johnny Doyle has received the following clipping, telling of the remarkable success of his brother-in-law in the ring:

Few boxers developed in the service or Uncle Sam during the war have compiled a more impressive record than Johnny Moran, lightweight champion of the navy, who has been in the ring since 1914. In his last seventeen bouts he knocked out ten opponents, won from six others, and fought one draw.

Five of the knockouts were scored in two rounds, one in three rounds, two in five rounds, one in six rounds, and one in ten rounds. His victims included Patsy Hagen, champion of the English navy; Frankie Riley, Johnny Meek, "Black Gunboat" Smith, and Harry Fort. He also holds decisions over Ray West, Young Les Darcy, and Sator Joe Kelly, from whom he won the lightweight title of the navy. Moran is the type of fighter who pleases the fans. He is all action from the top of the game, and the power of his blows, manifested by his K. O. record, adds to the interest of his performance. Only nineteen years old, he is one of the most interesting candidates for future honors in the lightweight division.

Ted Scully, Moran's manager, announces that Johnny is ready to meet any of the boys in his class.

RICH RED BLOOD
Is what you must have, to conquer Anaemia and overcome Paleness, Thinness, Weakness.
ANAEMIA (or poor, thin blood) is the curse of modern civilisation. THOUSANDS of women and young girls especially are sad, discouraged, listless and made miserable by unstrung nerves; simply and solely because their blood is so poor and thin that they are actually starving.
IF you, who are reading this, are down-hearted and have lost interest in life because no treatment which you have taken did you any good, just try RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women. Get two or three boxes, so you can take enough to see for yourself just what they can do for you.
IF you are pale and weak; if you have pains in the side, in the back, or between the shoulders, RED PILLS will do you a world of good.
DO you feel weak and tired after the slightest exercise, especially after going upstairs? Does your head feel giddy? Is there buzzing in the ears? RED PILLS will give you the strength you need.
DO you suffer from loss of sleep, no appetite, headaches, neuralgia, indigestion? RED PILLS should be taken.
ALL these troubles are due to Anaemia or poor blood, RED PILLS will overcome Anaemia.
THEY take away your bodily and mental troubles in these times of excessive work and worry.
MRS. A. ANTAYA, 5 Millard Street, Waukegan, Conn., says that often she would get up in the morning feeling more tired than the night before. She had severe headaches, backaches, palpitations of the heart, and dizziness. That was Anaemia. Several of her friends recommended to her the use of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women. She now recommends them to others, for the good which they have done to her.
CAUTION:—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870 by a famous French specialist.
They have been largely used in France by French women ever since. Now, America, inspired by the great demand on woman's labor, is accepting with gratifying results the use of RED PILLS for the treatment of Anaemia and general debility.

SEAPLANE FELL INTO SEA

3 Planes and Several Submarine Chasers Resumed Search For Missing Machine
CHATHAM, April 26.—Three seaplanes and several submarine chasers set out at daylight today to continue the search for one of the seaplanes from the naval station here which became disabled while returning from Boston after the 24th Division parade yesterday and which was believed to be drifting helplessly off shore. Three men, Lieut. J. S. Buchanan, Ensign John G. Howard and Bernard Torres, a radio operator, were in the machine.

The searchers were in constant communication by radio with the station. Several hours after they started, they reported that they had found no trace of the flyers.

The first news that the seaplane was in trouble came yesterday in a wireless message from Lieut. Buchanan, who said that engine trouble had compelled him to land on the water about half way between Plymouth and Provincetown. Patrol boats were immediately sent out but returned at dark without locating the flyers. Meanwhile another message from Lieut. Buchanan said that the high winds were carrying him toward Provincetown. Plans were expressed today that a change in the wind had driven the plane out to sea.

The missing machine is of the H type, one of the largest and most modern.

Two of Korea's Greatest Sages, Given Titles by Japan, Have Joined Ranks

SEUL, April 4. (Via San Francisco, April 26.)—By courier to the Associated Press.—Two of Korea's greatest sages, who were given titles by the Japanese court at the time of the annexation, have joined the ranks of the "peaceful revolutionists."

They are Viscount Kim Yun, 8th president, and Viscount Yi Yang Chik, vice president, of Confucian college.

It is reported at Seoul that Yi Yang Chik has been arrested in consequence of the presenting of a petition, with his brother sage, to the Japanese government. The petition urged independence for Korea.

DISCARDED CRUTCHES AFTER TAKING NEW REMEDY

Joints Stiff and Swollen From Rheumatism—Not an Ache or a Pain Today

"Well, I want to tell you how grateful I am for the wonderful change Weldon made in me," said Henry Everett, of 25 Spring Street, Everett, Mass., recently at the Weldon Headquarters.

"I was completely discouraged when I heard of this Weldon. I was just able to move about on crutches and even then it was torturous every minute. I was afraid some one would knock against me, which would bring on another paroxysm."

"Two weeks after taking Weldon the swelling had almost disappeared from my knees. I continued to improve until I was able to discard my crutches. Gradually every sign and symptom of the disease left me so that I was able to return to work as well as ever. Enthusiastic about Weldon? Why wouldn't I be, after suffering as I did and not finding anything until I took this Weldon?"

You would be grateful, too, wouldn't you, if you didn't have an ache or a pain of rheumatism?

If your knees were sore, stiff, and swollen, and you found relief—wouldn't you be happy, too—wouldn't you?

If every step you would take made you cry from pain, and you found something to make you well—wouldn't you tell others about it, wouldn't you?

I want to tell the people of Lowell who suffer from rheumatism, that they can't afford to fail to try this medicine. It certainly acts quickly.

It was stated that the Weldon man would continue to meet the public at Weldon, the Druggist, Merrimack St., Lowell, every day to explain more about this preparation, and to give out, without charge, the newspaper which is published in the interest of rheumatism, as well as the book, "Germs of Rheumatism—How They Live—How They Die."

MIGHTY OVATION FOR COL. EDDIE LOGAN

BOSTON, April 26.—The history of Boston must be turned back nearly 20 years for a parallel to the demonstration accorded yesterday to Col. Edward L. Logan of the 101st Infantry as he rode his light bay charger through a continuously cheering crowd.

Admiral George Dewey was undoubtedly a popular hero in 1898 and Gen. Joseph was loudly acclaimed in the parade of 1917, but every one in the great crowd and in all the stands knew "Eddie" Logan and it needed only a glimpse of his smiling face to bring every man, woman and even the children to their feet.

In fact the cheering was continuous from the time Col. Logan headed his charger into lower Beacon street and started up the long incline to the state house. The roar could be heard half a mile away, so everyone was more or less prepared for something unusual when he came in sight. The cheering by the crowd and the deafening handclapping by the state officials at the state house was the first of the tributes paid Col. Logan, but when he was seen coming down Tremont street by the great crowd in the big city stand on the common, the thousands in that hour tier of seats were ready for him and the highest pitch of enthusiasm was unbroken.

Crowd Goes Wild Over Logan

Led by Jerry Watson and ex-Lt. Gov. Barry the crowd cheered Col. Logan to the echo, called him pet names, hurled flowers in his path and did everything to assure him that he was Boston's most popular war hero.

The crowd in the stand on Boylston street on the common was fully as demonstrative. In fact the cheering was practically uninterrupted until the upper end of Commonwealth avenue was reached. And even up near the turn where a large delegation from Maine was waving the blue state flag with its pine tree, there was more or less cheering for the leader of the 101st.

When the head of the 101st reached Fairfield street on the south side of Commonwealth ave. it halted a few minutes, and Col. Logan seized the opportunity to ride to the other side of the avenue as Brig. Gen. Cole was passing up at the head of the 52d Brigade. Col. Logan heard the cheering for his fellow-townsman, but as one of his aids remarked, "They gave you more than that, colonel." About the same time Gen. Edwards was passing up Boylston street at the other end of Fairfield street, so that the three most popular commanders in the parade were being cheered on different parts of Fairfield street at about the same time.

It was not alone the stands which broke forth at the appearance of the commander of the 101st. If anything, the cheering on Columbus avenue, where stands were comparatively few, was fully as enthusiastic as on the common or Commonwealth avenue. Everyone seemed to recognize Col. Logan and everyone burst forth, "There's Eddie Logan," and cries of "O you Eddie." "Three cheers for Eddie Logan" swept through the crowd as if someone had touched a hidden spring.

Chaplain Thrown from Horse

Col. Logan's horse was restive at the cheering during the early part of the parade, but by the time the state house had been passed the colonel and his well under control and he was quite docile during the rest of the march. On the other hand, several members of the staff had great difficulty in curbing their steeds and it was the great cheering in the Elks' stand near the Lenox which frightened Chaplain Mitty's horse and sent the priest to the pavement, fortunately without injury. Col. Logan did not know of the accident until after Chaplain Mitty had retired from the parade.

Col. Logan equipped his horse with his old 9th Regiment saddle cloth and seemed proud of the relic of the Mexican campaign.

"It was a great day," remarked the colonel as he headed the first battalion of his regiment out of Park square at the finish and down Elliot st.

BAD DREAMS

Is dreaming a disease? Mr. Gregory Ades, 654 Merrimack street, Lowell, thinks so. His statement follows: "For six years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble and constipation. I would fill up with gas till it seemed I couldn't breathe; my heart would palpitate and I would get dizzy. My appetite became very poor and I had to be careful what I ate. I had a sharp pain in my back most of the time and my kidneys were bad. I had to sleep three times a night and the urine would burn me. I did not sleep well nights for I would dream the most awful dreams and couldn't rest. I am a spinner at the Tremont & Suffolk mills but couldn't work only part time before getting Goldine. I am glad to tell about that medicine to anyone who needs it for stomach and bowel trouble. Tell anyone to ask me if they want to know."

INFLUENZA, GRANDMA AND GOLDINE

I had influenza and I had it bad. There were times when I would shake with chills and no amount of covering could warm me. Then in a few moments I would be burning up with fever. A great weakness seemed to settle over me and I could hardly force myself to move.

It left me without any color in my face, with no appetite and so weak I could hardly stand. Grandma Newman was down town one day and brought me back a bottle of Goldine. That did the work for me. I drove the influenza out of me and the color has come back into my face. I feel fine and I enjoy my food.

LYLE BLANCHARD.

THAT'S TRUE, SAYS GRANDMA NEWMAN

I just want to tell you that I think Goldine is a wonderful medicine for anyone who has had the influenza. You ought to have seen that boy before he started taking it. He was so pale and white that it seemed he would never be like himself again, and he couldn't eat, but now the color has come back in his face and we are all happy to see him so hungry and full of life. It is just like getting our boy back, and Goldine did it. He lives with me and I wanted to tell you that it's true what he said.

MRS. F. D. NEWMAN.

14TH ENGINEERS LAND AT BOSTON TOMORROW

BOSTON, April 25.—The boys of the 14th Railway Engineers, composed of the New England railroads, are assured of a hearty welcome as they make their way up the harbor tomorrow morning on the transport Dakota. This regiment of New Englanders is returning after long and arduous service on many fields in France. Indications last night were that the Dakota will come into Boston harbor late this afternoon and will remain in President Roads until early Sunday morning when she will steam up to Commonwealth Pier, accompanied by a large welcoming fleet.

The steamer that will go down from the city will be sufficient to accommodate all relatives and friends desirous of seeing their loved ones again. The Monitor and Samoset will leave Eastern Wharf with the mayor's welcoming committee and the Rodday, Machigonne and Admiral will leave Northern Avenue Bridge, with the possible exception of the Rodday, which may go from the North End park pier. From just where the Rodday will depart is still unsettled by the committee.

In addition to these boats the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has chartered a steamer from the Nantasket Steamboat Co. and the Boston & Maine has chartered another. A ferry boat of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad will be pressed into service, as there are eight employees of that company in the regiment. This ferry boat will take relatives and friends of the organization living in East Boston and Winthrop. The hour of sailing tomorrow morning for the harbor trip is uncertain, but undoubtedly will be early. The exact hour will be decided upon today.

Because of the early hour and the lack of early railroad service, the Boston & Maine will run four special trains tomorrow morning, arriving in Boston in plenty of time to make connections with the boats. The specials will run from Newburyport, Haverhill, Lowell and Fitchburg, and will make every stop along the route.

Robert H. Newcomb, assistant to the federal manager of the Boston & Maine, room 11, North station, will be in his office all day today and well into the night to give out boat tickets to those who wish to go down the harbor. The boat tickets will be good for the trip to this city on the Sunday morning specials.

The running of at least on special train over the New Haven has been discussed, but nothing definite has been decided upon. It is planned, however, to have several sleeping cars in the South station for the accommodation of persons from far outside the city who arrive on late trains tonight. Persons living nearby will not be accommodated. Howard Newcomb and F. S. Murray of the New Haven have charge of the distribution of boat tickets and will be at the South station today. The Boston & Albany tickets have been sent through the mails by Walter E. Adams.

GERMAN PEACE ENVOYS REACH VERSAILLES

PARIS, April 26.—(By the Associated Press).—The first of the Germans who are to participate in the Versailles congress arrived in Versailles yesterday in two parties.

The first group, consisting of three official couriers, Herren von Wardenburg, Walter and Duker, arrived early in the day, and the second, headed by Herr Lersner, came later. They were escorted to the Hotel des Reservoirs.

The Germans were met at the station by Col. Henry of the ministry of war commissary, and M. Cudaille of the ministry of the interior, who were delegated to take charge of the German representatives.

The augmentation above those anticipated made it necessary to seek additional quarters, and a second hotel, the Hotel Vatel, probably will be requisitioned for the telegraphers, newspaper correspondents and other attaches of the Teutonic mission.

French detectives at the entrance and under the windows were the only indications of the character of the state guests.

Protection and the avoidance of possible unpleasant incidents, rather than restrictions, will be the purpose of such police measures as are taken, according to a statement made by one of the French representatives. The Germans will be allowed freedom of movement between their two hotels. Nor is it expected that the Germans will seek to extend their promenade far and wide through the vast park.

Herr Lersner and his party immediately went to their rooms on arriving and had breakfast served to them from the hotel kitchen by the hotel servants. The large dining room in the main wing of the Hotel Reservoirs has been reserved for them.

The Germans remained in their rooms during the morning but commenced yesterday afternoon to make the preliminary arrangements for the arrival of the main German delegation. This probably will be May 1, although the date has not been finally determined.

The German delegation will be allowed to use code in communicating with Germany and will have direct telephonic and telegraphic connections. The Germans will also be allowed to use couriers, who will enjoy full diplomatic immunity.

Greek Man Tells of Strength

"Whence Comes This Great Nerve Force and Wonderful Vitality?"

The Greek Tells You.

Some of the most perfect specimens of physical manhood that the world has ever known have been Greeks. They are handsome, brave, and full of most wonderful nerve force and vital energy.

MR. ANGELO ZALPOS

Mr. Angelo Zalpos of 6 Middle street, Newburyport, Mass., is a Greek by blood although his heart beats warm and true for his adopted country, the good old United States.

Mr. Zalpos says: "The secret of strength, vitality and a seemingly inexhaustible fund of vital power is just this—Iron in the blood."

"Whenever I feel poorly I first look out for my blood."

"To put the blood in proper condition I take the Iron-Lax-Tonic treatment."

"I suspect lack of iron in the blood if anyone has constant colds, no color, a languid feeling with no energy or ambition or sleeplessness and dull all-around feeling."

"Then at once commence with the Iron-Lax-Tonic. The treatment in tablet form can be bought at any drug store."

There you have the advice of a strong, vigorous man, who has plenty of strength, vitality and nervous force for a busy life and plenty of strength and vitality left to enjoy all the pleasures of life.

Remember the name—Iron-Lax-Tonic. Accept no substitute. Get the genuine.

Take Iron-Lax-Tonic for a while after you feel all well. It's a mighty good plan to build up the iron in the blood and get yourself good and strong. A good idea to start today.

Doctor Says One Lung Is Healed and Other Nearly So

Urges Patient To Keep Up the Treatment That Did the Work

"I had consumption of the lungs for six years. I had an outside abscess in sleeping room, and remained out in the open air nearly all the time. I used six raw eggs a day and about a gallon of milk. I had a great many hemorrhages, and was just barely able to walk around the house a little."

"I began taking Milks Emulsion in June. I have now taken my eighteenth bottle and feel greatly benefited. I had my doctor examine my lungs the other day, and he said that one of them is healed, and the other is nearly so. He urges me to keep on using Milks Emulsion, which I intend to do. My original weight was 176 pounds. I have regained most of it, now weigh 180 pounds and feel almost as strong and good as I ever did. My only regret is that I didn't hear of Milks Emulsion six years ago."

—Tracy Dees, Magnolia, Ark.

Whether Milks Emulsion would succeed as well for you as it did for me, above case, is easy for you to find out. It is at least bound to benefit you, and it costs nothing to try it.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down, nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs, chronic stomach trouble and constipation. It promptly relieves—usually in one day. It works like magic on coughs and colds.

This is the only solid emulsion made. A reliable fact that it is eaten with a spoon like the cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under the supervision of your doctor. Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60¢ and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., New York, N.Y. Sold and guaranteed by Fred Howard.

AIM AT THE HOMES

When an arrow is shot into the air, you know it will inevitably come back to earth and stick into the ground—somewhere.

Many advertisers aim their arrow—their ad—at the home and when they throw the how they hope that the arrow will reach the intended spot.

Yet, often times their ad is sent off in a way that it is as uncertain and as haphazard as reaching its mark as it would be to waver in just what spot an arrow would fall.

Now, if it's worth while to aim at the homes with your ad—and most business men say it is—why not stop guesswork when you send out your ad. Get it into the "home-going field of advertisement." It's easily done. Be represented in

The rule of the Bolshevik seems to be on the wane in Russia. The people are beginning to realize the impossibility of satisfactory conditions under the Bolshevikism of Trotsky and Lenin.

Before the war there was an abundant supply of food in Russia and it was available to the people. There was food enough under the administration of Lvoff. There was also food enough under the rule of Kerensky. But under the regime of Trotsky and Lenin, there is not food enough and there is no way of distributing what is produced.

An Englishman named Keeling, recently returned from Russia, says that conditions in that country are simply frightful. The people are classed for the distribution of food and the latest reports show that the rations allowed are as follows:

Workers on heavy manual work and children are allowed 1 1/2 pounds of black bread a day; workmen on lighter work, 3-4 pound a day; clerks, teachers, etc., in Bolshevik institutions allowed 1-4 pound; and those living on capital allowed 1-8 pound.

The Russian peasants finding themselves under such restrictions, are beginning to plan raising only enough for their own immediate needs. They are to go on a strike against the cities by holding what they produce, so far as they are able, in hidden stores.

This will not help matters. Nor will there be any improvement until Russia is relieved from the incubus of Bolshevism. It is dying hard, but is said to be tottering to its downfall which may come sooner than expected. Added to the horrors of famine are those other trials in the form of plunder, murder, rapine and open disregard for right or justice, especially in dealing with those who are suspected of having any money. Since no man in Russia can exceed the minimum amount to eat, nobody cares to produce more than he and his family can eat. Thus will Bolshevism finally wear itself out to the vast benefit and everlasting gratification of all right thinking people in Russia.

COST OF LIVING

According to information sent out by the department of labor, there will be no return to pre-war prices and the price level of the present time is likely to remain for years, with some slight modifications in certain commodities and in certain localities.

What are the facts? The rise of prices during the war period was fully as great in other countries as in this, and in some very much greater. In the United States, the wholesale prices of all commodities in September, 1918, were 107 per cent higher than the 1913 level; in Canada, 115 per cent; in England, 133 per cent; France (in June, 1918) 235 per cent.

The rise in prices was coincident with a considerable increase in the circulating medium and the amount of bank deposits. In this country, the average amount of money in circulation in 1913 was $34.65 per capita. In December, 1918, the amount had increased to $56.23 or 62 per cent. The present figure is $55.76 per capita, or 55 per cent increase over the 1913 figure.

The increase shown in the cost of living averaging all the important commodities at the present time is 61 per cent higher than in 1911, while some commodities increased from 88 per cent to 148. Food increased 75 per cent, clothing 81 per cent. There has been a slight decrease in prices since the signing of the armistice, but prices have taken an upward tendency which indicates that there will be no return to the pre-war level and no downward movement as expected by some who have been holding back on building propositions.

CHAUNCEY DEFEW

Today our annual friend, Chauncey Dewey, gives the 28th dinner in honor of his birthday—the 55th. It is but a short time since Mr. Dewey delivered an oration at the unveiling of a monument to himself, and his utterances then as now are well worth reading. In his address on the present occasion he reviewed the leading events of past history, the evolution of our own nation and after describing the essence of the Monroe Doctrine and the fire through which the constitution of the League of Nations passed, he closed with this statement:

"The desire for peace is unanimous, the weariness of war is universal. We want first of all a treaty which will make it impossible for those who brought on this war to try another one. We want a League of Nations which will not require an amendment to our constitution, nor the reversal of those policies which have made us so great, prosperous and happy. Mr. Wilson coined a happy phrase when he said that for over forty years France had stood upon the frontiers of freedom. This is eminently and tragically true. Except for her might, her awful sacrifices, her soul and her spirit, the world might have been wrecked. Old conditions may return, old perils may revive, but we will never again permit France to stand alone on the frontiers of freedom."

G.O.P. CANDIDATES

The republican party is beginning thus early to send out beams for presidential candidates. Since the death of Roosevelt, there has been a demand for a choice of a Rooseveltian candidate and the response comes with a great whoop for Hiram W. Johnson, the junior senator of California.

Johnson is exploited as the man who stands for "America first" and he is a strong opponent of President Wilson's policies on the League of Nations as an instrumentality for promoting peace. He has been so close to the late Col. Roosevelt that he now tries to fill his place politically so that he is likely to be put forward as a man after the colonel's own heart—plus a proclivity for opposing Japanese interests that is fully as dangerous as any policy advocated by Roosevelt.

It would not be surprising to see ex-President Taft boomed as a candidate if the League of Nations meets with popular favor. He is the fairest man the party has; but he is not enough of a politician to please boys or Fess of the national organization, and he would consort badly with Lodge and the other leaders who assailed the League of Nations.

Mr. Hughes seems rather to have been sidetracked as a candidate and after one defeat, it is doubtful if he would care to risk another trial, unless the prospects of success were reassuring. Still, if he finds any sentiment in favor of his nomination, he is likely to make the most of it.

SPRING CLEAN-UP

This is the time to clean up, paint up and perhaps we should add—dress up.

The city beautiful is a movement in which some cities make much progress while others fail to be impressed by the idea.

There is much room for improvement in Lowell. The spring clean-up has not been completed, as many of the backyards and alleys indicate. The health department has been pushing this matter of a general clean-up, but it is a big undertaking to get the job done right. The police should be instructed to insist upon people who litter the street with rubbish in front of their premises, cleaning up at least in the spring. It would be a good standing rule to adopt, to give police officers authority to deal with families who persist in throwing rubbish of all kinds into the street instead of placing it in a proper receptacle for removal by the health department.

BURLESON

Postmaster Burleson is right in holding that newspapers and other publications should pay for the expense of transportation and delivery through the mails, and we do not believe his allegation that there is an organized movement to destroy him in order to save to the publishers of the country a subsidy of $70,000,000 in the shape of a deficit in the department due to the low postal rates offered.

On this point, Mr. Burleson is mistaken. Nobody in the country could do so much to destroy him as he has done himself through his stupidity in handling the telephone strike.

His decision to refuse transmission to certain matter submitted to the Postal Telegraph company and criticizing him is another instance of his lack of sound judgment. If a newspaper sent out libelous matter, the law provides a remedy; but fair criticism of a public official is not libel. Burleson has made another mistake.

THE LOAN

The one great patriotic duty before the people of this nation at the present time, is that of making up the amount of money called for by the government in the Victory Liberty loan. Lowell has to maintain her record so that it is expected that every individual man and woman will perform his or her full duty in subscribing generously to the loan made necessary by the vast expenses of the war. The soldiers offered their lives, what are we willing to offer in response to the government's call? The terms of the present loan are more liberal than those of the others. It should not be left to the banks to give the greater part of the amount because if the banks are short of money, the business of the community will suffer from financial stringency.

We don't know as we will ever feel justified in reflecting upon the stupidity of women when we read in a Boston paper that the defendant in a certain court case testified, when asked if he was ever engaged to the plaintiff, "I don't know as I was. We used to talk over the home we would have when we were married; but I don't know as I'd consider I was engaged to her."

Worcester people hear with pleasure the announcement that 2500 state grangers are expected to meet in convention in that city Dec. 8, 9, 10 and 11, making the Hotel B. Rancourt their headquarters. Too bad Lowell couldn't have such a convention. Lowell has no hall suitable for a convention of such magnitude and as for hotels, well, the hotels here do the best they can. Bring on the auditorium.

When, in 1918, Gen. von Hindenburg said the Germans would be in Paris by April, he made a slight mistake. To have been perfectly frank and honest, he ought to have said the Germans would reach Versailles by April, 1919, and explained that their business would be to put their names on the dotted lines as indicated by the index finger of the Big Four.

Why save up to buy a corner lot in paradise? New York has not only made baseball a legitimate amusement on Sundays after 2 p. m., giving each community the right to decide for itself whether it wants to permit Sunday afternoon games, but has also legalized Sunday fishing.

There is nothing to be feared from a state audit of the city accounts once in three years, as proposed. The state officials cannot consistently charge an extraordinary figure for such service. The audit made by Chief Gettely's office should at least be as reliable as that of the average expert.

German newspapers tell us that the peace terms are a defeat for Wilson. He can stand it if the Huns can.

JOBS WANTED NOW FOR VICTORY CONCERT BY BOYS OF 26TH

The information for which we asked through the columns of The Sun in regard to positions for the returning lads of the 26th Division, has not been forthcoming. It was Examiner Cronin's statement today, when The Sun man called at the United States Soldiers and Sailors' bureau, at 119 Merrimack street.

The 26th Division boys are now returning to Lowell. We want to find employment for them, and this is impossible unless the employers take this call seriously and give us information that will lead to re-employment of the returning men.

"The boys were called—they went. Now that they are coming back, are you, Mr. Employer, going to respond to the call for this information as readily as they did to their call to duty? We are doing our best, but must have help. Is it not the duty of every citizen to do his bit in this work, as in all other war work?"

Let us know of any employment you may have for returning service men—if you have nothing, tell us of anyone who has. Call the bureau for returning soldiers and sailors on the telephone, write, or drop in personally, and help us to do our duty for the boys who were willing to give their all for us."

Armour, secretary of the American legation; Mrs. Armour, Majors Rushee and Hoffmann; Commanders Bagley and Barber.

The secretary also attended a reception at city hall, then visited the Waterloo battlefield and Bruges.

Secretary Daniels has arrived in England since this despatch was filed.

SEEN AND HEARD

Lowell was a deserted little village yesterday.

It was "good night" peach and cherry blossoms early yesterday morning.

When are you going to get "yours"—the last two in July or the first two in August?

There will be a great run on blue serge and gray mixtures when the 26th boxing to discharge.

The saddest incidents connected with yesterday's parade were when people, whose sons will never return, couldn't bear to watch "his" former comrades march by.

Quite Some Pond

Two soldier boys from the west, who had been hurried to the coast, and on board ship in the dark, were next morning surveying with open-eyed wonder the boundless stretch of rolling blue around them.

"Vee, vee, Bill," said one. "Who would have thought they could be so much water as that?"

"I know it," drawled the other. "And just think, Jim, you only see what's on top."—Rebels Sunday Herald.

These Would "Go" Home

A benevolent old gentleman was walking through the outskirts of a town, when a woman darted out into the road, unmercifully beating a little lad.

"My good woman," exclaimed the kindly one as he seized the woman's arm to stop her, "you mustn't do that. What harm has he done?"

"What? I mustn't do that? What harm has he done?" she shrieked. "If you would like to know, he has opened the hen roost and all the fowls have got away."

"Well, if that's all, it's nothing so very dreadful, Chickens, you know, always come home to roost."

"Yes, that's just it," said the woman, gloomily.—Chicago News.

Attention Girls!

(By Philip O'Neil)

Millie and Tillie, stenographers twain, flitting to town on the 8 o'clock train; Were discussing their troubles in tones quite sincere.

And the gist of their confab, I couldn't but hear, for they were talking of spring and her various styles.

Punctuating their talk with most amusing little smiles; They talked about dresses, and hats, and new shoes.

And things ereations of numerous hues, They planned to surprise their co-workers quite soon.

By discarding their mid-winter coats of racoon, And reporting to work some sunny spring morn.

"Dressed up" so to speak, in a new uniform, "From the way that they talked, to me it was clear.

That this debut they planned, to them, was quite dear, And the woman's position it if you gave them the earth.

They joyously giggled while bubbling To hear their conspiring, these creatures so vain.

One couldn't help wondering if they were still talking clothes when the train reached the station. These two little dummies so full of elation.

After I left them they soon slipped my mind As I was engrossed in life's daily grind.

But I saw them again about a week later, And would you believe it, their joy was still greater.

They wore the same clothes as far as I knew, And the reason for this? Oh, I soon had a clue.

They each wore a button inscribed with a "V," And that's the whole story, quite simple, you see.

Instead of new clothes to create a sensation, They invested their money in bonds of the nation.

And this was the course it seemed wise to pursue, Now these girls could do it, I wonder could you?

I think you will find if you try just this, That a little ditty in your case will fit.

And by refraining from waists of green, and than a blouse, You could buy a few bonds of this Victory Issue.

BROADWAYS A SUCCESS

"Some entertainers," was the unanimous opinion of the large crowd of young people who journeyed to Associated hall last evening, and enjoyed a "victory concert" given by the ever popular Broadway Social and Athletic club. The object of the concert was the raising of a fund for the entertainment of the 40 members of the organization who are still "over there," and it was to judge from the attendance last evening, the club must have made a long step towards reaching its objective.

The song festival was given under the efficient direction of Charles D. Slattery, and consisted of a varied and well-balanced series of musical numbers given in a manner that merited the enthusiastic reception accorded. A chorus of 40 voices added materially to the success of the entertainment. James Heslin was the interloctor—if that be the proper title—and filled the position with his usual grace.

The solo number by James Shugrue was one of the best contributions of the evening, while Alexander Beaulmer and Frank A. Corcoran were also well received. Everything considered it was one of the best entertainments of its kind given by any amateur organization in or about the city in seasons, and reflected creditably on all concerned.

Following the entertainment, which was given from 8 to 9 o'clock, general dancing was enjoyed to music by Minner Doyle's novelty orchestra.

The concert program was as follows:

CONTINUE TO EAT WHITE BREAD IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, April 26.—Americans will continue to eat "white bread," restored late last year, despite the return of European countries to a war-basis, according to Julius H. Barnes, president of the food administration grain corporation and federal wheat director.

A survey of wheat stocks, Mr. Barnes said yesterday, had convinced his department that the American supply was sufficient not only to warrant continued production of all-wheat flour but to meet the export demand until the next harvest.

"As far as America is concerned," Mr. Barnes said, "we have at present no intention of asking any change in the milling processes now maintained and which are not under any supervision whatever. We do propose to relax the strain on our own flour supplies by contributing to the general European relief program a 'victory' flour with a mixture of corn flour, rice flour or barley flour, under prescribed percentages, and are today advising the milling trade that offers will be received next Thursday for these mixed 'victory' flours for export."

"We are also taking steps to secure the co-operation of American mills in making rye flour from the large stocks of rye at present owned by the corporation, as rye flour is very suitable feed for large sections of Europe relying on us."

"The new winter wheat crop in this country promises to be very early," Mr. Barnes said, adding:

HESLIN TO SUPPLY STONE FOR LAWRENCE

VILLA MASSES TROOPS IN ROLE OF GLADIOLA

Concentrating All Forces Under His Control in State of Chihuahua

EL PASO, Tex., April 26.—Francisco Villa is concentrating all the troops under his control in the state of Chihuahua in an effort to wrest control of the state from the Carranza government, re-establish a provisional rebel government similar to the Villa government of 1915 and try to rally the various rebel bands throughout Mexico to his banner. This became known today with the arrival of refugees from Parral.

To finance his revolutionary movement, he plans to force the foreign mining, smelter and milling companies in northern Mexico, especially American corporations, to pay heavy tribute in return for protection. He is reported to be making plans to attack Chihuahua City soon.

The proposed mail-carrying circuit, which has its starting place in New York and covers Massachusetts by air line through the cities of Pittsfield, Springfield, Worcester, Attleboro, Taunton, Lowell and Boston. In fact, the interest has grown to the point of the consideration of suitable landing fields and real estate dealers are co-operating with the board of trade in finding up these spots.

The possibilities of commercial and sporting aviation have been considered and briefly discussed by this paper in special articles of prior dates, but it may not be amiss to recall a few salient points which bear vitally upon this topic.

First, as a sporting proposition. Are there 25 men in Lowell who will go on record as favoring this exciting pastime to the point of participation; who feel their physical qualifications are sufficient to allow this participation; who are willing to take up aviation to the exclusion of all other business, and who have the necessary financial reservoir to tap? If these 25 names will be sent to this paper they will be gladly published. Persons who cannot measure up to all these qualifications need not apply. Any person who has engaged in av-

MISS TWOHEY PLEASING IN ROLE OF GLADIOLA

Her many friends in this city have been glad to visit the performances of the Emerson Players at the Opera House this week, and assist in giving Miss Sarah M. Twohey a fine reception when she appeared in the role of Gladiola, one of the poorhouse waifs in Daddy Long Legs.

She has been programmed under her "professional" name of Sally Oakes. It has been Miss Oakes' dramatic debut. Thursday evening she was presented with several bouquets by her friends here and was given a fine reception. Miss Oakes resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Twohey, at 12 Marginal street. She formerly studied at Emerson School of Elocution, Boston, as her preparation for taking up the profession of acting.

Attention will adhere the following statement: Perfection in aviation is not acquired overnight. It takes approximately six months to graduate a flier. The sport cannot be indulged in once every two weeks, as a duffer plays at golf or billiards. Under the present flying conditions the sport cannot be looked upon as the safest recreational pursuit. Rather, it demands whole-hearted concentration, daily practice while under instruction if progress is to be made, and almost daily participation after graduation. If the individual cares a snap about his own safety, as to the cost to the embryo flier, the government in its gracious wisdom may assume this, but it hardly seems plausible. Any air service man in Lowell would welcome the institution of an aer club for sporting purposes and would support it to the hilt, at the same time realizing the barren field from which new members must spring. Army fliers in the past two years were paid to learn aviation; civilians will probably have to pay well for the same privileges in peace time.

There is no doubt in the mind of the writer that will carrying by aeroplanes will be very much in practice in years to come. Pilots recruited from the present large number of army airmen, will not be hard to get and proper landing fields can be obtained without question. The far west and south will have year-round service—probably will this year. But can you imagine a group of fliers in Lowell, say in late April or early May, again opening up their aviation center after winter has caused it to be closed tight for five months? The city will need more ambulances at its command than it at present affords and they would need to be backed up to the field on the opening morning, with motors running, for a hasty getaway. For six months flying would be good in this part of the country; but the rest of the year it would be practically impossible, if comfort and safety are to be reckoned with, and we imagine those two little things might be insisted upon by the Lowell birds, or at least desired. Such a field in both boy and girl messengers under her direct charge while at the Cartridge plant and she contrived to not only make the relation between herself as their supervisor, one cutting for the employer to get faithful service, but she enlisted herself to be the "next friend" of these boys and girls and do all she could to have them start into some useful line of occupation or return to school for an increasingly better education.

Miss Adams resigned from the Cartridge company some time ago. It is announced that in her new work she is to be closely associated with Miss Skilton in the admirable work done by Miss Skilton here. Miss Adams is to have desk room at the police station and most importantly, is to represent the Florence Crittenton league in Lowell, a movement whose headquarters are in Boston and whose object is to reclaim and help in every way possible the problem of unfortunate and fallen girls in cities.

In preparation for this important work Miss Adams has taken a course at and is a graduate of the Boston School for Social Workers. She has been granted a special officer's license by Mayor Thompson so that her work and her efforts to assist what is admitted to be a very difficult problem, will have the support and be backed up by her authority as an officer of the law.

While employed at the Cartridge company's Lawrence street plant, considerable responsibility had to be assumed by Miss Adams in that, as clerk for Chief Martin Conway, she stood between the outside public and the interior of the factory, no person being allowed to enter the factory unless vouchered for by Mr. Conway or Miss Adams, acting in his absence. It was a source of gratification to her employers that she was able to carry on the work of so thankful and in many ways, overous position and attain the minimum of friction.

Miss Adams has lived in Lowell all her life and to all who have an interest in the young people of the city, many of whom are not fortunate enough to come from the best of homes, it will be distinctly pleasing to know that this careful, efficient and kind hearted woman has set herself the task of making Lowell a better community in which to live, so far as her thorough work among the boys and girls can accomplish it. She expects to start in on her new work within a few days.

TO BEAUTIFY STATION

More Improvements Planned For Boulevard Structure

Commissioner Morse of the water works department is to have a conference with Supt. John W. Kernan of the park department next Monday relative to the possibilities of beautifying the entrance and surroundings of the pumping station on the boulevard. Commissioner Morse has installed cement steps at the entrance to the station and plans to make other improvements.

LOWELL YETS AT LAWRENCE

A number of Lowell Spanish War Veterans are attending the convention of the organization being held today in Lawrence as well as local members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Lowell might be instrumental in adding to the number of persons who make yearly pilgrimages to the southland during the hard-boiled season, as all the local airmen would probably "winter in Florida" or some other warm clime. And, indeed, they would have to if they wished to keep their hand in.

But time produces wonderful evolutions, and it is folly to say a thing is impossible in this day of horseless vehicles.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL TO TAKE UP MATTER OF AN AVIATION FIELD

sion of superior court to be held in Cambridge beginning the first Monday in May. Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy drew the following names:

John H. Martin, 136 Mt. Pleasant, mechanic.
Alex E. Rountree, 31 Hampshire, salesman.
John White, 9 Grace, clerk.
Paul Plasseau, 73 Fletcher.
George F. Fall, 694 Varum avenue, teamster.

John W. Kerwin, 919 Lawrence, pickle-plater.
George W. Chase, 13 Windsor, merchant.
Gerald Cahill, 127 Fort Hill avenue, superintendent.
William H. Harrigan, 38 So. Walker, collector.
Michael Nugent, 13, L, operative.

Mayor Thompson then read a communication from the county commissioners stating that the agreement made by the commission on October 20, 1917, whereby the county should pay 25 per cent. of the cost of constructing a state highway in First street, exclusive of the cost of sidewalk surfaces, the total amount not to exceed $10,000, had been changed to read "not to exceed $15,000." This was done, the communication said, in view of the increase in the cost of road-building, labor and materials since that time. The communication was placed on file.

Commissioner Marchand of the public property department was authorized to engage Simon B. Harris as the auctioneer to sell the buildings on the land taken by the city recently for consolidation upon the subject of forming a lodge. The meeting will be held on Friday evening, the 2d March, 1919.

Commissioner Marchand explained that he had originally been intended to have the occupants of the buildings move on or before May 15, but owing to various circumstances, the date has been set forward to June 1. When the buildings are sold at auction it will be understood that all the occupants are to be out by the first of June and then the buildings are to be removed as soon as possible. The meeting adjourned at 10:25 until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Three Firemen Return of the department of water works and fire protection, on the grounds that there was a surplus of men in the department at that time, have been reinstated by Commissioner Morse and will once more take up their duties tomorrow morning, according to a statement made by the commissioner today.

The return of the men comes about because of a present shortage in the department due to deaths of several members.

Not only will these men return to their places, but the commissioner believes that the demands of the department will necessitate the addition of more men before the close of the present year. He is confident that the entire six who were suspended early in the year will be reinstated.

The commissioner had not decided today at just what houses the men were to be stationed and was waiting a conference with Chief Edward F. Saunders on the matter. Mr. Sullivan is a machinist by trade and will be employed at that work in the department for the present. Another man is needed at the Pawtucketville house and Commissioner Morse also plans to station another man at the Central fire station. Just where each of the three who have been reinstated is to go is not yet decided.

Commissioner Morse's shake-up of the department earlier in the year was productive of considerable commotion and the firemen who were suspended were given the opportunity of pleading their cases at a public hearing. Several of them did so, but the commissioner did not reverse his original decision on the matter.

The choice of the men who are to return to work first was not up to Commissioner Morse, he says, as he was obliged by civil service regulations, to accept the three chosen by the civil service commission.

Start of Odd Fellowship

The order of Odd Fellows in the United States was founded by Thomas Wilkey and John Welch on Monday, April 26, 1819. The two men had immigrated to this country from England and were connected with the Odd Fellows of Great Britain. They resided in the city of Baltimore and were friends. Among other souvenirs of the old country, they were fond in their regiments that a change in residence had deprived them of the social pleasure of a lodge. Soon an intense desire arose to bring about similar relations, and they mutually resolved, if possible, to form a lodge of Odd Fellows. The first difficulty was to find the proper number for the purpose. Private efforts were made, and every means at hand exhausted to discover other brothers, but in vain. It then occurred to them that a resort to the newspapers might prove more successful, and this happy thought re-

We respectfully notify Drivers and Operators of all vehicles (Motor, Horse Drawn and Street Cars) that in all motor funerals under our direction, the leading machine and the rear machine of the funeral cortege will carry the SIGN OF THE PURPLE CROSS, thereby denoting the beginning and end of the cortege.

We do this for the purpose of minimizing, if not entirely eliminating, the number of Operators who thoughtlessly drive through a funeral procession.

sulted in the following, which appeared in the "Baltimore American" on February 12, 1899:

"Notice to All Odd Fellows—A few members of the Society of Odd Fellows will be glad to meet their brethren for consultation upon the subject of forming a lodge. The meeting will be held on Friday evening, the 2d March, 1919.

At the time and place designated two recruits made their appearance, namely, John Duncan and John Chenham; the latter had been initiated in England and was proficient in the ritual work; the former claimed to have been initiated in the city of Baltimore 17 years before, but he could give no satisfactory account of the lodge in which it was done, neither its name, location nor membership, but he retained an accurate knowledge of the ancient passwords, sign and grip. Inasmuch as five members were necessary to form a lodge, frequent conferences were held and a new search made for an additional member but without success. Again they had recourse to the newspaper, and the following advertisement appeared in the Baltimore American on the 27th day of March, 1919:

"Notice to Odd Fellows—A few members of the society of Odd Fellows will be glad to meet their brethren for the purpose of forming a lodge, on Friday evening, 2d April, at the Seven Stars, Second street, at the hour of seven p. m."

This had the effect of bringing to the surface a certain Richard Rushworth, another member of the London body, and so the magic number was complete. Not a moment was lost, but all the necessary arrangements were speedily made, so that on Monday, Apr. 26, 1919, the five brothers met at the sign of "The Seven Stars," on the south side of Second street, at a public house kept by a certain William Lupton; and then there, with all the forms of which they possessed any knowledge, they solemnly instituted and opened a lodge, which they named "Washington Lodge of Odd Fellows." Thomas Wilkey was installed as noble grand; the other brothers were all given offices, but it is not certain how they were distributed. In such haste, but also with all due formality and dignity was the first stone laid in the foundation of American Odd Fellowship. Five Englishmen separated themselves from a community in which they were already condemned by a national prejudice. Efforts were at once commenced to add to their number, and within two or three weeks they had increased their membership to fifteen.

POSITIVE SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION OF THE FORMER RESIDENCE OF THE LATE CHARLES H. CONANT AT NO. 80 CHESTNUT STREET, "BELVIDERE"

On Next Saturday, May 3rd, 1919, at 3 P. M.

The premises comprise a two-story dwelling of nine rooms, bath, heat, pantry, reception hall, laundry with soapstone set-tubs, set wash boiler, etc., has gas, hot and cold water and sewer connections, is well supplied with closet room, very heavily timbered and while at present its condition is not of the best, it could with an outlay of a reasonable amount of money be made a most attractive home. There is a double lot with an area of about 5216 square feet, with extra large frontage on Chestnut street, giving ample space for either enlarging the present building or for the erection of apartments. The location, within 10 minutes' walk of Merrimack square, within walking distance of various manufacturing plants, should especially appeal to anyone looking for a home in a good locality, also for the speculator and investor who wants centrally located real estate. With the great demand for tenements and homes, and the great scarcity of both, and with the increased cost of electric fares, this property, being so situated with its proximity to downtown and its many opportunities for improvements, should be especially attractive.

Terms: $100 must be paid to the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Five of the most famous women specialists in household science in America, all members of the faculty of Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, have prepared for women this remarkable series of six lessons in housecleaning.

These articles are short, simple, practical—right to the point. The Sun in obtaining this series from these recognized household experts, places before its women readers the very best information to be had by the most authoritative writers on household science in America.

WHY SPRING CLEANING?

BY ANNA M. COOLEY

Prof. Household Arts, Columbia University

Why is it necessary to have a clean-up time at least once a year?

Dust and dirt are our enemies. Despite our care they accumulate during the winter months and endanger family health. They must be banished—not simply changed from one place to another by flourishing brush and broom!

How can we get rid of them?

Flood the house with air and sunshine—they are health promoters and microbe killers. Disease is more prevalent during the winter because there is less fresh air in our houses. Who are our allies in the campaign against dirt?

Besides air and sun nature furnishes us with earth and fire, too.

Weapons of soap, sand, washing powder, ammonia and kerosene are our assistants. Brushes, brooms and modern cleaning machines help. So do cleaning cloths and soft paper. Bring out weapons and ammunition. Begin the anti-dirt and disease campaign.

Sun all mattresses, pillows, bedding, and hangings out doors, after giving them an airing and beating.

Walls and ceilings should be dusted with soft cloths tied over a long-handled mop or brush. Windows, picture frames and moldings should be wiped with damp cloths. Wash painted wood-work with warm water and borax. Clean varnished surfaces with a cloth moistened with kerosene.

Wash floors with kerosene in water. Launder curtains and rag rugs. Clean wool rugs with a vacuum or send to cleaner.

Burn dirt and accumulated rubbish, or bury it in earth. Do not hoard. Distribute books, clothing and furniture where they can be used.

Scrub closets and pantry shelves. Clean and whitewash cellars.

Wash out sinks and toilets with hot lye solution.

Dirt is a convenient vehicle for disease—banish it.

Quarter Century Ago

Says The Sun of April 25, 1894:

"Hon. John F. Finnerty of Chicago, paid another visit to our city yesterday upon invitation of the local Irishman lodge, and in the evening under their auspices, he lectured in Associate hall before a very large audience."

G.O.P. Get Together Meeting

The old Sun thus records a republican get together meeting when partisanship was rife in city politics:

"There is nothing like a square meal to make a fellow feel happy. That was the secret primarily of the good fellowship which followed the ravens raid upon one of the D. L. Page company's excellent suppers late last night in Associate hall. The doughy warriors were 400 supporters of the local G.O.P. After a good supper and flow of eloquence and humor interlarded with heavier doses of republican doctrine, seemed to be satisfied."

"At the stage table sat His Honor Mayor Pickman, Hon. G. A. Marden, Hon. C. D. Palmer, Chairman Louis Kleski of the city committee, Rep. W. H. F. Haynes, Rep. E. S. Fess and Mr. G. F. Lawton. It took an hour and a half to dull the appetites of the noble few. Then cigars were lighted and the men settled back in their seats for the mental repast."

New Church Dedicated

Says the old Sun:

"The new church of the Congregational society at North Chelmsford was dedicated this afternoon in the presence of a large company and with elaborate exercises. The speakers were Rev. C. W. Huntington, Rev. Dr. Court, Rev. J. M. Greene and A. C. Whitcomb."

Miss Hilton's Marriage

From the old Sun:

"There was an event of great importance to the society people of the city on the Highlands last evening. It was the wedding of Miss Grace, elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Hilton, to Mr. Arthur Dana Gibson of Wakefield. It was a home wedding at the beautiful residence of Dr. Hilton on Wilder street. Rev. Charles A. Hilton of Randolph, Mass., uncle of the bride, officiated, and at the ceremony immediate friends and relatives were present."

Day Nursery

The following from the old Sun will interest friends of the Day Nursery:

"Don't forget the May breakfast in Huntington hall next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with breakfast on the first morning and on Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon a children's operetta, entitled, '1719.' Over 80 children will take part in it. During the May breakfast, each evening and Saturday matinee, the magic electric piano, self playing, the wonder of the age, will play any piece of music written. It was a great attraction at the World's fair, Chicago."

The May breakfast was for many years a great social event conducted for the benefit of the Day Nursery. It was conducted by the most prominent ladies of Lowell but was abandoned soon after the destruction of the new Huntington hall. Of late the Nursery has not been so much in the public eye nor so useful because it has been driven to Centralville owing to the seizure of the property on Kirk street by the city as part of the high school site.

Odd Fellows' Anniversary

Says the old Sun:

"The Odd Fellows of this city observed yesterday as the 75th anniversary of their institution."

Union services were held at the hall in Odd Fellows' Temple at which several local lodges including the Daughters of Rebekah, and many other out of town spectators were present.

Mayor Pickman presided and the exercises began at 2 o'clock with a selection by the American orchestra followed by an invocation by Rev. Dr. Seymour."

The order in this country was founded at Baltimore, Md., April 25, 1819, by two Englishmen named Thomas Wildey and John Welch. The order had previously existed for a considerable time in England."

MEXICO CITY, April 21. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—According to Senora Rosaura Q. de Martinez, president of the National Anti-Alcoholic association, that society is preparing to wage an active campaign against the establishment in Mexico of various breweries and distilleries which, it has been reported, are planning to come to this republic from the United States as a result of the recent prohibition laws.

WANT CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS ADMITTED

GREENSVILLE, S. C., April 26.—After a conference here between Colonel Holmes B. Springs and Major W. D. Workman, former officers in the "old Hickory" division, a telegram has been sent to Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt informing him that unless former Confederate soldiers are accepted as members of the American Legion, South Carolina veterans of the world war probably will not want membership. The suggestion that union veterans be admitted to the legion while Confederates would be excluded, they said, is a slight on the south.

THE ELIOT UNION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

FIRST UNION SERVICE

Eliot and Kirk Street Congregational Meet Together
Tomorrow Morning

The congregations of the Eliot and Kirk Street Congregational churches will unite tomorrow in the first service of the recent amalgamation at the Eliot Union church, the name under which the new society will take up the activities of the former parishes. Rev. Herbert A. Barker, retiring pastor of the Eliot church, will preach. At the service on the following Sunday, both Rev. Mr. Barker and Rev. Mr. English, retiring pastor at Kirk Street, will conduct a communion service. On that date, May 4, both ministers will sever their connections with the new church, and it is probable that a new pastor will be under consideration by the committee at that time.

No changes have been started on the church interior as yet, although the plans are nearly complete. The new heating plant will not be installed until next fall, but work on the installation of the Kirk Street organ will commence as soon as possible. Extensive alterations also will be made in the church vestries. The new parish house question is still open, and will remain so until sufficient land can be obtained. Members of the Eliot church gathered together last evening at the church for the last time as an individual parish group, as the union with the Kirk Street church will be consummated tomorrow, and gave full-hearted evidence of the close feeling which exists between the church members and the retiring pastor, Rev. Herbert A. Barker. Following a brief devotional service an informal reception was held for Rev. and Mrs. Barker.

her the church vestries being filled to the doors. A cheque for $500 was presented to Rev. Mr. Barker, a gift of the church, and he also received a fine travelling bag from the church troop of Boy Scouts. Mrs. Barker was presented a gold wrist watch by the King's Daughters' circle.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barker were deeply touched by the gifts and the spirit which prompted the giving, and feelingly expressed their appreciation. Mr. Barker spoke at some length, reviewing his pastorate here and prophesying nothing but success for the church in its union with Kirk Street. Rev. and Mrs. Barker, with their children, leave Lowell on Monday, May 5, for Randolph, Vt., where Mr. Barker has a new pastorate.

Any man exhibiting his discharge papers from the United States army, provided he saw service overseas, may obtain a gas mask and steel helmet free by applying to the zone supply officers of the army. The government has tens of thousands of these articles for which it has no further use. The best thing that can be done with them is to give them as souvenirs to the men who used them during the war. Many men have been discharged from the army without them, but will want them to show to their children and grandchildren in future years.

"MORAL INTERVENTION" BY UNITED STATES WINS IN MEXICO

But Uncle Sam Tightens His Purse-Strings
Just When Brilliant "Friendship Drive"
Had Prejudice On the Run

BY JACK NEVILLE

(American Newspaperman and Investigator Who Has Lived for Years in Mexico and Who Has Just Spent Four Months There on Special Detail for The Lowell Sun.)
(Copyright, 1919, Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—"I see the row."

A small woman stood before a chart, a pointer in her hand, facing several score Mexicans, old and young. They roiled in unison, with odd intonation—"Ay, see the keow."

The second battle of Cowpens was on the enemy in retreat.

Moral intervention in Mexico had begun. It was a session of the English class of the U. S. committee on public information.

The three score or more Mexicans were gently being led into friendship for America instead of hatred for the "Gringo."

On the walls hung portraits of Washington, Lincoln and Wilson, facing portraits of Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla, Benito Juarez and Venustiano Carranza.

There were no oil cans in the foreground, no one sacks in the background. They didn't chant, "I see the row," but, "I see the row." I was impressed with their earnestness and the friendliness with which they spoke to their teacher.

"Too bad," the little Mexican-American woman in charge told me. "Eleven hundred Mexicans come here daily to learn your language. They are potential friends."

"But we have orders to close the school from the United States!"

"Too bad. Chances are now that they will never learn English and never be real friends of yours because they cannot understand you."

French on the Job

I stepped around the corner—to the French alliance.

There a man stood before a blackboard. "Parlez vous Francaise?" he wrote. And that group of Mexicans studying French "parlez" to beat the band.

"I suppose the school will soon close, now that the war is over?" I asked the English-speaking Frenchman.

"No," he replied, "we remain open indefinitely. We want Mexican friendship, and this is the best way to get it. When they know French they'll like us—trade with us."

The United States was feeling the field on the verge of a great and incalculably beneficial moral victory. Uncle Sam spiking his own gun!

How propagandists during the war had kept dimming this at Mexico: "The United States can't fight, will not fight." Then Robert H. Murray, head of the U. S. committee on public information here, conceived a brilliant idea. He engineered a tour of the United States by 20 of Mexico's best known editors at the expense of this government. They found Uncle Sam could fight, would fight and was fighting—putting the finishing touches to kaiserism.

When these editors returned to Mexico they looked over the American war cable and educational service, got out the war cuts and photos, and unwrapped the U. S. war posters. "Use them," they ordered.

Murray's educational campaign got into full swing, and the literate people of Mexico rapidly fell into line with the allies.

In addition to war cables, cuts and matrices to 31 Mexican newspapers, and daily translated bulletins to 419 papers, Murray established an English school with five capacity classes.

With no money except for legitimate display advertising of Liberty bond campaigns, and few assistants, he fought the German subsidized press to a standstill and backdown.

Mexico's Loan Quota

Mexico's quota on U. S. Liberty loans was oversubscribed more than 100 per cent, a large number of the bonds being bought by Mexicans.

Murray exhibited the U. S. war film, "Forsaking the Crusaders," at the largest movie house in the capital, at a time Pershing's popularity in Mexico wasn't exactly high.

It took 25 Mexican policemen 25 minutes to halt pro-German demonstrations in the audience when Pershing and Old Glory flashed on the screen. But by this time the last reel unwound, there was nothing but applause. The Germans had packed blocks of the audience with instructions to "raise hell." They did. And they got it in turn. They were dragged into the streets by the police and never returned.

Mexico must have been impressed with the campaign, for shortly afterward a queer incident occurred.

A woman rowed across the Rio Grande at Laredo one night. She might have walked across the international bridge unmolested. Instead, she even jumped into the water to escape the American sentry's suspicion.

Search revealed a water-proof jacket in her corset, containing a message in code. Deciphered, it proved one of the most important finds of the war, according to American officials.

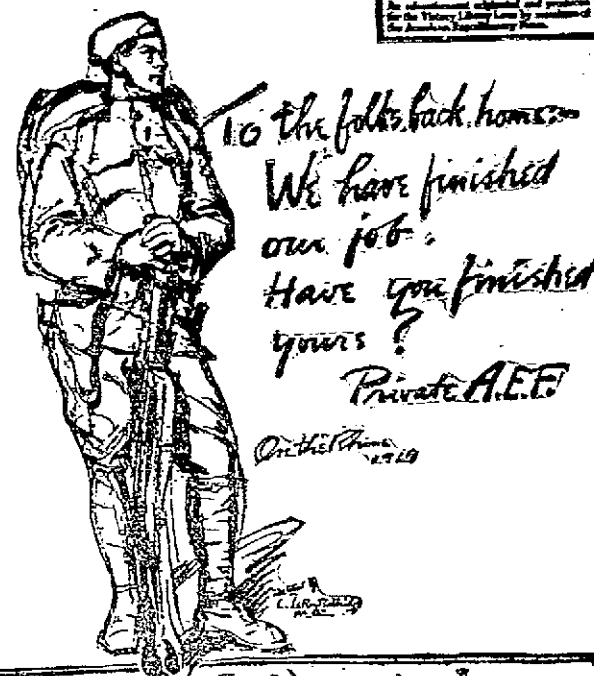

A short time afterward our state department announced interception of the Zimmerman note urging Mexico to war on the United States and offering as bait parts of California, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

Few outside of the American state department know how the Zimmerman note was secured, but down along the Rio Grande they're still talking about the woman and her water-proof corset.

The general opinion is that a high Mexican official used his own way of tipping off his Hun plot to the United States without involving himself.

"More'n likely the 'Old Man' himself," said a Yank officer reciting the incident.

Lady Lookabout

For a long time I have noticed a group of men, often the same ones, waiting outside or just inside a certain building at the noon hour. They are working men, and at the hour of 12 are hearty and hungry, and impatient for their dinner. Yet there they sit or stand, patience written on every face. After I had been seeing them day after day, I asked about them and why they waited about at that hour when everybody else was hurrying to dinner. The answer was simple enough and I wonder it had not occurred to me earlier. They were waiting for the little army of boys and girls who carry dinners each day to their fathers or other members of the family. Since then I have been more observing and many a tired, soiled face have I seen light up as a little knight of the dinner pail came into sight, not on account of the approaching meal but the visit of the errand boy. One day I heard an anxious father who had hurriedly risen to meet his little boy ask: "How's Steve today?" "Ma said to tell you he's better," and the little fellow began to recount his experiences of home and school where the relieved parent partook of his meal. I should like to suggest to the wives and mothers of some of these waiting men that the dinner be sent in a little earlier. When it is ten minutes after twelve and no dinner in sight, a good part of the dinner hour is gone, and where is the woman who does not know that this is very bad for the average man's good nature? I believe that nearly every school master is willing to excuse from school a few minutes before the dismissal signal, any children who have to carry dinners. Very often patience ceases to be a virtue with a hungry, waiting man.

Principal Mahoney's Work

Probably there is not one person in Lowell who knows Mr. John J. Mahoney, principal of the State Normal school, who does not rejoice with him in the honor that has come to him in being called to Harvard university to conduct lectures on Americanization this summer. There are two especial reasons why we should be glad. The first is that Mr. Mahoney is a young man, and this is the age of young men. Age, we know, brings or should bring wisdom. Unfortunately, too often age brings with it an inflexibility, a narrowness of purpose, but of that lesser quality, opinion—a lack of adaptability to new situations, new questions. In nearly every case, the problem is as old as the hills, but the method of meeting it must be adapted to present day conditions, to present day people, and this is wherein the man of perhaps greater wisdom and experience too often is unable to adapt himself.

My second reason, and the one I like better, is that here in Lowell at our very doors, Mr. Mahoney has found that which has made his name known in educational circles from coast to coast, namely, the problem of Americanization. The problem has always been here, 50 years ago, as much as today. Others have recognized it, even called public attention to it. But there ended their activities. Mr. Mahoney also recognized the problem, but he went farther. He thought out a solution, he put it to work and accomplished something. Others have recognized the merit of his solution and are adopting it. There may be a lesson here for those who cannot find opportunity at home, but are led by the lure of "green hills far away." Truly Lowell is the City of Opportunity if we but recognize opportunity when she comes.

As to Strikes

With the spirit of the strike in various lines of employment in the air, one is compelled to stop and ponder. We are prone to lay much of the strike spirit at the door of the foreman and we love to use the word Bolshevism which means nothing to most of us. We must admit that there is a strong element of influence than that of the newly arrived alien. The American people are a practical people. Our is not the kind of nation that has effective ideals born merely of thought. It seems that the only ideals which move it to action are connected with business. The big questions of the day are the distribution of material goods, the methods of production, and the relation of capital to labor. This is what is meant by the social movement, and it is the social movement which causes the change in ideals. To the end of time there will be problems of adjustment. The strike is a weapon to force a solution. This is a time when fair minds and cool heads are needed more than ever. It is a time when one finds it particularly easy to be swayed by inflammatory literature and oratory, whether he be of the labor class or of capital. Fair minds and cool heads!

Grading the Teachers

In the recent statement sent forth from a committee of educators engaged in making a survey of educational conditions, we are told that it was recommended to give to teachers and prospective teachers certificates to teach in the public schools. These certificates to be good only for a stated time, at the end of that time a teacher's certificate to be renewed had the teacher made good in somebody else's opinion.

I should like to wager with that committee that the next step to be taken by boards of education will not be short term certificates of teaching but rather it will be a movement to pay a nominal salary to every Normal school pupil. With all that is today required of a young woman before she is considered competent to teach, inducements must be offered to her to choose teaching for her work, rather than to place new difficulties and new worries in her path. As it stands today, the girl who chooses to teach is a mature woman, both in years and training, before she may take a teaching position and before she has earned her first dollar. Her parents have borne the burden of her support, and that is not a small burden these days. In fact, I have known girls who gladly and happily would have chosen teaching for their work had it not been for this burden they would thus have placed on their parents.

So often have we been told that the schools exist for the pupils alone, that the public is inclined to overlook the human and humane side of the faithful men and women who serve the children, and instead of urging and inducing them to enter the schools as teachers, are keeping them out and making it doubly hard for those already in the service, by idiotic recommendations and legislation.

LADY LOOKABOUT.

THE WEeping WILLOW TREE INSPIRED THIS EYE-LASH HAT

BY BETTY BROWN.

Just look what Paris has done now! A French designer of chic chapaus has picked up the Chinese idea of inspirations from nature! He went out and looked at a weeping willow tree—and came right in and created this "Eye-Lash Hat" with the graceful, feathery droppings from the brim. The hat is of black satin, and the weeping willow effect is obtained by long wendings of glycerined ostrich.

PA WEAKENS

When I was kissin' ma one day, Pa sort of shoves his chair away. Back from the table and says he, "You're kind of big, it seems to me. To allus be a slobberin' so. Around your mother. Don't you know Affection shouldn't be a show? It sort of cheapens love, I say. To have it allus on display. Leastwise, I was brought up that way."

Just then my sister floated in. And rubbed him underneath the chin. And wrinkled up his face and skin. Between his hands. And then she dips. And smacks him one, right on the lips. And then she pecks him two or three. In where his top-knot used to be. And pa, he grins just like a cat. And gives her hand a spoony pat. And says, "By George! I tell you what, Affection helps a lot! It hits me in a tender spot."

And ma, she looked across and said, "I noticed that she kissed your head." (Copyright, N.E.A. 1919) By Edmund Vance Cooke

THE Y.W.C.A. SETS ON FOOT SOME SHOE REFORMS FOR WOMEN

N.E.A. Special to The Sun.
NEW YORK—The war workers of the Y.W.C.A. believe in starting their reconstruction program "from the ground up."

They are going to start with the feet of American girls. Through their hundreds of physical directors in every local association in the country, they will strive to give every girl a beautiful, normal foot, which will defy "broken arches" and "flat foot" and improve her health and disposition.

The only answer to all foot problems is shoes. The right shoe, the sensible shoe for every foot and every occasion.

The regulations for the blue uniform worn by war workers of the Y.W.C.A. decree tan or black shoes or boots with flat heels.

Harpist Wild, head of the division of physical education of the National Board of the Y.W.C.A., is responsible for the new era in shoes—common-sense shoes which are guaranteed to make one walk with a spring at sixty-five, to protect one from corns, bunions, callouses, to make one's feet beautiful, your health perfect and disposition happy and cheerful. Shoes have tremendous effect on health and disposition.

The United States of America is on the verge of a revolution in shoes, Miss Wild says, and she has practically every secretary at headquarters convinced of it. She will soon launch a nation-wide campaign advocating that women-kind in general adopt some style of shoe which is plastic, has a straight inner board and flat, straight-line heel.

"Can't the American people get away from following fads and fashions?" says Miss Wild, "and be directed by common-sense and comfort? The Chinese are the only people I can think of who believe that the foot to be beautiful should be small, pinched up and deformed. I have seen women in this country whose feet nearly resembled those of a Chinese woman's which had been bound—all the result of high heels and long pointed toes. One can't call that type of shoe barbaric because neither barbarians or heathens would wear them. But it is straight torture to allow people to continue wearing that sort of thing so that when they are middle-aged they have to hobble along instead of getting comfort out of walking."

"Intellectual people are responsible for the present style of shoes. Why should one expect women in general to wear sensible shoes when the intellectual women of the country are such slaves to fashion that they set the standard? We have freedom for the body now. It is no longer considered fashionable nor sensible for women to pinch their waists in so that they cannot breathe. They have gone countless long enough to refuse to go back to styles which will make them acutely uncomfortable."

"The greatest difficulty in persuading people to wear sensible shoes comes because they have been classed as 'cures or correctives' for so long. They should not be looked upon as a badge of illness in one's feet but as the sign of normal, healthy feet. The human foot is beautiful. Therefore, why not wear a shoe which fits the outline of the foot? Why isn't such a shoe beautiful? It is a direct insult to one's maker to consider it otherwise."

ORGANDIE FOR AFTERNOONS BY BETTY BROWN

For young brides planning the spring trousseau—the best advice in the world is—choose an afternoon frock of organdie—several if you can afford them! No man, or woman either, could resist the charm of this pale pink organdie with its low neck-line and long, bell sleeves piped edged, and its only trimming deep inset bands of thread lace, and shirring of point d'esprit.

LAWS CONCERNING WORK AND SCHOOLING OF CHILDREN VARY IN DIFFERENT STATES

The unequal protection afforded children going to work in the different states, and the unequal opportunity given them to secure an elementary education are emphasized in a pamphlet, entitled "The States and Child Labor," which has been recently published by the Children's Bureau of the United States department of labor.

For instance, although 45 states recognize in their laws the principle that children should be at least 11 years old before they start wage earning, most of them fail to apply the principle to all children without exception. In two states the age fixed by law is lower than 11, and in three there is no minimum age except for work in certain dangerous or injurious occupations.

While every state in the Union names certain ages between which children are required by law to go to school, the pamphlet points out that

SPRING OF NINETEEN-NINETEEN

Linda Reconstruction of Lost Health—Tone and Exhausted Strength

More imperative than ever before because of the war, the dreadful epidemics and the trying weather.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great reconstructive medicine. It 1st, creates an appetite, 2d, aids digestion, 3d, purifies and assimilates all food, so that your blood and body receive the benefit of 100 per cent. of this nourishment.

This rapidly restores your reserve strength, naturally bringing about normal conditions of health.

Hood's Pills are a fine family cathartic, gentle and effective.

The widely varying range of ages prevents equalization of opportunity for children in different localities. The most usual requirement for school attendance is that affecting children between 7 and 16 years, or between 8 and 16 years. The lowest range of ages in any state is from 8 to 12 years. Two states have standards high enough to require the attendance at school of children between 7 and 17 years. In three states the laws are not state-wide, and leave to local option decision whether the state education law shall apply within the county or district.

The fact that in every state exemptions are permitted to the compulsory school attendance law is given as another reason for the great variation in the amount of schooling obtained by children in different states. These exemptions allowed under the law, it is stated, drag down in some states an apparently high standard to such a degree that less protection is afforded to the child than by a requirement in another state which appears to be less exacting but which permits no exceptions.

In 17 states, for instance, the fact that the child has completed the grammar grades excuses him from school attendance. In one state the law specifies that a child who can read and write simple English sentences need not continue to attend school. In many states any child who has reached the age when he can legally work and is lawfully employed is excused from school. This means that, although a compulsory school-attendance law appears to demand the child's presence in school, he is actually allowed to stop his education and go to work before completing the compulsory-education period.

Fourteen states will excuse a child from school solely for "satisfactory," "sufficient," or "urgent" reasons, for "domestic necessity," or for "cause." Two of these 14 states, however, specify that the "urgent reason" shall be "strictly construed." Under the laws of 11 states, poverty, the need to support a widowed mother, or "other member of family dependent on child," excuses a child of any age from school attendance. In eight states the law specifies that children be excused because of parents' inability to provide suitable clothing, and 26 states specify in their laws that a child who lives 2, 2½, or 3 miles, or more than a reasonable distance from the nearest school, need not attend. One of these states says that a child shall be excused if he "lives at such a distance as to render attendance impracticable or unsafe." This difficulty, the leaflet states, is sometimes overcome by a provision for free transportation.

HAVANA TOO, WARS ON BOOZE TRAFFIC

HAVANA, Cuba, April 26.—The captain of the Port of Havana has notified firms which furnish supplies for fishing vessels, that watch will be kept over such shipping and that visits of inspection will be made to see that they carry no more food and liquor supplies when leaving port than is necessary for their own use.

This measure is due to information received by the port officials that several fishing vessels have taken quantities of rum and other liquors aboard to be exchanged in American jurisdictional waters for other merchandise.

In London, seaweed, combined with crushed slag and other heretofore neglected waste mineral products, is used to make a kind of concrete, out of which are being fashioned building bricks and blocks. Many houses are to be built with these blocks, which are cheap and effective. The houses are to be made in sections and bolted together. The window frame is a new idea in itself. The glass, in one large pane, slips into a slot, and the edges of molding are then turned over, so as to grip it.

GROVE SET OUT AS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF IS N. H. COLLEGE MEN WHO DIED IN WAR

DURHAM, N. H., April 26.—A grove of rock maple trees was set out here today as a tribute to the memory of the 15 New Hampshire college men who died in the war. The trees were placed in the rear of the college library as the first step in plans for the development of a park system on land behind the main row of college buildings. Twenty trees were planted by representatives of the different classes. The exercises which included singing by the student body, were arranged by Prof. J. G. Gourley.

ARMY NURSES WANT TO GET ON FARMS

Nurses, fatigued from service in France, are appealing for the opportunity to get into farm work this summer. One army nurse, who has spent many arduous months behind the lines, has applied to the United States employment service, through the woman's land army, for direction to preliminary agricultural training in farm units. She says that she has taken up a tract of land in Wyoming, but wants up-to-date training before she starts to work her land.

Teachers and librarians make up a large number of applicants for work at the seasonal agricultural trades which are the specialty of this branch of the service. Arrangements are already made with the fruit growers in sections where local labor is not available for fruit-picking units during the coming season.

No attempt is being made to place women in work which returning soldiers might want to undertake. The difference between their physical strength and the women's make the line very easy to draw, the field officers of the land army declare.

Ten thousand children took part in Wilkes-Barre's third annual Easter egg hunt. The hunt was under the supervision of city employees and was held in a city park along the river front. Five thousand hard boiled eggs, 2000 chocolate eggs and 1000 chocolate bars were hidden everywhere throughout the park. There were 500 prizes, including such articles as a ton of coal, stockings, dresses, flashlights, express wagons and various other articles. Tickets for these prizes were hidden. The hunt lasted three hours.

CARBON REMOVED BY USE OF A LIQUID

Peter Macheras, 458 Market street, proprietor of the Lowell Tire Exchange, reports that business with his concern is very brisk and besides doing a very nice business in tire repairing using the Shaler Wrapped Tread method, he is doing a good business in a number of ingenious and handy auto accessories. The latter, for instance, include the Carbo-Gon carbon remover and Rub-R-Bak patch material. This Carbo-Gon carbon remover sells at $2 the gallon and is guaranteed to give effective use in all types of internal combustion motors in automobiles, motorcycles, aeroplanes, motor boats, tractors and stationary engines. It is a perfect carbon solvent.

The Rub-R-Bak patching material and kit, is claimed to be the best method of making roadside repairs on inner tubes yet devised. It will give a job nearly equal to vulcanizing and the outfit to do the work costs only $1. Another accessory carried by Mr. Macheras is a preparation for cleaning motor cars called Dri-Klean-It. This is a liquid preparation that in a few minutes accomplishes as effective work at cleaning the family automobile and enabling the owner to get an early holiday, Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning start, as he desires. Many motor car owners have to use an entire forenoon to get their car looking presentable but the Dri-Klean-It process is a time saver in every sense of the word. The price for it is $1.50. Mr. Macheras is contacted by phone, 1130.

EASY WASH POWDER AIDS HOME CLEANING

While it may be true that in spring a young man's thoughts lightly turn to love and marriage, the fact remains that for the housewife, her thoughts necessarily have to turn to burdensome thoughts of spring house cleaning. But not so very burdensome either, at that, according to W. H. Potter, of 70 Central street, proprietor for the past 12 years of Potter's Easy Wash powder, for he avers that most women find, after doing their spring house cleaning by means of his powder, that however indefinite the future paradise is, they secure a temporary home paradise at least, by reason of having become acquainted with this product.

Mr. Potter has been manufacturing it as a side line of his well known cigar and tobacco business in Central street, for the past 12 years. Once introduced into the house, it has been his experience that women will always in the future insist on having the easy wash powder exclusively, no matter how large a package of an inferior powder is offered at the same or less money, or how many premiums, so called, are used to put the competitors' powder over.

One of the rather humorous incidents related by Mr. Brown in connection with his experience as a manufacturer of this powder, concerns the help he and his powder were able to be on an occasion when a certain company in Lowell was trying to sell one of its washing machines. The potential customer was in fact, asking the washing machine to do a whole lot more than could reasonably be expected of an ordinary machine. The problem was to make the machine turn mechanics' towels back to white again. The salesman procured some of the washing powder from Mr. Potter, and was able to give a demonstration that resulted in his making the sale.

NOW IS TIME TO FIX AWNINGS, SAYS BROWN

This is of course the busiest time of year for men in the awning business but William E. Brown, manager of the Centralville Tent & Awning company, reports that the weather of the past few weeks has been a very severe handicap towards repairing and rigging new awnings and that it is bound to make a very inconvenient accumulation of work.

Nevertheless, Mr. Brown and his workmen are going ahead and by putting in long hours and using all the daylight they can in the work, are rapidly catching up on the work. Mr. Brown has been in this kind of work 35 years and is one of the old time sail makers and rope splicers. He knows the different qualities of awning cloth of course and can rig an awning so that it will not only give good satisfaction the first summer it is put up but continue to give good satisfaction the rest of the years before of course the fabric of it wears out. The Centralville Tent and Awning company is connected by phone, the number being 1315-M and all orders receive prompt attention. The awning workers receive 75 cents per hour for their work.

Mr. Brown keeps quite a large assortment of awning cloth of all kinds on hand, including of course khaki color, and is equipped to make repairs on lawn tents and Gloucester hammocks as well as all other kinds of tent work. This week the Victory Show Carnival company has been holding forth on Lakewood avenue, as Mr. Brown's neighbor, and he has done quite a lot of work for the different concessionaires.

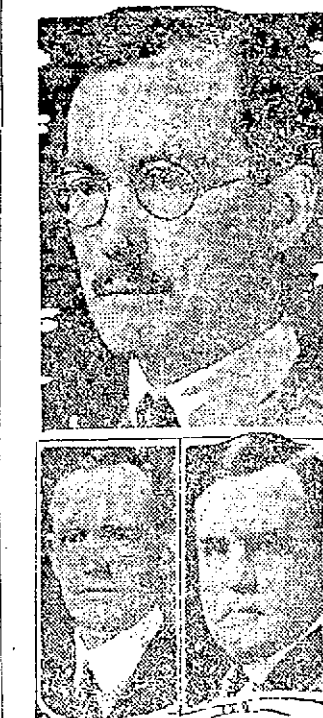

MR. SLACK HEAD OF CARRUTHERS CO.

Two years ago the reed and loom harness manufacturing business which had been carried on in Lowell for over 20 years by the firm of Robert Carruthers company, was bought and is now being carried on by Samuel S. Slack, an experienced manufacturer of this accessory of the business of weaving silk, cotton, woolsens and carpets. He has been a reed and slasher comb maker for over 20 years himself and among the other places he put in his time as a workman was the Emmons company at Lawrence, probably the largest maker of reeds and loom harness in the United States.

The plant of Mr. Slack, who still continues to carry on his business under the name of Robert Carruthers company, is located in Hale street, not far from Chelmsford street. He reports that business is very good considering the low ebb of business the mills of this part of the state are doing business at. Practically all the mills in Lowell are supplied with reeds from the Carruthers factory. This factory and Emmons in Lawrence are the only two factories in this part of New England making this article. Many textile concerns to the north of Lowell, are customers of Mr. Slack's and are pleased at the quick and convenient service he can give them for, by telephoning, telegraphing or mailing an order for reeds or combs so that it reaches the office in the morning. The Carruthers factory invariably makes it a point to execute the order and have it ready for shipment north on an afternoon passenger train. Not the least interesting of the good things that can be written about this industry since Mr. Slack came to Lowell from Pawtucket two years ago and took over control of it, is that he has been able by his hard work and satisfactory service given, to increase the volume of business done, by nearly 50 per cent.

CHAMPION RETIRING TO KEEP HUSBY HAPPY; NOW WATCH THE OTHER GIRLS

Claire Galligan, champion woman swimmer, has retired, and in her wake are a whole school of pretty and aspiring mermaids.
Claire Galligan isn't tired of the sport, but she is retiring to make the good old U.S.A. feel like home to Edward P. Finney, her husband, who just recently received a discharge from the navy. It will remain Claire Galligan in the record book—for she holds lots of marks—but in Los Angeles, where her husband has entered business, it will be Mrs. Finney and her main idea in life will be to make Edward P. happy.

In the last six years the great woman swimmer set some marks which the stars of the future will find hard to surpass. She was an all-round swimmer, star and excelled in various events. Other girl stars have shown remarkable form in certain events. Miss Galligan held the records in the 100, 200 and 400 yard races.
She made her home in New York, but completed all over the country.
Dorothy Burns, "Smiling Dot," is second to Miss Galligan in the 100 and the 200. Charlotte Boyle holds the marks in the 200 and 400 yard events. Olga Dorfner is best at 500 yards, in the 100 yards straight-arm, 200 yards

RESCUE IN SIGHT FOR JELLY SHELF

Have you begun to avoid that shelf in the pantry or down cellar, where the jellies used to smile at you with red or purple cheerfulness.
An exceptional housewife she must be who can evade the pleadings of her family steadily enough to have a full shelf of jelly left at this time of year. Still, there is no reason why a few reinforcements cannot be mustered in. Plenty of combinations of winter fruits, possibly apples or oranges, prunes, dried peaches or pears, pineapples or cranberries, can be made into marmalades, conserves or jams, enough to last until regular "jelly-making" time comes this summer.

ORANGE JELLY
To begin with, here is a rather out-of-the-ordinary recipe for jelly which preserves the real orange taste, because very little water is used, and the fruit is boiled for a very short time. It requires one sweet orange, eight bitter oranges and two lemons.
Put the fruit, whole into a preserving pan, and cover with cold water which must be brought to the boiling point and at once poured off. When the fruit has been wiped and sliced into medium-sized pieces, return it to the pan with three and one-half quarts of cold water. After boiling, mash for a half hour and rub through a scalded fine hair sieve, with a wooden spoon.
Adding 1 pound of sugar to each pint of liquid, boil until it jellies when tested in a cup. Seal in small, warmed jars.

APPLE MARMALADE
Three and three-quarter cups of sugar, 1 cup of vinegar, 2 quarts of apple pulp, 2 tablespoons of whole cloves, 1 inch of stick cinnamon.
The apple pulp is made by cooking until soft, apples cut in pieces and covered with water. Then press them through a coarse strainer. To the pulp add the sugar, and the spices tied in a piece of cheesecloth, and cook for a half hour. Then remove the spices and add the vinegar. After cooking for an additional 10 minutes, seal in sterilized jars.

RAISIN PRUNE JAM
Three pounds of raisins, Three pounds of prunes, Three oranges.
Five and three-quarter cups of sugar.
One-half pound of chopped walnuts.
First soak and cover prunes until soft, then remove stone and let stand for one hour covered with 2 cups of water. When the liquid is poured off, add to it raisins, orange pulp, prunes, the water in which the prunes were soaked, sugar, jam, walnuts and add nuts. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

PEACH CONSERVE
Four pounds of winter pears, Two lemons, One-quarter of green ginger, Five cups of sugar.
Chop the lemon and ginger, and chop the pears after removing skin. Cook with the sugar for between 35 and 40 minutes, or until it thickens. Seal in sterilized jars.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL

When you feel so badly, it's even hard work to be lazy, then your a full-fledged spring fever. Spring fever accompanies spring, and is the only hard part of it, like the check that follows a dinner. It's the intermission of the calendar you spend getting rid of the stock of slow yawns you've accumulated during the winter. Your mind puts in a call for "ten in the morning, but don't wake me!" and your thoughts reel, felt slippers and unable to find a spot in circles. Your pen digs itself a hole in a moss bank, crawls in, and pulls the hole in after it. The way of spring fever, is "put off 'till tomorrow, what you could do today," then think, "tomorrow never comes," spring fever is changing from "low" to "high" and you slip into "neutral."

And who is Mrs. Woodfill?

She's the wife of Lieut. Samuel Woodfill, hero of Cunel.

Then the company advanced. Then they came upon another machine gun nest. And again Woodfill went alone Woodfill, hero of Cunel. That's who to clean it out. And he did, capturing Baby Marie Osburn, just returned from her coast to coast "kissing tour," says that after summing up all the kisses she received from high officials, mayors and governors, she really thinks she prefers ice cream. The ingratitude of women!

Doings of the Screen Artists

Director Clarence C. Badger is busy at the Goldwyn studio on the new Madge Kennedy picture, "The New Lady Bancroft," which is being put in order for the public for the fourth time. The story has undergone straight production, it traveled the musical comedy route as "The Rainbow Girl" and it was originally in book form—and now the screen. Miss Madge has 22 servants in the picture. She marries a lord, goes to his home and finds to her astonishment that 19 of the "help" are her own relatives. Mr. Badger is getting some unique situations out of the story.

Winifred Westover has received an offer from South America to appear in pictures for a Spanish producer. She has partly refused because she knows no Spanish, does not like warm climates and besides it would be necessary for her to dye her hair black and lose those beautiful golden locks.

George Walsh, after completing "Help! Help! Police!" at Palm beach is back in New York again and preparing to begin work on another comedy drama, "The Seventh Person." The story was written by Benjamin F. McCutcheon, and Edward Dillon, who directed the last three George Walsh subjects, will be the director.

Work is now well under way for the select production starring Sergt. Guy Empey and entitled "Hell on Earth." In addition to Sergt. Empey, who will play the part of "Jack Duncan," the cast includes such well known names as Evelyn Martin, Frank Norcross, Sallie Crute, Harry Lee and Roland Osburn.

An entire railroad system was leased Sunday, April 13, in New Jersey, when William Fox determined to put a realistic trait wreck into a picture. For half a mile the burning cars sped down a grade toward an open draw-bridge in the Raritan river, while more than two thousand persons from South River, a New Jersey village looked on one of the most interesting dramatic spectacles they had ever seen. And then came the crash—and the camera man stopped cranking. The scene was taken for the new feature picture "Checkers" which is soon to be released by the Fox company, and which will have a local appearance some time in the future.

"The Knickerbocker Buckaroo," Douglas Fairbank's latest picture, is soon to be distributed by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, and will make its appearance here sometime next month. Advance reports state that this film is one of the most thrilling in which the inimitable "Doug" has yet appeared. Marjorie Daw will play the feminine lead.

"The Jungle Trail," William Farnum's newest picture released through Fox has just been completed, and is said to be one of the most costly productions the star has made since "Les Misérables." The scenes are laid in New York and in the African jungle. The leading feminine role is played by Anne Luther.

Marguerite Clark, who has finished the final scenes of her new Paramount picture, "Come Out of the Kitchen," has gone to California, where she will begin work at the Hollywood studio on Clyde Fitch's well known comedy "Girls."

"Cowardice Court," one of the best known novels written by George Barr McCutcheon, is being filmed in California with Peggy Hyland as the star. Mr. McCutcheon, like Mr. Belasco, makes his bow in this picture as an author for the screen. Another popular novel which is being made into a photoplay is "The Lone Star Ranger," regarded as the best of Zane Grey's books. Both pictures will have a local appearance later in the season.

Norma Talmadge has arranged with the Willys-Overland company of New York to have a motion picture exhibit in their Broadway windows at 50th street during the Victory loan drive. During certain hours of the day Miss Talmadge herself will sell bonds, giving an autographed photo of herself to each purchaser.

May Allison will not be annoyed any more by sensational letters from H. Frederick Pratt, of Los Altos, California, who claimed that she was his "spirit bride." Freddie has been arrested and is detained on an insanity charge.

MOVIE BRIEFS

Roxanna Melowan and Al Ray were married two weeks ago.

Viola Dana has bobbed her hair a la Nazimova.

Dorothy Bernard is playing on the legitimate stage in Los Angeles in "The Man Who Came Back."

Grace Cunard will return to the screen in "The Phantom Raider."

CHARMING JULIETTE DIKA AND MANY NEW ACTS TO BE SEEN AT KEITH'S SUNDAY

Juliette Dika, best of French singing comedienne, will head the list of good acts at the B. F. Keith theatre, tomorrow afternoon and evening. Mile. Dika scored one of the most glib of hits during last week. Her personality is of the undoubted sort, the kind that makes a real impression. Wilson Bros., who are singers and very good natured ones, at that, will also be on the bill, as will Bryan Lee, a black and white checked suits. Heavy lines of work by her. Half of an act is now the whole thing. He has brought out for himself as a good, according to reports about him. "Ave-ate-her" is the catchy title of the act Joe Morris and Floreale Campbell will bring forward. Think of it, she sing and chatter.

Fred St. Onge, the great bicycle performer, will make a novel entrance. Preceded by motion pictures showing him coming from a balloon straight for the roof of the theatre. St. Onge comes from the fly loft with such speed that there is a tremendous lot of noise when he lands. He is associated with May Ritchie, and their act is said to be one of the very best cycle turns in vaudeville.

SUPERIOR BILL OF PHOTOPLAYS AT THE STRAND—SACRED CONCERT

A superior bill of photoplays and musical numbers will once more feature the offering at The Strand for the coming week. The sacred concert will have The Liberty Trio, singing and talking; George and Lillie Garden, violinists; Emma Brosseau, soloist; Lewis and Leona, songs and conversation. The feature picture will be Creighton Hale and Gladys Hulette in "Annexing Bill."

For the first part of the coming week "Three Green Eyes" with an all-star cast, including June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley, Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love and Johnny Hines, will be shown. And Dustin Farnum in "Light of Western Stars," a great Zane Grey story.

During the last three days of the week Tom Mix in "Fighting for Gold" and Madge Kennedy in "Daughter of Mine" will be presented. "Three Green Eyes" the new World Picture, was filmed from a famous play and the picture has even more punch than the play, which was one of the stage's biggest successes. In fact the picture rushes along from surprise to amazement and never slackens its pace to the closing climax. It is a fast-moving, vigorous offering and should find favor with all patrons. Five stars of the screen appear in the cast. They are Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley and Johnny Hines. Think of it—these five stars all in one picture! It is certainly going some to see such an aggregation of the screen's best talent in a single presentation of this kind. The story deals with a young girl who has a school love affair. Her mother, however, persuades her to marry a rich man and before the marriage the girl writes an indiscreet letter to another young man. The girl finally falls deeply in love with her husband and later receives a note from one of her former lovers. Then the excitement begins for her. As a result she has many adventurous happenings, but in the end the whole thing is amicably settled and every one is happy again. The five stars find ample opportunity to reflect their individual talent, while their combined efforts are showing in the extreme. It's an unusual story and its portrayal is decidedly good. You'll like it.

Patrons of the theatre will welcome Dustin Farnum in his big United States production "The Light of Western Stars," which will be shown during the first three days of the week in connection with the rest of a most superior program. This famous stage and screen star will be seen as the wild, but lovable Gene Stewart, ace cowboy of the Southwestern border. With Dustin Farnum's virile, commanding talent and the most thrilling, fascinating of Zane Grey's masterly stories the picture teems with exciting interest.

A Vitagraph comedy and the newest Universal Weekly, and song numbers by Joseph Floriane, who has been retained for another week, will contribute to the exceptional bill.

For the last three days of the week, starting with matinee on Thursday the offering will include one of Tom Mix's latest picturizations, entitled "Fighting for Gold," and Madge Kennedy in "Daughter of Mine." A Sunshine comedy will help make the bill one of the annual sort.

"Fighting for Gold" is described as another of those "rip-roaring" film creations. The story is based on the book "The Highrider" by William MacLeod Rains. It's another splendid estates he submitted a plan to fractionate the land. He told them their monopoly was gone, but promised fair remuneration. They accepted!

The estates, some of which were originally given to courtiers by the Spanish crown and which during four centuries owners had not seen, are being divided into farms of from ten to 1000 acres. No man is to own less than ten or more than 1000.

The land is to be sold at from ten to one hundred dollars an acre, according to its location and water supply. A peon may buy by paying one-tenth down, the balance by installments in ten years.

No peon is to mortgage or sell his land, because Gonzalez believes few landowners will participate in unequalled rebellion.

He has planned to harness the turbulent Balsas river and to furnish water, light and power to the entire state. He has planned an electric line to traverse the state and connect with the interurbans just outside Mexico City.

He is teaching intensive farming to the former Zapatistas, and, by means of lectures and movies, is showing the Indian the progress of the civilized world. He has organized bands to furnish music to the Indians—not doleful, weepy stuff but gladsome energy-supplying jazz.

He is furnishing free transportation into the state for colonists and their freight, has appointed civil administrative officials and has made the Sarranos their own policemen. Hospitals, clinics and free markets have been erected.

He has impressed the Indian that there will be no monopolies. I heard him refuse to permit a hotelkeeper to open a second hotel when his original hotelier became overcrowded. "Nothing that savors of monopoly," he told the man.

EMILIANO ZAPATA WAS SCOURGE OF MEXICO

General Emiliano Zapata, Mexico's apostle of terrorism, and recently officially reported to have been killed by Carranza's troops, was a former plantation stirrup-boy who at the zenith of his rebel power gained temporary control of Mexico City. Twice since 1910 when he began his revolt in Morelos, he and his Indian followers took brief possession of the capital. For nine years he ravaged southern Mexico, co-operating for a time in 1914 with Villa. He was the most implacable enemy of peaceful reconstruction through several regimes. Poor, uneducated, primitive but magnetic, Zapata was the leader of Mexico's half-savage Indians in whose power he planned to place

Practical Auto Tips

Climbing That Hill

It's the ambition of most every new auto driver to "make" the hills on high. It's a dangerous ambition. And besides that it is hard on the engine.

The newer the driver, the less the chances he should take of having to shift gears part way up. It takes quick and expert action to shift from high to second, or on a very steep hill to low, at just the right instant to have the gears mesh properly and to avoid killing the engine.

And if the engine is killed, and the brake happens not to hold, there's every chance of a bad pileup in backing down the hill, or to a position crossways of the road to get a fresh start.

First shift into second near the bottom of the hill. Be sure the car is slowed to the pace at which second speed would carry you if you already had shifted.

In driving up a hill on first or second speed, you must know that your engine has some reserve power, that it is running fast enough so that it will not stall. And if you have to shift, do it quickly so as not to let the car slow down to a point that will kill the engine when you throw in the clutch again.

Care of the Brakes

"Brakes didn't work" has spelled the cause of many an auto accident.

The brakes should bind tightly when pressure is applied, but they should be free and clear when not in use. If a brake shoe binds when the pressure is released, it makes the car run hard.

Sometimes oil working out onto the brake lining will cause the brakes to slip. If you see that this is the cause, wash off the lining with gasoline and then see that the leakage of grease from the rear axle is stopped.

If it is worn linings that cause the brake to refuse to hold, then have the brake relined.

A tendency of the car to skid to one side when the brakes are applied is proof of unequal adjustment.

A few drops of oil on the brake shoes or bands occasionally and oiling of all joints are essential to smooth operation of the brakes.

When You're Stalled

When you're stalled in a mud-hole or a sand pocket, don't frantically revolve the wheels in an effort to climb out. You only dig in the deeper.

In the first place, when you strike a bad stretch of road, it's better to shift gears and move slowly and steadily through it than to try to slam through and then stall.

Once you're stuck, lighten the load, get a helpful shoulder to the body if you can, and try the slow, steady application of power. If she won't climb out and you have no chains to put on, sometimes a piece of rope wrapped a few times around the wheel will turn the trick.

There are several other little things that will sometimes get you out of trouble.

Dig holes in front of the front wheel to give the initial start, then block the rear wheels and repeat the operation if necessary.

Put brush in front of the rear wheels and turn them as slowly as possible.

Set the hand brake fairly tight, if one wheel is on firm footing. This destroys the action of the differential, or fasten the mired wheel so it can't turn and the other wheel will do the work and drag the mired one out.

The Steering Gear

You'll never give too much grease to the steering mechanism of a car.

The steering gear housing should be kept nearly full of grease at all times. Sometimes when the steering gear works hard it's just because the driver doesn't realize just how much grease this part of his car can soak up. And lack of grease means worn parts, early replacement, sometimes accident.

Grease craps on the steering arm and the front axle must have regular attention, too, if the car is to steer properly and the parts kept from wear.

Usually a looseness of about two inches on the steering wheel is allowed. This permits the wheels to meet the inequalities of the road without strain on the arms of the driver by a constant joggling of the steering wheel. If there is too much play there is danger in quick turns and difficulty in driving where the way is narrow. There's more of a tendency to skid, too.

Washing the Car

If you'll use some of the care in washing the car that you do in dusting off and polishing the piano, you'll keep it looking well longer.

Don't go after the dried mud with a hammer, but soak it off with a gentle flow of water from the hose, taking out the nozzle. Wash the mud away slowly and you will not scratch the finish of your car. On the under side of the fenders you can use more force. If you don't use a hose, pour the water on so the mud is carried away.

Dust off the top, and the body too, before you start the washing. When the car is washed, go over it with a soft sponge and be generous with the water. If you use soap be sure it is a soap with no alkali in it, as that is fatal to the polish of your car.

Follow the sponging with a rub with soft, clean chamois.

Castile soap, a sponge and tepid water will remove grease.

When you have to wash mud out of the radiator, turn the hose in from behind so that you do not wet the coil or magnet and cause a short circuit.

If the hood is sponged off after the car has been out in a rain, it will not spot.

Clean leather with ammonia and water, but never with gasoline.

Safety First Hint

Here are a few tips on driving the motor car.

First assume that you must look out for yourself and the other fellow too. Don't rely wholly on the other fellow doing the right thing, and you'll be on your guard if he does the wrong thing, and ready for the emergency.

Never back or swing from the curb into the street without looking back to see if the way is clear.

Glance both ways on each cross street, and if you're not on the main thoroughfare, slow down before you cross. It's safest to drive slowly enough to have the car well under control where buildings hide the intersecting streets.

Do not cut corners in turning, but keep well to your side of the street, and look both ways before you make the turn. Put out a hand as a guide to the car following or approaching.

In passing a slower moving vehicle, pass it on your left, but in passing a street car, always keep to the right.

Do not follow another vehicle too closely. It might stop suddenly.

Stop when the street car ahead of you stops, and stand still till all passengers getting off are out of the street. In most cities this is required by ordinance.

Dim your lights when approaching another auto on the road.

Use common sense at all times and you'll save trouble for yourself and the other fellow.

APPLICATION OF TIRES

The careful application of tires is quite as necessary as the choice of the correct type. Especially should the best adaptation of tire to rim be made a subject of concern.

Before applying a tire all rust and other foreign matter should be carefully removed from the rim. If rust has formed on the rim it will cause trouble at some later time, apart from the corroding influence of the rust. If tires have been driven deflated at any time, mud will probably have accumulated on the rims, and unless this is removed the tires cannot seat or fit properly. The danger of pinching inner tubes can best be reduced to a minimum by dusting soapstone or powdered mica on the rims, so that the tire beads will slip into the correct position easily.

Inflate the inner tubes just enough to round them out before placing them inside the casing. Do not use tubes of the wrong size, and be sure that the valves are equipped with spreaders adapted to the particular type of casing used, whether instance, clincher, quick detachable, clincher or straight side. Valves in Firestone tubes are equipped with a universal spreader, and therefore are suitable for use in all three types.

Dust the inside of the case and the inner tube with powdered mica or talc. This will reduce friction and prevent adhesion of the tube to the case after they have been heated in service.

When the tires have been removed for some reason, it is a good idea, when reapplying, to reverse them, that is, to place the worn sides of the tires toward the car. It is not very generally known, though it is a fact, that almost all of the side wear on a tire occurs on the outside; that is, on the side away from the car. This sounds paradoxical, I know, but it is a fact nevertheless. This is due to road construction, rut wear, curb scraping and such things. The life of a tire may be prolonged to such an extent that a great deal higher mileage may be secured by turning the tires about occasionally to secure even wear upon both sides.

I said that tire and rim should be suited to each other. If straight side tires are to be used on clincher rims, after beads ought to be fitted in the rim clutches to keep the side walls of the casings from being chafed and gouged. To avoid as much as possible the tendency of straight side tubes to lift up from the rim at the inner edges of casings and in this way permit a rolling motion sideways, it is advisable to have more spread between the casings than is needed for beads of the clincher variety.

The best way, therefore, to use straight side tires on clincher rims is not to use them at all. The two types don't mix.

Concluding this subject, the importance of using flaps should not be overlooked. Whether clincher or straight side tires are employed, both rings should be in position. A few folks really don't know these last two things; more people know them and don't do them.

SUPT. WELCH ADMIRES BOSTON COPS' WORK

That the police arrangements in the Hub yesterday were little short of perfection was the opinion expressed by Supt. Welch of the local department, who, in company with police chiefs from many Bay State cities occupied seats in the grand stand near the state house yesterday afternoon.

"The police arrangements for caring for the enormous crowd were of the highest order," said the chief, "and it was the unanimous opinion of the officers from all over the state that the system could hardly have been improved upon. It was efficiency in the highest degree, and added considerably to the success of the event, which is one that I shall never forget."

It was an outburst of enthusiasm and appreciation for the wonderful achievements "over there," an expression put up for almost two years and it broke and ran riot during the entire time that the wave of khaki swept by. It took over two hours for the big line to pass by and over the entire route there was a bellow that it can truthfully be said might perhaps be equaled again but certainly never could be surpassed.

While there were clouds hovering overhead, there was sunshine in the hearts of all and while tears intermingled with cheers all were happy in the knowledge that the heroic boys both here and asleep across the sea were being paid that homage, and respect that they earned on the blood soaked fields of France.

Columns could be written and yet the entire story would not be told. As that great mass of tin-hatted warriors surged by thoughts and sights came that it would be impossible to describe; the heart would throb, the unbidden tear would come to the eye and then suddenly hands would wave, and only an outburst of cheers seemed capable of showing the feeling of the man, woman or child.

It was a continuous roar that accompanied the steps of the "Tanks" as they came and went, a roar that will never be forgotten by all those who stood shivering but happy through many long hours and found satisfaction in the fact that they had played a part in honoring those who had honored us, those who went across the wide Atlantic, infected with undersea plagues, and went to the very jaws of death that we, who were on the sidelines yesterday, might live in peace and happiness at home.

While Boston staged the gigantic reception, all New England and many other sections were represented in the vast multitude and while some accidents inevitably happened, the city and state, the efficient corps of officers and men in charge are to be commended on the remarkably successful manner in which they handled the crowd. Every detail in connection with the stupendous undertaking was executed perfectly and while the tired crowds surged through the ropes and rushed for trains, cars and taxis to return to their homes, they all united in the expression that it was one great day, a day that will live in their memories for ever.

PARADE NOTES

Maj. Gen. Edwards, Brig. Gen. Cole and Col. Logan were accorded mighty ovations all along the line, the reception to the latter, the leader of Boston's Own, being the most enthusiastic.

The Boy Scouts did commendable work, as ushers and first aids to the sick, in many of the grand stands.

The Salvation Army workers were out early in the morning and remained on duty all day. They served doughnuts for the doughboys, and also remembered the scouts, sailors and home guards, who did guard duty.

The boys were showered with fruit, candy, and smiles whenever a halt occurred.

Airplanes flying overhead gave the spectators an idea of the scenes and thrills "over there."

Lowell, true to her traditions, sent a large delegation to participate in the reception yesterday.

One thing that greatly impressed the writer was the remarkably short time it took the multitudes to disperse at ter the parade was over.

All people who had seats in windows were obliged to pay a war tax.

Through the courtesy of Fred Moore, of the Crescent rink, the writer and several others, were permitted to view the great parade from a steam-heated room, in a building at the corner of Berkley and Foylston streets.
